Alfred P. Sloan's Good News.

What Is a Hero?

A Business for W. R. Hearst.

One Visitor, No Ticket.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ONE ENCOURAGING "straw" showing which way the prosperity wind is blowing comes from the General Motors Company.

Mr. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., General Motors president, informs you that earnings on the 43,500,000 shares of his company for the first three months of this year were seven times greater than in the same period last year.

The General Motors Company earned for its stockholders, in three months, after paying all charges and taxes, more than $41,000,000.

WILEY POST got from New York's Mayor O'Brien, a gold medal for heroism and deserved it well. Flying around the world alone in less than eight days, with only twenty hours sleep, requires heroism.

There are all kinds of heroes. For instance Joseph Grund, aged 50, who runs a little milk store, will never get any gold medal, but you might like to hear about him.

HE WAS sweeping out his store early yesterday morning when a young man of the modern type, revolver in hand, said:

"Get in the back."

"What for?" asked Grund.

The bandit replied:

"Don't ask questions, and I will give you a minute to get in the back."

Before the minute was up, Grund had hit the young bandit on the head with his broom. The bandit pulled the trigger but did no harm, and Grund chased him down the street. Asked why he had risked his life with only a few dollars at stake he said:

"I was just aggravated, that's all."

WHAT WOULD you call the greatest heroism? Was it Horatius jumping into the Tiber, fully armed, when the bridge went down? Was it the French hero, Delatour D'Auvergn? Told to keep quiet by English soldiers holding their lances at his breast, instead of keeping quiet he shouted warnings to his friends, until his last breath was gone.

Was it La Hire, fighting the giant bear and praying to the Lord, not to help La Hire, only not to help the bear?

Was it the Roman wife who plunged the dagger into her heart and handed it to her husband, saying "It does not hurt," that he might have courage to commit suicide, according to the emperor's order?

Was it the boy who stood on the burning deck because his father had told him to stay there?

Was it the Russian Nihilist in jail, afraid that torture might make him betray his comrades, hauling himself up to the little oil lamp fastened to the wall in his cell and burning himself to death?

Was it perhaps Daniel in the lion's den, or Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, the three in the fiery furnace that continued praising the Lord, although they were not sure what would happen?

Or was it perhaps old Mr. Joseph Grund, in his little milk store, refusing to be frightened by a revolver pointed at his heart, routing the bandit with an old broom?

What is it that makes "the hero and the man complete?"

FRIENDS OF William Randolph Hearst, of whom there are millions, are informed he has found a new way to keep busy by giving employment to those that need it.

Having already twenty-five or thirty newspapers, in the biggest American cities, some of the most important magazines in the country, gold and copper mines, 20,000 head of Hereford cattle on his 300,000-acre California ranch, 50,000 head of the same Herefords on his Babicora ranch, a payroll as publisher and editor amounting to $50,000,000 a year, and a total publishing business of more than $200,000,000 a year; Mr. Hearst starts his latest business enterprise, "Suncal Packing Company," which packs and sells peaches under the brand "Hearst Ranch Peaches."

THEY ARE good; try them. Mr. Hearst has planted everything on his various ranches, from giant redwood trees that will be full grown in 4,000 years, to strawberries ready next spring, all farming.

James Creelman, brilliant war correspondent, invited Mr. Hearst to luncheon, and explained to him that the artichokes were to be eaten by taking off one leaf at a time and biting off the end.

Mr. Hearst followed instructions carefully, not telling Creelman that at that particular time he was shipping carloads of artichokes from one of his California ranches.

ANOTHER attraction at Chicago's "Century of Progress" Exposition, is a one-day-old baby papoose, daughter of the Pine Ridge Indian Chief Good Lance and his squaw, Owns-The-Horse.

When Mrs. Owns-The-Horse discovered that her papoose was about to visit the exposition she rejected the suggestion that she go to the emergency hospital and retired to a corner of her tepee, accompanied by a lady friend named Annie Shout-At. The papoose arrived comfortably without any exposition ticket or obstetrician.

KIDNAPER OF GIRL TO BE HANGED

First Supreme Penalty In Modern History Set in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 27.—(INS.)—For the first time in modern history, society imposed the supreme penalty for kidnaping today when a jury returned a verdict of guilty and sentenced Walter H. McGee to die on the gallows for the abduction of Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy.

Although it was expected the jury would return a verdict of guilty, the sentence of death came as a shock to the kidnaper and a hushed courtroom.

McGee was visibly nervous, but, too stunned to realize the import of the verdict, the convicted man stood as if struck by a thunderbolt.

MOTHER, SISTER WEEP

McGee swallowed hard. His face grew white and twitching. Standing close by were the condemned man's mother and sister. They broke into violent sobbing.

Miss McElroy, the victim of the abduction, when told of the verdict, said:

"I hope this sentence of death will help to prevent future kidnapings."

She was not in court when the jury returned but maintained a stoic composure when told of the death penalty.

Miss McElroy was kidnaped on May 28 and held for 30 hours. She was released only after the family had paid a ransom of $30,000.

The abduction of the 25-year-old society girl from a bathtub in her home, her release for ransom, the arrests and return of five suspects by plans from Amarillo, Tex., and the indictments and

Mrs. Roosevelt Ends Motor Tour

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP.)—Driving her blue roadster through a heavy rain, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt returned to the White House last night after a motor tour through the East.

Mrs. Roosevelt is expected to remain in Washington until the latter part of the week when she will accompany the President to their Hyde Park (New York) home for a vacation.

Astor Son Denies Mother Will Rewed

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—(Universal.)—Mrs. William H. Dick, of New York, widow of John Jacob Astor, was at the St. Francis Hotel today following her Nevada divorce last week from her second husband.

Auto Kills 3 Boys Asleep on Highway

MARTINSVILLE, Va., July 27.—(AP.)—James Hammond, Howard Hammon, and Arch Purdy, boys ranging in age from 12 to 15, were killed at 2 a. m. today, and Archer Dillon was severely injured when the four boys, lying asleep on shoulders of the Martinsville-Stuart Highway, near Spencer, were run over by an unknown driver.

ARBITER LINKED WITH CAPONE

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP.)—A blanket indictment charging Al Capone, Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, Aaron Sapiro and 21 other defendants on conspiracy charges including bombings, window smashing and restraint of trade was returned by a county grand jury today.

The indictment was regarded as the state's first frontal attack on racketeering and the violence it has brought into legitimate industries in Chicago.

Dr. Squires formerly was arbiter of the cleaning and dyeing industry here, and now is engaged in similar work in the Pennsylvania hosiery trade.

Sapiro was a leader in the early co-operative marketing movement in the United States. A year ago he came to Chicago to act as counsel for the Laundry Owners' Association, which he quit last June 1 upon demand of the state's attorney.

Watson Promoted By Carnegie Steel

Ralph H. Watson, vice president in charge of operations of the Carnegie Steel Company, has been promoted to the post of vice president in charge of operation of the manufacturing interests of the United States Steel Corporation, it was announced today.

Mr. Watson has had headquarters here since 1930.

FOUR FRICK PICKETS SHOT

Mine Superintendent Facing Arrest; Strike Spreads

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 27.—Four striking miners were shot and two others were injured by a hit-run driver.

Twenty-two hundred more miners went on strike.

These were the developments today in the labor disturbances throughout the Western Pennsylvania coal fields.

Seat of the trouble was the H. C. Frick Coke Company mines in Fayette County.

BATTLE FOR UNION

Shots rang out in early morning at the Frick mines at Smock and Colonial No. 3 as the miners continued to demand recognition of their own union.

Three of the strikers were shot in a battle at Smock as deputies were escorting miners to work in a company truck.

In the small group of pickets three fell. They were John Mareka, Andy Smoci and Mike Rakushin, all rushed to Uniontown Hospital with buckshot wounds in the legs.

Later, at Colonial No. 3, George Kifer, 19, was injured in the hip by a sliver of steel clipped off when a bullet severed a cable.

MINE BOSS ACCUSED

This shot was fired by William Mervin, superintendent of the mine, from his auto, according to Sergt. Frank J. Wright, of the state police. Wright said Mervin would be arrested. He quoted Mervin as saying:

"The pickets stopped me with stones, so I fired into the ground to scare them."

Thomas Moses, president of the Frick company, denied there was any shooting at Colonial No. 3.

FIVE CRUSHED BY ULM PLANE

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 27.—(AP.)—The wheels of the plane in which the Australian aviator, Capt. Charles T. P. Ulm, and three companions planned to fly to North America, sank in the sands at Portmarnock Airdrome, near here, today, resulting in injuries to five persons.

Planks were being put under the plane to raise it, but the machine slipped, pinning three persons under the fuselage. They and two others also hurt were taken to a hospital.

Ulm had landed at Baldonnel Airdrome from Heston Airport, a few hours earlier, preparatory to beginning a flight to New York.

TREES SPURS FEDERAL AID HERE

Pittsburgh Member of Board to Speed Work Loans

As a center of unemployment and distress, Pittsburgh and Allegheny County will receive special consideration of their requests for part of the $3,300,000,000 of federal funds set up for distribution under the National Industrial Recovery Act?

That special consideration is according to the letter and spirit of the law as Joseph C. Trees interprets it.

APPOINTMENT ANNOUNCED

Trees' appointment as a member of Pennsylvania's advisory board of three on public works, was announced yesterday in Washington. It brought near completion an organization by which the huge construction funds can be distributed to states, municipalities and private firms.

Two other board members named for Pennsylvania yesterday were A. E. Malmud, of Philadelphia, and L. H. Steinman, of Lancaster. Trees will probably be named chairman. He is a partner of M. L. Benedum, oil magnate and Democratic leader here.

The three, serving at $20 a day, will pass on applications for federal loans and grants for Pennsylvania projects. Their recommendations will be carried to Edward J. Flynn, public works administrator for the three states of Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey. From him they will go to Washington for final disposition.

Trees told reporters yesterday "how little" he knows of his new job. He said:

"I've just read the act—the details and procedure haven't been mapped out yet. It will take a little time.

"As I see it, the problem is to get men to work—all the recovery methods in the world

5,000,000 SIGNATURES ASKED

Government Expects Employers' Replies By Aug. 1

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP.)—American businessmen today began recording official, definite pledges to do their part in President Roosevelt's mighty re-employment effort.

The first of the agreement blanks which are to go to 5,000,000 employers for signature were being distributed, along with addressed envelopes that will take back to Washington the individual promises to increase purchasing power by boosting pay and providing more jobs through shorter hours for those now employed.

AGREEMENT FORMS

The agreement forms not delivered today will be taken around by the mail carriers tomorrow and next day, so that by August 1 storekeepers, industrialists, garagemen, bankers and every conceivable type of employer may present to his postmaster evidence that he has put the agreement in effect, receiving in exchange a poster with the Blue Eagle and the legend:

"We do our part."

Already President Roosevelt and Hugh S. Johnson, his industrial recovery lieutenant, had definite evidence from an avalanche of telegrams that thousands would comply immediately, mailing back their forms today.

Meantime, Johnson worked to remove the hesitation of many who found that arbitrary interpretations of the agreement's clauses would affect their business seriously.

Last night, he and his principal assistants began working out a way to interpret the most knotty questions. They promised to announce decisions today.

MILITARIZED UNITS

Several thousand civic and commercial units which have volunteered to lead nation-wide campaigning to put the plan across received instructions to set up militarized organizations with a general and lieutenant general, the latter a woman, in each community, heading a big staff.

These units will step into action three or four weeks hence. In the final week of the drive they

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(AP.)—John Gilbert, the actor, testified in court yesterday he never had seen Ina Kuhn, writter, who is suing him, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Corporation and Frances Marion, scenarist, for $1,100,000 damages on charges of plagiarism of a manuscript she says she submitted to Gilbert.

Boy Slain in Holdup For World Fair Funds

Volpes Linked in Move To 'Run' Wilmerding

Remnants of the Volpe clan are trying to regain political control of Wilmerding, a witness charged in court today at a hearing on a petition for appointment of James B. Maguire as a deputy constable of the Fourth Ward.

Former Burgess George Monroe testified before Judge W. H. McNaugher:

"The Volpe faction is back of this petition. They want to control the town."

Others opposing the appointment included Police Chief S. M. Holden and Burgess R. W. Bishop. They held that deputy constables were unnecessary, as each of the four wards has a constable and, in addition, the borough has a high constable.

"Holden is chief of police, council and burgess all in one. He is running the town."

Judge McNaugher reserved his decision.

Today's move was the first political gesture attributed to the Volpe faction since the three Volpe brothers, John, Arthur and Jim, were shot to death by gangsters in the Hill a year ago.

World Parley Adjourns With Gloom Relieved By Roosevelt Praises

Hull Sails for Home With Other U. S. Delegates Tonight

Associated Press.

The World Economic Conference, which convened at London June 12 with high hopes for solving some of the outstanding business and financial problems, adjourned for an indefinite period today.

The prevailing pessimism of delegates was relieved by a message from President Roosevelt, who declared that he did not regard the parley as a failure. The President messaged:

"We in the United States understand the problems of other nations better today than before the conference met, and we trust that other nations will in the same spirit of good will view our American policies which are aimed to overcome our unprecedented economic situation at home."

Cordell Hull, Secretary of State and chief of the American delegation, will leave England tonight for the United States aboard the steamship President Harding, calling at Plymouth, Senator Pittman, of Nevada, and

Fair and Warmer Weather on Way

Fair and warmer weather is in store for Pittsburgh, Observer W. S. Brotzman predicted today.

The summer's hottest wave, broken by the rain of the last two days, may not return, but temperatures likely will go much higher by the first of next week, Brotzman said, adding today's high mark will be around 82.

FORBES FIELD, July 27.—The Pirates and Chicago Cubs wound up their series this afternoon with a single contest. Larry French was primed to hurl against a club which gives him more trouble than any other team in the National League. Charley Root was ready to oppose French.

Although the weather was cloudy, the stands held a large gathering of women and girls, the occasion being Ladies' Day.

There will be no baseball at Forbes Field tomorrow, but Saturday will bring a doubleheader between the Pirates and Reds. The same clubs will stage a dual bill Sunday in Cincinnati.

U. S. TO HEAR WHARF PLANS

The city's tentative plans for improvement of downtown wharves will be submitted to federal engineers August 3, Public Works Director Edward G. Lang announced today.

Meeting with the government men in Council chambers, engineers and representatives of the Department of Public Works, members of Council and the City Planning Commission will represent the city.

Maj. W. D. Styer, district engineer, heads the federal delegation whose approval will be necessary for the project. Director Lang announced that the necessary approval of the State Water and Power Resources Board was assured for this week.

At an estimated cost of $4,500,000, the plan calls for the construction of a super-highway by widening Water street along the Monongahela River from Liberty Bridge to the Point Bridge and a similar widening of Duquesne way along the Allegheny River to Tenth street.

Job Agreement in Brief

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP.)—This in brief is what the President's re-employment agreement requires of those who sign it:

An employer of factory or mechanical workers or artisians will not pay less than 40 cents an hour or work them more than 35 hours a week, unless he was paying less than 40 cents for the same work on July 15, 1929, in which case the rate at that time, but not less than 30 cents an hour, may be paid.

All employes paid on a weekly basis receive not less than $15 in a city of more than half a million; $14.50 in cities of quarter of a million up; $14 from quarter of a million down to 2,500; and no less than $12 below that.

These may not be worked more than 40 hours a week, except for specified cases.

Higher-paid employes should not have wages reduced because hours are cut, and a normal ratio should be maintained between minimum and higher paid levels.

Children under 16 may not be worked after August 31, except that those over 14 may work three hours in daylight so long as it doesn't interfere with day school hours.

UNMOURNED, WORLD TRADE PARLEY 'BURIED' IN LONDON

REVIVAL HOPES DIM, CAPITAL BELIEVES

U. S. Too Busy With Recovery Program To Regret 'Death'

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The widely-heralded World Economic Conference was interred in an unmourned grave in London today and there is scant reason to believe it will ever be resurrected—notwithstanding the hopeful funeral orations preached over it.

Washington, feverishly engaged in pushing forward the most revolutionary domestic recovery program in the nation's history irrespective of the world, seemed scarcely aware or concerned over its demise. The administration's eyes for the present are turned inward, not outward.

Only President Roosevelt took cognizance of the collapse of the conference. Acting apparently upon a sudden impulse, he dispatched personally to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald a message of condolence in which he asked the nations of the world for an intelligent understanding of what the United States is attempting to do at home, stated he did not consider the conference a failure, and hinted at its resumption at some future time.

SURPRISE MESSAGE

Mr. Roosevelt's message surprised the capital, for he had stated in reply to questions only yesterday that he would have nothing to say about the demise of the world parley.

No one in Washington, not even Mr. Roosevelt himself, can see any hope for early resumption of the conference. The American domestic recovery program is so vast in its scope, so nationalistic in its application, that it will require months to work out—and until it is worked out there is little the United States can contribute to it. Other nations are not in a contributing mood, as was evidenced during the 46 days the conference met.

Indeed, the arrow of American policy points the opposite direction from the conference's professed objectives. Two of these objectives were currency stabilization and reduced tariffs.

Currency stabilization has been pronounced impossible until the American recovery program is worked out. President Roosevelt retaining his inflationary powers over the dollar as an indispensable club to be used when, as and if necessary.

TARIFF PROBLEM

The industrial codes now being worked out providing for shorter working hours and higher wages not only makes American tariff reduction impossible, but points unerringly toward higher tariffs in order to protect American industry from the influx of more cheaply manufactured goods from those countries which have not set up such standards as are contemplated in the codes.

The American government spent $200,000 in sending its mission to London as a gesture toward world co-operation. Events proved it only a gesture, for aside from a silver agreement the conference produced nothing tangible except tightening lines of economic nationalism, and a foreign disposition to blame America for everything.

The cynics at London said the World Economic Conference was "the conference to end conferences." On the basis of accomplishments and the future outlook, official Washington was inclined today to agree with that epitaph.

Outcome of Parley Disappoints Couzens

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—Returning today from the London Economic Conference, Senator James Couzens of Michigan, sole Republican member of the American delegation, said:

"While I am disappointed at the outcome of the conference I am not willing to admit that it was a total failure."

An effort to dissipate pessimism was made in the final session by Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister and president of the congress, who asserted that the discontinuance of the meetings was a recess and not an adjournment. He said:

"We adjourned not because we are defeated, not because we are discouraged, but because a longer time is needed to attain results."

Mr. Hull in his farewell remarks pleaded for reduction of economic armament, urging governments to study his proposal for continuation of the tariff truce. He said:

"We cannot falter. We will not quit. We have begun and we will go on."

James M. Cox of Ohio, joined with his chief in challenging the nations to keep hammering at economic and financial problems and predicted that sooner or later the conference would re-assemble in an effort to safe humanity.

Premier Hendryk Colijn, of Holland, called the London deliberations a failure and warned that more dangerous conditions might grow out of them.

Finance Ministers Bonnet, of France, and Jung, of Italy, while acknowledging that the conclave had not accomplished desired results, professed hope in future efforts based on what had been learned in the meetings just ended.

From the beginning of the conference dissensions arose over the question of currensy stabilization. The European gold countries insisted that nothing could be accomplished until the American dollar was given a fixed value, but the United States government maintained that such a move was impracticable at present.

Worker on Church Building Injured

David Funderbergh, of 822 Sandusky street, North Side, an iron worker employed on the new East Liberty Presbyterian Church, Penn and Highland avenues, was injured today when a board fell on him in the church, according to workmen.

He was removed to St. Margaret's Hospital with a head injury.

confession occurred in a single week.

Miss McElroy, at the time, said of her captors:

"I don't believe I'd like to see them go to the penitentiary. They treated me with such consideration that I have no malice toward them. They were just businessmen."

On the witnes stand yesterday, however Miss McElroy declared that she had been mistreated by her captors. She said she had been handled roughly by the men and finally chained in a basement to prevent escape.

LINDY TRAGEDY LAW

The Missouri law requiring the death penalty for kidnaping was passed shortly after the kidnaping and brutal killing of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr. The jury's verdict makes it mandatory upon the judge to formally sentence the condemned man to death by hanging.

In demanding the death penalty for kidnaping, Kansas City set an example in the nation-wide campaign to end the dastardly crimes of abductors.

The state in prosecuting McGee, demanded the death sentence vigorously. M. W. O'Hearn, assistant prosecutor, declared in his final plea:

"As soon as the message is sent out of this room that a jury has said a man shall hang by his neck until he is dead for this kidnaping, you will have taken a big step to stop this wave of kidnaping."

Cummings Lauds Death Verdict for Kidnapers

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(AP.)—The sentencing of Walter McGee by a jury to death for the kidnaping of Mary McElroy brought an immediate expression of satisfaction today from Attorney General Cummings.

Busy with plans for prosecution of the federal campaign against abductors, he was informed of the verdict by telephone from Kansas City by his special assistant, Joseph B. Keenan. Cummings said:

"That indicates how the people feel about this problem."

The government has been stirred into action by President Roosevelt to nip the rapidly growing nation-wide kidnap racket.

Striking at organized crime in general, and abductions in particular, the President ordered the Department of Justice to make an intense study of the "snatch wave" which began in March, 1932, with the kidnaping of 20-month-old Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

A super-police force, commanded by federal authorities, is the weapon with which the Attorney General expects to lead his attack against outlaws.

sylvania Security League, who immediately wired Gov. Pinchot:

"Shot at from car of superintendent Colonial No. 3 Frick Coke Company while standing in public highway. Demand state protection."

From Harrisburg later Gov. Pinchot said he had received no information of new developments and Maj. C. M. Wilhelm, deputy superintendent of the State Police, reported the Uniontown district "fairly quiet."

WAITS ON SHERIFF

The Governor added he was still awaiting a definite stand by Sheriff Harry Hackney, of Fayette County, regarding the use of State Police. Pinchot wants to know whether Hackney will agree to allow the State Police to replace local authorities.

In Washington the Labor Department dispatched H. D. Friel, a West Virginia agent, to Uniontown to effect a settlement.

At the junction of the company road and the main highway at Colonial No. 3, an auto which the union men said was being driven by a strikebreaker, ran down two strikers, Mike Plivelich and Joe Mazurizk. Joe, dragged 100 feet, was reported in serious condition at Brownsville Hospital. The driver did not stop, witnesses said.

DISARM STRIKERS

Capt. Jacob Mauk, commander of Troop A, State Police, said today his force would not interfere with the miners so long as they picket peacefully. Yesterday the police, after taking possession of the strike zone, disarmed the strikers of clubs.

The miners told Miss Wight they were being forced to pay off relief credit extended them last winter. Company officials denied this was a practice, except where the miner could afford it.

The total of striking miners in Western Pennsylvania was raised to an estimated 8,000, when 2,200 walked out of six W. J. Rainey mines at Royal and Allison, all in sympathy with Frick and Jones & Laughlin miners.

The Frick company announced its four Fayette County mines are not "closed," but operating with curtailed forces.

Seven new mines in the district are being reopened, giving employment to 1,500 men. Sixty-five per cent of the 3,000 Frick employes are estimated to be on strike, demanding recognition of union committees and their own checkweighmen.

Moses, Frick President, Denies Shots Fired

"There was absolutely no shooting at Colonial No. 3 mine and no one was wounded. This story is all bunk. We understand a boy from Clarksburg, W. Va., was hurt somehow down there, but it was several miles away from Colonial No. 3.

"We had 200 of our employes at Colonial No. 3 tell us they are ready to go to work and all they need is protection, and if the company didn't protect them, they were going to protect themselves.

"Any trouble that has occurred has been wholly on the other side. Some of our men have been beaten up and their automobiles smashed, but they cannot say we have injured one of their men."

REPORTER SEES SHOTS FIRED AT PICKETS

Girl Social Worker in Path of Bullets Laid To Mine Boss

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 27.—I saw four shots fired from a speeding auto today in a crowd of men, women and children. The shots came from a sedan which the crowd said belonged to the superintendent of an H. C. Frick Coke Company mine.

I had just arrived at Colonial No. 3 mine and had parked my car along the state highway to talk with a group of mine pickets. Miss Elizabeth Wight was talking with the pickets at the side of the road. There were approximately 150 of them. Many of them were women and a few were children. There was no disorder when I arrived.

MINE BOSS SPOTTED

As I got out of my car, I heard some one in the crowd say:

"Look, there goes the superintendent."

I asked:

"What's his name?"

The reply was:

"William Mervin."

As I jotted down his name, I heard a shot. I looked up quickly, and as the car sped toward the mine shaft along a company-owned road, about 250 feet away from the state highway, I heard three more shots and saw three faint puffs of smoke.

The pickets scattered in terror. Miss Wight shouted:

"That man shot at us."

"I've been shot."

YOUTH WOUNDED

George Kifer, a youth standing not more than five feet from Miss Wight, clasped his hip and staggered toward me. His father, C. E. Kifer, ran to his aid. The youth exhibited his wound to the terror-stricken pickets. His trousers were ripped, and an ugly wound showed.

I took him in my car to the Brownsville Hospital, a few miles away. An examination there showed that he had been struck by some missle, either a ricocheted bullet or a piece of stone against which the bullet spattered.

The pickets were orderly throughout the disturbance. Not a voice nor a hand was raised in violent protest. Scattered on the bank above the state highway were about 50 men and a group of company deputies. The men yelled to the strikers. One of their remarks was:

"Yah! You'll get more than that if you don't clear out."

Radiator Strike Ends, Union Recognized

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 27.—(AP.)—Settlement of a strike involving 500 employes of the Richmond Radiator Company is announced. The men have been out all week.

Officials said the agreement included the recognition of the foundry employes' union.

Judicial Petitions Still May Be Filed

A dispatch from Harrisburg printed yesterday in the Sun-Telegraph reported that yesterday was the final day for filing judicial petitions for the September primary.

'DROWNED' GIRL FOUND ALIVE

AMBRIDGE, Pa., July 27.—The mysterious disappearance of Mae Rickard, 19-year-old Aliquippa girl, wasn't any mystery after all—at least not to Mae.

To Ambridge police, who found her living with new found friends in Banks street, she said:

The girl, who was believed to have leaped to her death from the Ambridge-Aliquippa Bridge, was found by Ambridge police while they were investigating reports of a fight in Banks streeet. They found the girl but no evidence of a fight.

She told police:

"When I decided to leave Aliquippa I stood for a long time on the bridge. I put my pocketbook on the guard rail and evidently forgot it. When I went back it was gone."

Mae was unable to explain the finding on the bridge of a note and verses indicating she had decided to end her life.

REQUIRE BONDS IN MELLON SUIT

Plaintiffs in suits alleging that W. L. Mellon and other officials of the Gulf Oil Company evaded payment of millions in income taxes must file $500 bonds for every defendant mentioned in the suits.

Judge R. M. Gibson today ordered David A. Olson, who complains that Mellon illegally avoided payment of more than $2,000,000 in income taxes from 1926 to 1930 to put up $500. Olson is suing for $4,000,000, of which he stands to collect half—if he wins.

Albert R. Knight, of Landsdowne, Pa., who is suing F. A. Leovy, W. J. Guthrie and George S. Davison—all officials of the Gulf Oil—must put up $1,500 bond. Judgments are asked in the following amounts: from Davison, $321,865.16; from Guthrie, $271,924.94; from Loevy, $318,004.75. Each judgment is twice the amount of the alleged evasion.

Olson is a former counsel for the Senate Banking Committee and Knight a former manager of the Gulf Oil Company in Philadelphia. Their suits, in Washington and here precipitated a federal investigation.

DRYS PIN FAITH ON TEXANS TO STEM REPEAL

Sheppard, 'Father' of 18th Amendment, Leads Fight

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Senator Morris Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth Amendment, departed for Texas today in a desperate crusade to "turn the tide" against repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment by retaining the Lone Star State in the dry column.

Sheppard predicted Texas, which ballots August 26, would reject the repeal amendment to the Constitution. He waived aside the unbroken record of ratification in the 20 states that have voted on the issue. Sheppard said:

"Texas will turn the tide."

The Senator took with him a huge sound truck, equipped with loud speaking apparatus. He planned to use the truck in touring the state of Texas, making dozens of speeches in every congressional district.

He even will invade the home district of Vice President Garner, who favors repeal and who is expected to take the stump against Sheppard.

Leaders of the repeal movement meanwhile ridiculed the proposed plan of organized dry leaders to attack the constitutionality of the ratification of repeal in those states, where delegates-at-large were elected to the ratifying conventions. This dry strategy was revealed yesterday by Canon William Sheafe Chase, Episcopal cleric and reform leader.

Repeal leaders declared the issue had been ruled upon by the Ohio and Alabama State Supreme Courts, which held the election of delegates-at-large was perfectly constitutional.

They admitted that the United States Supreme Court never had passed upon this particular question.

Harrison Urges Repeal Vote in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., July 27.—(AP.)—A public declaration by Senator Pat Harrison favoring an early vote on repeal in Mississippi was interpreted by Democratic leaders today as an indirect appeal to Gov. Conner for a prohibition session of the Legislature.

The Senator said he had voted for the repeal amendment in the Senate "because my party in Chicago went for repeal" and added that he would vote for repeal in Mississippi if the matter went to vote and he were in the state at the time.

3 Billion Glasses Of Brew Consumed

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—Americans have quaffed 3,021,600,000 eight-ounce glasses of beer since legalization day, April 7, said C. D. Williams, secretary of the United States Brewers Association, today.

Total sales since April 7, he said, have been 8,324,472 barrels. Production in June over May increased 351,000 barrels.

rush of fish, there were no emergency hospitals.

TEACHERS of dancing are told by Arthur Murray, who knows, that the public has wasted more than $1,000,000 learning dance steps that it never can use, because nobody knows how to dance them or wants to know how.

Dancing is old, much older than men on this earth. Jungle fowl danced to please their females. The heavy elephant has a sort of courtship dance, it is said. Primitive men did war dances, stamping their feet, using up as much physical energy as possible, and religious dances, as when David danced before the ark, developed steps no longer remembered.

Dancing is born in the brain to represent certain emotions, also born there.

Menjou to Fight Suit Naming 'Other Woman'

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(Universal.)—Adolphe Menjou, screen star, is going to fight against certain phases of the divorce action brought by his wife, Kathryn Carver, former actress. He said, after accepting service of the papers:

"As to the divorce itself, Mrs. Menjou may have it, but I will resist most vigorously her charge of infidelity, and I will also resist her efforts to obtain any further property settlement.

"In an agreement we signed last October, Mrs. Menjou expressed herself as perfectly satisfied with the sums of money and groups of securities I then turned over to her. I gave her more than half of what I possessed at that time, and I consider she was treated most generously. Our agreement was entirely legal and I believe it will hold in any court."

In Mrs. Menjou's complaint, she estimated the wealth of the actor at $600,000, and asked that she be given all of this. Attorney Ritter declared that the figure named was a gross exaggeration.

Louise Closser Hale Dies After Day's Illness

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(Universal.)—Louise Closser Hale, 61, veteran stage and screen actress and author, died yesterday in Monte Sano Hospital after a day's illness.

The portrayer of many outstanding mother and duenna roles was seized with an apoplectic stroke while she was downtown Tuesday and was taken to the hospital. She suffered another stroke yesterday and it proved fatal.

A native of Chicago, Mrs. Hale was educated at the Boston College of Oratory and married Walter Hale, noted artist and etcher. They traveled all over the globe, she writing and he illustrating.

With the advent of talking pictures, Mrs. Hale came to Hollywood. Among the recent films in which she had featured parts were "The White Sister," "Shanghai Express," "The Barbarian," "Dinner at Eight" and "The Man Who Played God."

Under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, she had just finished work in "Another Language," with Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery.

Mrs. Hale's literary achievements included the novels "Home Talent" and "An American's London," many travel articles in Harper Magazine and the co-authorship of the play "Mother's Millions."

BOY DROWNS AS BOAT HE BUILT WITH COMRADES SINKS

TRAGEDY CAPS LADS' PRIDE IN HANDIWORK

Two See Pal Go Down As Steamer's Wash Upsets Craft

The youthful crew of a crude flatboat, who launched their craft with boyish pride, mourned today for Edmund Kaslewicz, 14, of 29 Enon way.

Edmund, 14

Edmund was one of the young boat builders aboard the craft on its ill-fated maiden voyage on the Monongahela River last night.

The boat sank at the foot of South Thirteenth street. The boys had spent more than a week building it from bits of wood collected along the river.

CAUGHT IN BOAT'S WASH

It was a proud moment when Edmund and Stephen Powanda, 13, of 135 South Twelfth street, cast off and paddled to near midstream. Perhaps the craft would have been seaworthy, if all had gone well, but a steamer passed, and the boat was caught in the wash of the paddlewheel.

The boat began sinking. Both boys dived. Powanda held to the craft as it overturned, but Edmund continued to swim, but soon sank, exhausted.

Edward Manko, 12, of 22 Enon way, who stood on the shore and watched his pals pull the boat into the river, removed his shoes and jumped in when he saw Edmund sink. Edmund failed to reappear and the others turned back to shore and summoned aid.

BOY TELLS STORY

Powanda said:

"We started back for shore after seeing a boat coming from the lock. The waves of another steamer rocked our boat and filled it with water. Eddie and I dove in. I overturned the boat and held to it and yelled at Eddie to do it, too."

Edmund was the son of Mrs. Helen Kaslewicz, a widow. He leaves two brothers and two sisters.

VA. GOVERNOR TO WED AIDE

RICHMOND, Va., July 27.—(AP.)—Governor John Garland Pollard and Miss Violet Elizabeth McDougall, his executive secretary, are to be married.

The announcement, a surprise to friends of the pair, was made by Mrs. Ellen McDougall, mother of Miss McDougall. Governor Pollard has been in California, presiding over the conference of governors. The wedding date was not announced.

Miss McDougall, a native of Ontario, came to Virginia from Florida in 1918. She has been executive secretary to four governors of Virginia—Davis, Trinkle, Byrd and Pollard.

Miss McDougall is 44 years of age. Gov. Pollard, 61, is a widower and has three children.

Weather Conditions.

The Lower Mississippi Valley low is now centered over Arkansas, lowest pressure reported, 29.76 inches, at Little Rock. It is causing cloudy weather over most of the country east of the Mississippi, and showers and thunderstorms were general yesterday and last night over that section. Heavy rains occurred as follows: Memphis, 2.32 inches; Nashville, 2.58; Lynchburg, Va., 2.10, and Washington, D. C., 1.80. The northwestern low is centered over North Dakota, and, while the skies are clear over that section this morning, light showers occurred in the Dakotas and in Manitoba during last night. Relatively high pressure stretches across the middle of the country in an east-west line. Temperature changes were unimportant, except in the northern plains, where the heat wave that overspread the Rocky Mountain states for the past few days is advancing. Temperatures of 100 degrees or higher occurred yesterday over most of North Dakota, western half of South Dakota and eastern half of Montana. The highest was 104 degrees at Williston, N. D.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary. Stake at Franklin is 0.4 foot; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 11.5; Pittsburgh, 10.2; Dam No. 4, 8.3; No. 6, 7.3; No. 10, 8.6, and No. 12, 7.4. The dams are up.

POISON LIQUOR FATAL TO 12

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—(INS.)—Twelve deaths, 10 of them attributed directly to poisonous liquor, today resulted from the theft and sale of 20 gallons of wood alcohol from a West Philadelphia garage.

Four men, two of them partially blinded, are confined to hospitals and physicans fear for their lives. Several others are reported critically ill.

Nine men have been arrested in connection with the case that caused police to issue a blanket warning for all residents of the city to beware of the purchase of the poisonous liquor.

One man went blind while police were questioning him. They claim he admitted stealing the alcohol from a garage and storing it in the basement of a house. He also confessed to "peddling" it throughout West Philadelphia, they said. Others taken into custody also admitted they obtained some of the liquor and "peddled" it.

'BABY' BOROUGH INCORPORATED

Incorporation of Churchill borough, believed the "baby" borough of the state in point of population, was authorized today by Judge Samuel H. Gardner.

The new borough, lying between Wilkinsburg and Forest Hills, has 75 residents Judge Gardner said in handing down an opinion.

The court dismissed exceptions filed by the school district and several residents of Wilkins Township out of which Churchill borough is carved.

The county's newest borough has in it the Edgewood Country Club and is admirably located for future development" the court held. He cited Shields and several other small boroughs as precedents in creating tiny municipalities.

Aimee Eager to Preach Home-Coming Sermon

Doesn't Need Dave For Leaning Post Any Longer

BALTIMORE, July 27.—(AP.)—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, fair-haired pastor — and owner—of Los Angeles' Angelus Temple, wants to hurry home to her congregation.

"I want to see them. I want to preach a home-coming sermon."

This is what she declared from her sitting room in a hotel where, as a guest of the management, she and her party have resided in a four-room suite since she landed from Europe on the steamer City of Havre yesterday.

She said:

"I want to show them I appreciate their loyalty—the more so because of my trouble."

RESTS WITH HEAVEN

Mrs. Hutton, who said she screamed and fell to the floor of her cabin when first she learned of the divorce action filed by David Hutton, her third husband, increased in strength yesterday and this morning. She has decided, she said, to leave the differences between herself and the portly former choir singer, now in vaudeville, "to the Lord."

"Sister Aimee," as she likes to be called, didn't know what to do about the divorce. She said she wouldn't be nearly as surprised as she was with his original action. She claimed she still loved him.

POST TO LEAN ON

The evangelist's daughter, Mrs. Roberta Smyth, asserted:

"I don't believe there will be any reconciliation. The trouble was mother was too kind with him—too loving. She wanted a strong arm to lean upon and he was there."

The evangelist said:

"I feel a new strength, a new courage. I don't want to say I feel a new freedom, but I do want to work until I'm tired.

"After all, why should I make such a fuss over this. It has happened to millions of others. Maybe we will understand each other better now."

Mrs. Hutton would not say that Hutton was absolutely barred from the temple, but she did state that if Hutton's statements about "acting" at the temple were true, he would never return.

She declared:

Willedd Andrews, her attorney, nodded his head.

The Angelus Temple pastor decided, however, to put aside her marital tangles in favor of a trip to the Century of Progress Fair at Chicago, and at once ordered reservations on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Capitol Limited.

Mrs. Hutton vetoed proposals thatt he party travel by air.

KING OF ITALY TO VISIT U. S.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy, will visit America in the near future, a source close to the royal family indicated tonight. The Italian king's visit, he said, probably would be made within the next few months, perhaps earlier.

Gen. Italo Balbo's recent flight with his 24 seaplanes served to "intensify the atmosphere of good will preparatory to the King's visit," the informant said. The King, he explained, has wanted to come to America primarily to return the visit to Italy of President Woodrow Wilson in 1919.

Whether the proposed trip will have any diplomatic significance could not be learned. It was not known whether the monarch will visit President Roosevelt, but the informant said a meeting between the two was "most likely."

RESCUERS FAIL, SEWER GAS KILLS MAN

5 Overcome in Futile Attempt to Save Worker Recover

Five men, three of them McKees Rocks firemen, who were overcome by sewer gas yesterday in a futile effort to rescue Michael Brano, 55, McKees Rocks laborer, from a manhole in which he was working, had recovered today.

Brano, an employe of the highway department of McKees Rocks borough, failed to respond to the efforts of a Duquesne Light Company first aid team, and he was pronounced dead two hours after his removal to the Ohio Valley Hospital. He lived at 700 Bouquet street.

When he went into the manhole at Shingiss and Ella streets to rescue Brano, Mike Karas, of 313 Campbell street, also employed in the highway department, was overcome. Nick Olesonivich, of Ella street, also was overcome when he went to the workman's assistance.

The borough fire department was summoned, and the trio were lifted out of the hole with ropes.

Thomas A. Riley, Francis O'Donnell and Thomas Cain, the firemen who went to the rescue, also were affected by the gas. All were taken to the hospital for treatment.

Brano, police said, had been sent into the conduit to clean out a clogged sewer drain.

BALBO RESTING FOR SEA HOP

SHOAL HARBOR, Newfoundland, July 27.—(INS.)—With his decision made to negotiate the return crossing of the Atlantic with an 1,800-mile hop from here to Valentia, Ireland, Gen Italo Balbo ordered his ment to rest up today in preparation for the hazardous flight.

The time of the take-off was not definite and it was likely a stay of three or four days would be made here in order to get all 24 seaplanes of the fleet in top-notch condition and to get their pilots well rested.

POST ON STAGE TO RAISE FUNDS

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—Wiley Post, globe-girdling flier, turned actor today in an effort to obtain funds to continue his air exploits.

The Oklahoman and his famous plane, Winnie Mae, will appear for one week at one of the theaters at Rockefeller Center. He will discuss his recent record-breaking flight around the world and also will tell something of his plans for future flying.

Post returned last night from Washington, where he was congratulated by President Roosevelt on his latest exploit. The plane was brought to Manhattan today from Floyd Bennett Field on a lighter.

MISS MONA WALKER . . GIVING UP NIGHT-WORKING FIANCE

SHOWGIRL JILTS BAND LEADER

The 19-year-old blonde, at the home of friends in the Oakland Apartments today said she was "through with night club sweethearts—and that means Art."

Said she:

"The marriage is off—and you can say that I'm through with night club sweethearts. I want a man who has a job in the day and stays home a few nights in the week."

Farrar, known as the "baby band leader of Broadway," is now playing at an East End night club. His marriage to the former "Vanities" showgirl was scheduled for August 8. When informed of "Bobbie's" decision, he lamented:

"I'm broken-hearted about it all. But my career means more than marriage."

Miss Walker, who hails from New York and played last fall in George White's "Melody," came back with:

False Alarms Hold Fire Chief's Son

MANSFIELD, O., July 27.—(AP.)—Theodore Seebuger, 32, son of Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger, was held in jail today charged with turning in four false alarms of fire.

Officials said his father would be subpenaed as a witness.

WOMAN'S PLEA CLUE IN CHASE

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 27.—(AP.)—A note telling of bullet wounds and requesting aid today gave officers a new clue in their search for four gunmen who killed one deputy sheriff, wounded another and liberated their prisoner, who was found dead in Huntington an hour later.

Officers said the note was received by a woman reputed to be the sweetheart of a man who rode in the gunmen's car during a running gun-battle with a penitentiary-bound automobile in Jackson County Tuesday night.

They declined to reveal the name of the man sought, or identify the woman. The name of a second man said to have been identified as one of the gunmen also was withheld.

DENNY PUTS BAN ON CUPID 'AIDES'

The "cupids" who hang out near the Marriage License Bureau and solicit business for marrying 'squires had better pack away their bows and darts.

Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny, Jr., is after 'em. He says young couples, bent on matrimony, are embarrassed by the solicitors. He has asked Magistrate Leo Rothenberg to be stern with any "cupids" arrested.

Rothenberg started the crusade today. In police court he warned two to reform, then discharged them.

POISONED ROLL BLAMED FOR 2 DEATHS

Mystery Illness Kills Rich Woman Recluse, Man in New York

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Without a clue and in a welter of unrelated theories, police today sought solution to one of New York's weirdest death mysteries.

A man and a woman were involved. Both died in an upper Broadway restaurant. But, so far as police could learn, neither victim was acquainted, there was no indication of any connection between the deaths, yet both died from the same cause—poisoning.

Henry Jellinek, 50-year-old auto repair dealer, was seized with sudden paroxysms and died in the restaurant while a physician was examining him.

WOMAN ALSO STRICKEN

Lillian Rosenfelt, 45, worth $25,000 but who generally refused to pay for food or shelter and slept in parks or subways, collapsed a short time later in the same restaurant and died in Knickerbocker Hospital.

At first both deaths were attributed to epilepsy or heart failure.

But the autopsies by Assistant Medical Examiner Thomas Gonzales showed death was due to poisoning, that stomachs of both victims showed both had eaten poppy seed rolls.

Yet, so far as police could learn, neither had eaten in the restaurant.

Detectives said the woman had carried a roll in her purse and apparently went to the restaurant to order coffee to accompany it—in keeping with her frugal, eccentric habits.

At the table where Jellinek sat before he was seized, there were no dishes to indicate he had eaten, and waiters said he had not been served.

CLUES LACKING

Relatives of Jellinek and Miss Rosenfelt could give police no aid in solving the mystery.

At the apartment building where the woman lived in a cellar room, police found additional evidence of her strange life. The place was crowded with boxes stuffed with old clothes, books, shoes, papers and miscellany. On the floor and in boxes were thousands of penny chewing gum wrappers, and in cans and boxes stacked around the dark, dank room police found thousands of pencils, buttons and old coins, and cheap jewelry carefully hoarded.

Residents of the building knew nothing of her mode of living, and in attempting to check it police found themselves confronted with a mystery almost as impenetrable as that surrounding her death.

RINGLING FILING DIVORCE SUIT

SARASOTA, Fla., July 27.—(AP.)—John Ringling, circus owner, is said by his attorney, James E. Kirk, to be ready to file suit for divorce from Mrs. Emily Haag Buck Ringling today. Kirk said Ringling would charge mental cruelty.

Mrs. Ringling was seen riding with her husband nearly every evening until a few days ago. Both have been married twice..

The Ringlings were married at Jersey City December 19, 1930, and went on an extensive wedding trip.

Kirk said he believed the suit would be contested, but it was not known here whether Mrs. Ringling had been informed of the impending divorce proceeding.

Ohio Postmistress Not Poison Victim

GALLIPOLIS, O., July 27.—(AP.)—Prosecutor Fred M. Cherrington said yesterday a chemist's analysis failed to reveal trace of poison in the vital organs of Mrs. Ruby Eli, 41, postmistress at Addison, whose body was found in a cistern at her home the night of July 8.

Coroner James T. Hanson had said he was convinced Mrs. Ely was slain and her body dropped into the cistern.

Mother Recovers Child, Disappears

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Walter Whiteman, who placed her 7-months-old baby in the county's care three years ago, has disappeared with the child, county officials say.

Mr. and Mrs. John Scott, foster-parents of little June Whiteman, took her to visit the Whiteman home last night and as they were about to leave, discovered mother and baby had gone.

Hungary's Delegates Pelted by Poems

BUDAPEST, July 27.—(AP.)—A long-haired young man threw copies of poems from the gallery of parliament on the heads of deputies debating the budget. Arrested, he said he was Sandor Berek, and had not eaten for 24 hours.

AGED INVENTOR SEEKS AID

An aged German inventor on the South Side is looking for the means to provide electricity to run his machines and light his shop, where, since 1873, he has invented and manufactured mashing machines, egg beaters and other gagets that are now out of date. He is John V. Ebel, 84, and his workshop is in the rear of 27 South Fourteenth street.

Many of his inventions were outmoded by the coming of electricity. One of them, an egg beater that could do the work of many men, was in demand from bakeries over the country, but "Uncle John" had no capital to manufacture them on a large scale.

Youth Hurt as Auto And Truck Collide

Anthony Bittner, 17, of 2438 Cobden street, was cut on the cheek when a truck in which he was riding collided with an automobile at South Nineteenth and Sarah streets yesterday. Bittner was treated at South Side Hospital.

Wallace Beery To Tour Europe

LOS ANGELES, July 27.—(AP.)—Wallace Beery, film actor, applied yesterday for a passport for a six months' pleasure tour of Europe. He said he and his family expected to sail from New York August 20.

Vet Industries Granted Charter

HATCHET STORY WINS DIVORCE

Five minutes before she left her husband he tried to kill her with a hatchet, Josephine Remish, Wright way, South Side, testified before Judge Thomas M. Marshall, who granted her a divorce from James Remish. The wife also testified:

"Several months prior to the hatchet incident, he attempted to hit me with a pop bottle."

Mrs. Remish charged cruel and barbarous treatment.

Child Hit by Auto, Goes to Hospital

Struck by an automobile near her home last night, Irene Levine, 8, of 424 Atwood street, was taken to Montefiore Hospital. Police said the machine was driven by Harry Dobkin, 20, of 28 South Twenty-seventh street.

MOVIES, UNION SEEK TRUCE

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 27.—(AP.)—Hollywood's five-day movie strike, called by the men who give voice to the films, was on its way toward settlement today, but gestures at arbitration were tentative and qualified by union assertions the walkout still was in full swing.

The five locals of the International Alliance of Theater Stage Employes involved asked the producers last night for arbitration of their difficulties, said a statement over the signature of Patrick Casey, labor representative of the producers. The strikers said they were promised opening of negotiations for settlement if they would return to work.

While the strikers charged the producers with "bad faith" by refusing to treat with union men except individually, they announced Richard J. Green, international vice president of the I. A. T. S. E., would meet today with Casey to discuss terms of an agreement to end the walkout.

Shopping with YOURSELF

IN MANY of our larger cities shopping has become a profession. Experienced women who know the stores and shops, who know merchandise and values have gone into business as "Shopping Guides."

To a stranger, a trip with one of these professional shoppers is a great saver of time and trouble. No matter what the visitor wishes, her Shopping Guide knows just where to go—for quality, materials, styles, sizes, prices, specialties.

Clever? Yes! But any woman can be just as smart. Just turn to the advertisements in this paper and let them be your Shopping Guide. No professional shopper can take you to more reliable or smarter shops than the ones that advertise in this paper. No professional shopper can give you such accurate or intimate details about merchandise, about newness, about style, about quality, about bargains.

The merchants and manufacturers who advertise in this paper are dependable. You can believe in their statements. They have spent their money to tell you what their expert buyers know to be the truth about the merchandise they have selected for you. Their salespeople know their goods intimately.

Study the advertisements. Make a list of the things you need and the stores where they may be had. Be your own professional shopper.

KISS-AND-TELL SLEUTH'S WIFE ON STAND

By KATHERINE DONOVAN
Universal Service

SALEM, Mass., July 27.—A wife betrayed and broken in spirit took the stand in Salem court yesterday, to tell how her husband had outraged her love and destroyed her happiness and her peace of mind—compelled, beyond his conscience and his strength of spirit, to indulge in a guilty love with a beautiful woman now charged with murder.

The wife was Mrs. Mary McMahon, heartbroken mate of Edward McMahon, the Peabody kiss-and-tell patrolman who had described with frankness and in detail his unsanctified relationship with Jessie Costello.

And Jessie, charged with the murder of Bill Costello—her husband and McMahon's friend—listened to the saddened wife as she had listened to McMahon—calm, motionless, staring, expressionless.

THE 'BITTER TRUTH'

She had heard McMahon's cry:

"I am telling the bitter truth. I was advised by a priest to come here and tell everything; and that's what I'm doing."

She heard him say:

"The flesh was stronger than the spirit."

She had heard him say:

"I still think I have a character; but there is a terrible blotch on it now."

And Jessie listened, just as unflinching, with that same impersonal, enigmatical expression, to the testimony of McMahon's wife.

She heard Mrs. McMahon tell of a visit Jessie made to the McMahon home, on the day when Mrs. McMahon had returned from the hospital, after giving birth to a baby. She had ordered Jessie from her house.

TOLD TO GO

Q—Did you have some conversation with Mrs. Costello?

A—Yes. I told her she'd better leave. I said: This is my house and I'd rather you go.

Q—Did she leave the house?
A—Yes.

McMahon, in his testimony, said his wife knew nothing of their guilty love; she did not know, while she was an expectant mother, or while she was giving birth to his child at the hospital, that he and Jessie were having day and night trysts—betraying her and his friend, Bill Costello.

But his wife was not friendly with Jessie, he admitted.

Flames Destroy Railroad's Only Locomotive

BEAVER, Pa., July 27.—The entire motive force of the Beaver Valley Railroad was in wreckage today as a result of a fire that destroyed the road's only locomotive and roundhouse at Vanport last night.

Sparks from the engine started the fire after it had been "put away" for the night, railroad men said.

The line is used as a freight link between the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Railroad at Vanport and the Lake Erie at Bridgewater.

COX' CACHETS ARRIVE

Hundreds of Pittsburghers were in receipt this morning of cachets from Father Cox, mailed from Lourdes, France, commemorating the diamond jubilee of this world-famous shrine. The same commemorative is also in the mails for hundreds of other cachet collectors throughout the United States. They were mailed July 16, the most important day of the jubilee celebration. A few of the covers received by Pittsburghers came under airmail stamps. Every person whose name was on the Lourdes mailing list had donated to the Father Cox unemployment relief fund.

This is the second foreign cachet Father Cox has sponsored. In April he put out a commemorative cover for the opening of Holy Year, which was mailed from the postoffice at Vatican City, Rome. Stamp collectors place a high cash value on these Vatican City covers because they carried a sur-charged stamp, arranged especially for the Father Cox cachet.

And We Doubt Very Much That Suits of This Quality Will Ever Again Reach This Low Level

WHEN these suits are gone the idea of buying carefully worsted suits will be memory. $25 will be the price . . . and neither you nor we will be able to do anything about it. (Only this week one of our fastest selling suits increased $6 in cost). Men in all lines of business, knowing the trend, are anticipating on suits as never before—the selection of three suits at a time is not unusual.

We're glad that prices are going up, very happy that people are being re-employed and wages are increasing. It is the salvation of the country and of every individual. But we think your pocketbook will smile "still and yet" every time you take advantage of a chance to "buy low." You've read this and we believe you'll feel like kicking yourself later if you don't come in tomorrow and get at least one suit.

KING ZOG DYING, STRIFE FEARED ON ADRIATIC

(Copyright, 1933, by International News Service.)

BELGRADE, July 27.—The condition of King Zog, 39-year-old ruler of Albania, has suddenly grown worse, threatening a whole chain of dynastic and political upsets on the shores of the Adriatic and in the Balkans.

Reports reached here today that Zog, suffering from tuberculosis of the larynx, summoned surgeons from Vienna, who refused to operate. Thereupon he called in Italian physicians, whose verdict thus far is unknown.

ITALY ALERT

The Italian government, whose protege Zog has been since he was proclaimed king five years ago, is watching developments, fearing his death may loosen Mussolini's hold on the Adriatic kingdom, where the Fascists are reported to have pushed the building of military roads and otherwise prepared for possible conflict with Jugoslavia.

Belgrade and other Balkan capitals are intensely alive to the situation at Tirana, the Albanian capital, where the emergence of a new ruler, not under the sway of Rome, might disturb the political balance.

The king's followers are alarmed at reports that Zog's mother is plotting a regency during his illness, under his nephew, Hussein Beg Zog, who is reported to be in reality King Zog's son.

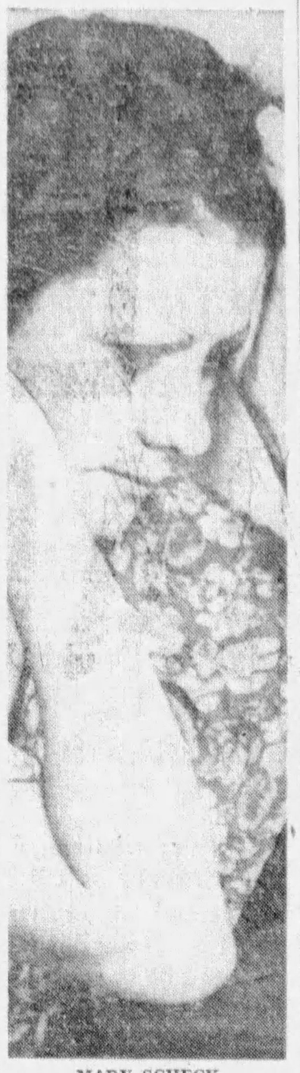
ANXIOUS FOR HEIR

Premier Pandelli Evangjeli is said to have visited Werlatski Beg, wealthy landowner, whose commoner daughter Zog divorced before his coronation. Rumors say Zog is now eager to remarry Werlatski Beg's daughter in the hope of having an heir to succeed him in event of his death.

Who should occupy the Albanian throne has been a problem complicated by international jealousies since Prince William of Wied, the Albanian ruler, fled the country after the outbreak of the European war.

Overtures are said to have been made to William B. Leeds, son of the late American tin plate multimillionaire, and to Harry F. Sinclair, to accept the crown, but without success.

Denying Plot



MARY SCHECK

Miss Scheck, sister of John, prisoner who fatally shot a policeman blocking his escape from a Chicago criminal courtroom, pictured in tears as she denied to detectives that she ever saw the apparently-smuggled gun or knew about the plot. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

LIFT JAIL TERM ON 'SUSPICION'

Declaring jail sentences on suspicious person charges are illegal, Judge W. H. McNaugher today ordered release from jail of Howard Koontz, 21, of Adam street.

Koontz was committed for 30 days on July 14 by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney in North Side Police Court. He had been arrested in Spring Garden avenue at 4 a. m., the court was informed, while returning home after visiting a young woman friend. Police contended he had no right to be out at that hour, according to Attorney Arthur I. Zieger, representing Koontz.

Judge McNaugher commented:

"There is no such charge as suspicious person in the eyes of the law and it is manifestly illegal to sentence a man to jail on such a charge."

Zieger declared:

"If a defendant in such a case as this could only collect damages from the city, this wouldn't occur so often."

Boys Hurt Burning Dynamite Caps

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 27.—(AP.)—Burning "insulation" from "wires" brought painful injuries to 11 Plymouth boys—the wires were dynamite caps which the boys had found on the borough dump. Nine of the victims were treated in a Wilkes-Barre hospital but none was seriously hurt.

Hunt Gems Woman Dropped in River

ST. BRIEUC, July 27.—(INS.)—A French salvaging company began operations today to recover jewelry accidentally dropped in the River Trieux by Mrs. J. C. Blackwood, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Blackwood lost a valuable pearl necklace and a $2,000 platinum bracelet.

Business Executive Dies Aboard Liner

SOUTHAMPTON, England, July 27.—(AP.)—Arthur Richard Smith, former commissioner of New York docks and chairman of a mineral spring company, died today aboard the liner Majestic three hours after the vessel arrived here from New York.

SLATE PICKED IN BEN AVON

Nominees for offices in Ben Avon were named by residents at a "town meeting" last night in the high school auditorium.

Burgess Samuel Carothers, candidate for re-election, will be opposed by W. R. Woodward; for Council the candidates are F. E. Zimmerman, L. J. Riegler, W. R. Woodward and H. Lee Moore; for School Board, Mrs. R. L. Thompson, M. M. Grubbs and Mrs. R. L. Thompson, the latter for re-election.

Mrs. Hattie B. Spencer, borough tax collector, will be opposed by Esther H. Cummins. J. A. Nixon was the nominee for auditor.

TOWNS TO SEEK IMPROVEMENTS

An organization to promote civic improvement in Southwestern Allegheny County and to insist on an adequate share in the proposed public works program to be undertaken with the federal aid funds was formed at Greentree by 10 communities last night.

The communities in the organization, the Association of Southwestern Allegheny County, are Bridgeville, Crafton, Ingram, Carnegie, Dormont, Mt. Lebanon, Scott Township, Greentree, Thornburg and the West End Board of Trade.

Protest of U. S. Vets Rejected by French

PARIS, July 27.—(AP.)—A protest by the 316th Infantry Association composed of American war veterans mostly from Pennsylvania, against changing the inscription on a monument originally erected to the memory of the regiment's dead at Sillon Fontaine, near Verdun, was rejected today by the Council of State.

'Tired of Life,' Mill Official Kills Self

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—William Abrams, 50, vice president of the Progress Knitting Mills, in Paterson, N. J., committed suicide today in a hotel room by shooting himself with a revolver.

He left notes saying he was "tired of living" and that the world had "licked" him.

Homestead School Coal Contract Let

Custer Survivor, Stricken, Recovering

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 27.—Richard A. Roberts, 84, Charleroi borough clerk, and one of two survivors of the Custer massacre in 1883, was recovering from a paralytic stroke today.

Roberts and Edward Pigford, of Pangburn Hollow, Allegheny County, were messengers under Custer and had been sent back with dispatches two hours before the attack which wiped out the battalion.

Lincoln Highway Bridge Held Peril

HARRISBURG, July 27.—(INS.)—Headed by Jere West, Bedford, a delegation of more than 200 persons, representing nearly every city and borough on the Lincoln highway between Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, yesterday urged Gov. Gifford Pinchot to authorize replacement of a dangerous iron bridge west of Bedford.

The Governor said he would not promise immediate action but would give careful consideration to the request.

Youth in Girl Ward Case Freed on Bond

Robert Herring, 20, of Moredale avenue, Overbrook, was at liberty today in $2,000 bond pending a hearing before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan on a charge growing out of alleged mistreatment of a 14-year-old girl ward of Juvenile Court. Herring, the sixteenth arrest in the investigation of conditions under which Juvenile Court wards live, will be arraigned tomorrow.

Still Raid Captive Held for Court

Fred Harstein, of Donora, arrested by prohibition agents when they seized a 1,000-gallon still Tuesday night, near Bettis Field, was held for court under $1,500 bond at a hearing before the United States commissioner. In addition to the still, which agents said was in operation, a large quantity of moonshine whiskey and mash were seized, it was said.

Two Shot in Row Over Boxing Bet

An argument over a $2 bet on a prize fight resulted in the shooting early today of Clifford Garrett, 28, Negro, of 409 South avenue, by Joseph Brown, of Sturgeon street, according to police.

A second Negro, slightly injured by a stray bullet, is being sought by police. Brown fled after the shooting, police said. Garrett's wound was treated at the Allegheny General Hospital.

To the customers of the store
McCann employees want to say ...

Again and again in the store, you have asked us, "Have you had your salary increased yet?"

We were so surprised we didn't know quite what to say to you. The truth of the matter is McCanns has always paid us a living wage and we have received darn few salary cuts. Just one general wage cut back in 1932 ... one general cut that wasn't more than 6 percent for those of us receiving less than fifty dollars a week.

That six percent cut made in 1932 will be given back to most of us July 31st ... none of us will have to work more than 40 hours a week ... no one in the store will earn less than fifteen dollars a week ... and additional help will be hired to take care of the overflow work.

For years we've been protected outright (no cost to us at all) by life insurance policies of one thousand dollars and up. Two years ago these policies were made to include benefits for illness and injury for which we share the slightly increased premium cost equally with the management.

For years, too, we have shared in the profits of the firm. Every year we saved a month's salary, the firm doubled the amount for us. In that way many of us saved enough to buy homes, and lots of us have a tidy little sum tucked away against a rainy day besides. That has been suspended. It had to be when profits were wiped out three years ago. In place of it we now have straight savings accounts. The fact that most of us are saving an average of a dollar twenty-five a week is good proof that we have been fairly paid for our work.

And whenever any one of us has gotten up against it ... not able to meet the hospital bill when a new arrival came into the family ... not able to meet the taxes on a home because of other unforseen expense ... why the management loaned us the money and helped us in every way they could.

From our hearts we say to you: we're glad to be working for McCanns. They've always played fair and square with us.

PECORA FAVORS STOCK MARGIN REFORMS

(Editor's Note—Ferdinand Pecora, who is conducting an inquiry into stock market practices, is in favor of "applying the brakes on margin trading," he discloses in the following article written from an exclusive interview.)

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 27.—"The American people evidently haven't learned the lesson of the 1929 stock market crash."

Ferdinand Pecora, special counsel for the Senate Banking and Curency Committee, who has begun an inquiry into the New York Stock Exchange, made this observation today in an interview in which he told of his plans for an exhaustive investigation of market conditions.

PUBLIC BACK

Pecora said there seems to be no question but that the general public, so hard hit in the 1929 crash, is back in the market to a large extent. He is opposed to stock market gambling as differentiated from investment and believes something should be done to prevent violent market fluctuations—such as, for example, last week's sudden collapse of prices.

"Applying the brakes to margin trading" is, in his opinion, one of the most logical steps to put an end to stock market gambling.

Speculation would be reduced, he declared, if those in the market were forced to buy on a 50 per cent margin rather than on a 25 per cent margin, as at present.

Pecora and his trained staff are now in the process of inquiring into stock exchange practices and, among other things, they are investigating the cause of the drastic declines in the market last week which for a time seemed to threaten President Roosevelt's economic recovery movement.

MEETS WHITNEY

Asked to express his attitude on violent price fluctuations on the exchange, such as occurred unexpectedly last week on the heels of a rising market, Pecora said:

"When violent fluctuations are the result of manipulation or are due to the operation of forces which are within the control of persons connected with the exchange, those forces should be brought within some form of regulation which would restrict their operation."

Pecora recalled that when he examined Otto H. Kahn during the recent inquiry in Washington they discussed gambling in stocks as distinguished from investment. Pecora said:

"My own feeling is that sheer gambling should be curbed if it is at all possible to do so."

He declared that the conclusion that gambling has been going on in the market "is inescapable."

Vets Go for Wine But Bottle Is Bare

TEMPLE, Tex., July 27.—(AP.)—Eighteen years ago Capt. W. S. Riggs, first Mayor of Belton, placed a bottle of wine in a bank vault against the time when only three survivors of the Belton Camp of the United Confederate Veterans remained.

Today J. H. Killingsworth, of Prairie Dell, went after the wine so he, T. H. Bridges and W. N. Steele could sit down in Confederate Park, drink it and recall the deeds of Bell County's soldiers.

The bottle was there, but it was empty. Some one had managed to break through the paper wrappings, loosen the cork and drain the liquor out through the end of the pasteboard box container.

The three survivors postponed their reunion.

HANDICAP

The telephone rings—who can be calling? The infinite possibilities lend spice to life. A friend, perhaps, with sprightly news . . . your next-door neighbor . . . an invitation . . . an offer of work! • But without a telephone, many an urgent message may be delayed. Many an opportunity may pass you by. • You are doubly handicapped. For the usefulness of the telephone is not limited by the calls you get. Even more important to remember are the calls you make!

Compare the value of the telephone with its small cost—less than 10 cents a day—and then ask yourself: "Can I afford to be without a telephone in my home?"

FILM STARS -:- Bob Montgomery, Vera Allen -:- ON THE AIR

London Talk By M'Donald Broadcast

Robert Montgomery, film favorite, is guest of honor at Rudy Vallee's variety party tonight.

Assisted by Vera Allen, star of the stage and screen, Montgomery presents a scene from Noel Coward's "Private Lives." Mary Charles, returning from a series of concerts on the Continent, brings to the program a group of new song hits. There'll be another candle on Rudy's birthday cake after tonight, and several novelties in the show will mark the occasion over WCAE from 8 to 9.

Radio Opinions

NBC thinks the American public is composed of Russian princesses, taxi drivers, housewives and newspaper editors. As a fair cross-section of a radio audience, one of each is interviewed by William Lundell, announcer, over an NBC-WCAE network at 4:30 this afternoon. The question: "What do you think of radio?"

Harvard University's new $50,000 organ is heard on the air for the first time, through KDKA at 7:15. Installed in the University's million dollar Appleton Chapel, it is a memorial to a Harvard student killed in the World War. Dr. Arthur A. Phelps, of the Cathedral of St. Paul in Boston, will be at the console.

A gold mine stock selling jamboree ends in a fiasco, on the Death Valley program on KDKA at 9.

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

If Fannie was perturbed because Clara didn't send her a Christmas card in 1911 it wasn't Clara's fault. The postcard was mailed December 23 of that year, but was just received by Mrs. C. Hays, of Howley street, yesterday. It wasn't meant for her, but for Fannie Hays.

Not that I make a habit of reading other people's mail, this card says: "Dear Fan—Expect me on Christmas, if nothing happens." I wonder if Fannie stayed home that Christmas Day.

"Gus" Haller, treasurer of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh and recent parachute leaper, called to say that he wasn't injured when he bailed out of his glider at Elmira, N. Y. Also that he wasn't surprised by the storm, but to see what happens in a storm at a high altitude was the reason his glider was part of an airplane tow. He found out when a severe gust at 500 feet cracked his wing structure. He stuck with the ship for another 500 until the wing went "blooey" before he decided to make his initial parachute leap.

Gliding, he says, is becoming more and more important to test air currents and meteorological conditions, as well as a sport. "Gus" claims that it is no more dangerous than golf and a lot more fun.

Wilkinsburg Globe-Trotters went to work chuckling yesterday morning—at least those who stopped in front of a furniture store to look at the dog who spent the night sleeping in the bed displayed in the window. The pup was still tucked under the covers with his little head on the pillow the following morning.

I wonder if the shopkeeper thought it so cute.

It was a satin spread.

By AIRCASTER

Columbia Broadcasting System reports no less than 10 shows have just signed up for the autumn, including Threads of Happiness, due for resurrection September 29; Just Plain Bill, on the 24th, and Roses and Drums, on the 3rd.

I wonder what Kate Smith is planning after her contract with the cigar rollers expires on September 17 . . . and if she'll listen to that soft drink mixer's offer, or prefer to go sustaining for a bit.

I like the Japanese sense of humor . . . The Nipponese lads who control Tokio's broadcasting have just ruled that announcers must take examinations for "common sense" in addition to diction tests.

* * *

Speed on Air?

How fast should a speaker talk on the air—if at all? . . . The query intrigues F. H. Lumley, of Ohio State University, who, by a series of tests, has discovered that educators, news commetators, announcers, politicians, and clergymen strike an average of 162 words a minute.

The speed, of course, should really be 100 words a minute, which President Roosevelt registers, and when he finds himself exceeding the pace, he pauses for a drink of water . . . Some of the "pep talkers," however, attain 270 syllables, and 207 words a minute.

* * *

Grofe Must Move

Sometime in September, the Ferde Grofe cigaret ventillations will have to give up the two spots now held, and take others, to make room for the return of old sponsors who have an option on the time.

It was nice of Sir James Barrie to give Eva Le Gallienne permission to do "Peter Pan" on the air, August 2, for the sake of kids.

In anticipation of musical shows, which may exceed the 60-minute time limit this winter, Lew White points out one advantage . . . If you must sit and listen to a long show, you might be consoled by the fact that there'll be no late-comers stepping all over your feet.

Gamblers might like to accept the challenge of Buddy Wagner, the orchestra conductor, who offers to pay good money to anyone who requests a tango that he can't play from memory.

THIS IS THE REASON, Bette Davis, WHY YOU WANT ONLY...

Real Mayonnaise

Height, 5 ft. 3½ in. Weight, 106 lbs.
Ankle, 8 in. Bust, 32 in.
Waist, 23 in. Hips, 36 in.

Thousands who have seen Bette Davis' lovely figure in "Ex-Lady," her latest Warner Bros. Picture, will resolve to follow the famous Hellmann Slenderizing Plan. Just substitute two salads every day, served with Hellmann's Mayonnaise, in place of heavy, fattening foods.

Slenderize with Salads!

The picture diagram below shows you that "Salad Dressings" contain 30% to 40% water and "fillers"... No wonder they cost a little less!

And no wonder, Miss Davis, that not even the finest so-called "Salad Dressing" can compare in any way with a good mayonnaise!

So don't be misled by extravagant claims! Don't be fooled by "Salad Dressings" which masquerade as true mayonnaise.

If you can possibly afford it, buy Hellmann's Mayonnaise. There is no real substitute for its fine ingredients . . . its choice salad oils, eggs, selected vinegars, imported spices . . . the same ingredients you use in your own kitchen.

No imitation can give you the same delicious flavor, velvet smoothness, and valuable health benefits.

But . . . if you feel that you cannot possibly afford this supremely fine mayonnaise . . .

Then we urge you, by all means, to try our new Hellmann's Salad Dressing!

A far finer Salad Dressing

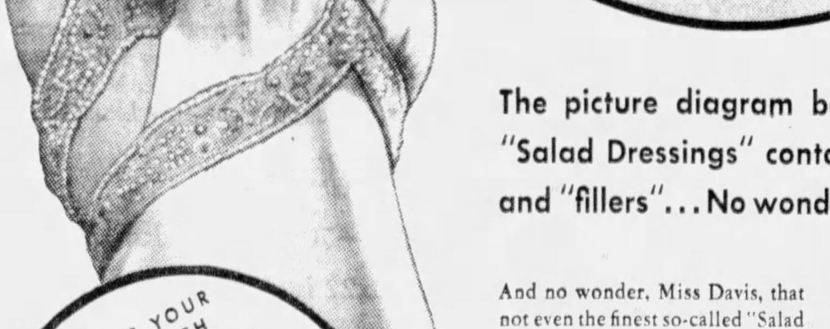
We have introduced this fine new Salad Dressing for all those women who feel they cannot afford Hellmann's Mayonnaise . . . and yet want the protection and assurance of highest quality that go with the Hellmann name.

The new Hellmann's Salad Dressing is the finest and purest that can be made. Women who have tried it say it is marvelously smooth in texture. Delicious in flavor.

Here, you can be sure, is one salad dressing that is offered to you honestly, that you can buy safely . . . the one salad dressing that is backed by the Hellmann name and reputation.

WHAT A NIGHT! August 4th. Fred Allen back on the air! With Portland Hoffa, Tiny Ruffner, Ferde Grofe and his band. N.B.C. Stations. 9—9:30 E. D. T.

WHY SALAD DRESSING COSTS ⅓ LESS



NO WATER IS ADDED TO REAL MAYONNAISE. Hellmann's Mayonnaise, you know, is made from breakfast eggs, fine salad oils, imported spices and selected vinegar—no water is added, no "fillers," no cooking. While even the finest salad dressing, as you see, contains inexpensive "fillers" and water (as much as 30% to 40%) to give added bulk so it can be sold for slightly less than real mayonnaise.

TREES TO PUSH WORK LOANS HERE

WANTS TO HELP

"I certainly want to help Allegheny County. We've felt the depression here harder than in the country. It is no use creating a lot of work so far away people have to move to get to it and then spend all their money to live."

A multi-millionaire, Trees smilingly admitted the daily $20 he'll receive for his work means nothing:

"I'm certainly not going into this job for profit. I just want to help out, that's all. I'm going to pitch into this thing and see if I can't get it going."

Trees expects instructions on procedure from Flynn early next week. Following that, early organization to accept applications for funds is expected.

THREE METHODS

There are three ways in which smaller governmental units can obtain money from the administration under the Recovery Act. Both city and county have their eyes on all three.

Pennsylvania is expected to receive about $19,000,000 of the "not less than $400,000,000" Congress has ordered distributed as outright gifts to the states, the money to be used in road construction.

The second category is also of outright grants. The administration will pay up to 30 per cent of the cost of public works programs it approves, if local units provide the balance.

The third category includes loans from the administration for self-liquidating work projects—such as toll bridges and the North Park swimming pool advocated here by the County.

Appointment of Trees Hailed in Capital

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Announcement of the appointment of Joseph C. Trees as head of the Pennsylvania state advisory board of the Federal Emergency Administration of Public Works is regarded here as good news for the Pittsburgh district in its efforts to relieve unemployment through nationally-aided building projects.

To the Pennsylvania state board, composed of Mr. Trees, A. E. Malmed, of Philadelphia, and J. Hale Stineman, of Lancaster, will be referred all state public works projects. The recommendations of this board to Edward J. Flynn, regional administrator, will go a long way toward securing the adoption of the various projects.

While these boards will act without prejudice, it is remembered that Mr. Trees is familiar with the large and comprehensive plans which have been formulated by the county of Allegheny and the city of Pittsburgh.

Joseph F. Guffey, on his return to Washington yesterday, was the first to congratulate the new appointees, all of whom received his recommendation. He stated also that he favored Mr. Flynn for regional administrator.

Trees was a delegate from the Thirtieth Pennsylvania District to the Republican national convention in 1932. He is the close business associate of M. L. Benedum, Pittsburgh Santa Claus to the Democratic National Committee, but he is first of all a business man who understands Pittsburgh's problems.

NRA Pledge Forms Going to Employers

Letter carriers in this district today were ready to deliver forms which President Roosevelt has asked employers to sign and return as evidence of their willingness to co-operate with the National Recovery Administration in providing jobs.

On August 1 each employer who has signed his agreement is to sign a certificate showing he has complied with the plan.

He may take this certificate to his postoffice and receive posters showing he is a member of the N. R. A.

Every consumer who wishes to co-operate after August 12 may go to a local office, the location of which is to be announced later, and sign a statement of co-operation.

He may then use the insignia of membership in the N. R. A.

The plan is to extend the benefits of codes of fair practice to workers in industries not sufficiently organized to adopt codes or where codes have not yet been completed.

Each district of the Department of Commerce and each state is to have a recovery board whose members shall work without compensation. In addition each state is to have a recovery council to consist of representatives of civic organizations.

These councils are to assist the recovery boards.

The President's announcement said that there is to be no force except conscience and opinion. It is to be a test of patriotism.

GARAGE MEN PLEDGE AID

The Greater Pittsburgh Garage Men's Association, in a letter to Administrator Hugh S. Johnson, today pledged full support of the Recovery Act.

The association has adopted the questionnaire form used by the International Garage Men's Association and is sending a copy to all garage owners in Allegheny County.

According to William Fisher, president, the association also has offered to assist Gov. Pinchot in establishing a state code for the garage industry.

Plans to enlist the restaurant industry in behalf of the national Industrial Recovery Act will be discussed at a meeting of restaurant owners and managers in the William Penn Hotel tonight. The meeting, under auspices of the Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association, will be in charge of R. L. Gammon.

A code of ethics will be formed and submitted to federal authorities for approval with the National Restaurant Association.

CHEVY RAISES PAY OF 40,000

DETROIT, July 27.—(AP.)—William S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor Car Company, today announced a 15 per cent increase in the hourly wage rate for 40,000 workers in the 20 Chevrolet and Pontiac automobile plants in Michigan and other parts of the country.

The increase, he said, with the 5 per cent raise announced in May, makes the total increase 20 per cent.

Knudsen said the increase will be effective August 1.

In addition, Knudsen also announced that all salaried employes earning under $1,800 a year would be given an increase of 10 per cent. Officials of the company said that, by means of the increases, $1,250,000 in additional wages and salaries will be distributed to workers.

U. S. SENDS JOB AGREEMENTS

will make a block by block canvass to make sure of compliance by pledge-bound employers, to get after any who have not joined, to survey the unemployed to determine what work they are suited to, and help place them.

Coincidentally with this work on the emergency drive, Johnson and his officials began hammering into shape codes on which no suitable agreement was reached in open hearing, and making arrangements for a steady succession of public sessions on more of these lasting compacts of industry.

One such code for shipbuilders was promulgated last night by the President.

Postal Officials Here To Distribute Pledges

Postal authorities here were ready today to put in the hands of Pittsburgh district employers the means for pledging support to President Roosevelt's re-employment program.

All they needed were the blank cards and badges for distribution. These were expected to arrive from Washington soon, possibly today.

Expecting the shipment last night, Postmaster James B. Anderson and a large force of workers were prepared to distribute the material today, but none arrived. Shipments for the West passed through the city.

Letter carriers have made a survey of establishments on their routes employing three or more persons and know just how many deliveries they will have.

Certificates of co-operation will be given the employers. Those signing will receive packages, each containing two outdoor display cards, two indoor cards, two hangers, 10 large stickers, 20 small stickers, 20 consumers' stickers and 20 consumers' statements of co-operation.

The postal force may be augmented by substitutes if necessary.

CITY ADVANCES RECOVERY PROGRAM

President Roosevelt's recovery program advanced along three lines in the Pittsburgh district today, following the send-off yesterday at the initial meeting of the Chamber of Commerce's "Committee of 500."

Under the chairmanship of former Gov. John S. Fisher, the meeting of industrialists and representatives of almost 200 civic organizations appointed sub-committees and heard appeals for co-operation voiced by several speakers.

These included Col. Samuel Harden Church, the Rev. Dr. J. J. Callahan, president of Duquesne University; Joseph Trees, P. T. Fagan and Representative John J. Kane.

JOHNSON AIDE DUE

Details of the committee's program of education and organization to further the recovery move will not be complete before next week, when a representative of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, will arrive here to address its second meeting.

In response to the President's message, Burgess Daniel Burns, of New Kensington, and Burgess John W. Hunger, of Arnold, have called a meeting of merchants for 8 p. m. tonight in the town hall, Fourth avenue, New Kensington.

TO TAKE UP CODE

An effort will be made, they said, to effect a voluntary code fixing minimum wage and maximum work hours.

A meeting of wholesale dealers in Pittsburgh will be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce to discuss the National Recovery Act and the emergency recovery move.

Father Gets Job, Names Child 'Nira'

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—(AP.)—From the happy couple who named their new-born daughter, "Nira," to the iron works which telegraphed President Roosevelt, "O. K., Chief," Pennsylvania continues to rally to the National Recovery Administration's program.

Ten thousand residents of Donora gleefully buried Old Man Depression last night after a long hunt for a wooden box which they considered shabby enough to show the community standing of the "deceased."

The couple who named the baby Nira are Mr. and Mrs. Christopher J. Collins, of Philadelphia. Collins credits the National Industrial Recovery Administration (N. I. R. A.) for an assist in finding a job after several months' unemployment.

CITY TO SHARE IN NAVY WORK

That was the word from Washington today as the Navy Department began receiving bids for construction of 21 new fighting ships. More than $95,000,000 is to be spent on materials for the 32-ship program of President Roosevelt.

Naval officials said the Pittsburgh district could expect a big share of the work, since Pittsburgh industries are among the largest bidders in the field.

Steam turbines, electrical equipment and steel plates are to be provided—supplies that are a particular specialty here.

It is the administration's intention to bring the United States' sea power closer to London treaty limits. President Roosevelt allotted $238,000,000 of public works money for this purpose. Washington dispatches said the remainder of the program will be assigned soon to Navy yards.

Postal Telegraph Raises 17,000 Wages

NEW YORK, July 27.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt's appeal to the nation's employers brought fresh results today and new pledges to the blanket recovery code.

The Postal Telegraph Company announced yesterday it has raised wages of its approximately 17,000 employes in the country by 6 per cent, retroactive to July 1, 1933.

6,000 Glass Workers Get 20 Pct. Pay Raise

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 27.—(INS.)—About 6,000 workers of the automatic machine branch of the glass bottle industry will receive wage increases of 20 per cent, according to decision of manufacturers and union leaders at their annual conference. This increase will raise the wage scale back to the 1931-32 basis.

I've always found that really good reasons are the simplest reasons. For instance, I know that sunshine mellows and heat purifies. "Toasting" is therefore very easy for me to understand. And very easy for me to appreciate—because—my sense of the fastidious is so very exacting. You see, I'm always aware of the fact that my cigarette comes in such intimate contact with my lips. Quite naturally, it's the purity of "Toasting" that I single out for special praise. It's just my own personal feminine reason for saying "Luckies Please!"

ROOSEVELT'S EMPLOYMENT PLAN TEXT

During the period of the President's emergency re-employment drive, that is to say, from August 1 to December 31, 1933, or to any earlier date of approval of a code of fair competition to which he is subject, the undersigned hereby agrees with the President as follows:

1—After August 31, 1933, not to employ any person under 16 years of age, except that persons between 14 and 16 may be employed (but not in manufacturing or mechanical industries) for not to exceed three hours per day and those hours between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., in such work as will not interfere with hours of day school.

2—Not to work any accounting, clerical, banking, office, service, or sales employes (except outside salesmen) in any store, office, department, establishment, of public utility, or on any automotive or horse-drawn passenger, express, delivery, or freight service, or in any other place or manner, for more than 40 hours in any one week and not to reduce the hours of any store or service operation to below 52 hours in any one week, unless such hours were less than 52 hours per week before July 1, 1933, and in the latter case not to reduce such hours at all.

Artisans' Hours

3—Not to employ any factory or mechanical worker or artisan more than a maximum week of 35 hours until December 31, 1933, but with the right to work a maximum week of 40 hours for any six weeks within this period; and not to employ any worker more than eight hours in any one day.

4—The maximum hours fixed in the foregoing paragraphs (2) and (3) shall not apply to employes in establishments employing not more than two persons in towns of less than 2,500 population which towns are not part of a larger trade area; nor to registered pharmacists or other professional persons employed in their profession; nor to employes in a managerial or executive capacity, who now receive more than $35 per week; nor to employes on emergency maintenance and repair work; nor to very special cases where restrictions of hours of highly skilled workers on continuous processes would unavoidably reduce production but, in any such special case, at least time and one-third shall be paid for hours worked in excess of the maximum. Population for the purposes of this agreement shall be determined by reference to the 1930 federal census.

Minimum Pay Proposed

5—Not to pay any of the classes of employes mentioned in paragraph (2) less than $15 per week in any city of over 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14.50 per week in any city of between 250,000 and 500,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; nor less than $14 per week in any city of between 2,500 and 250,000 population, or in the immediate trade area of such city; and in towns of less than 2,500 population to increase all wages by not less than 20 per cent, provided that this shall not require wages in excess of $12 per week.

6—Not to pay any employe of the classes mentioned in paragraph (3) less than 40 cents per hour unless the hourly rate for the same class of work on July 15, 1929, was less than 40 cents per hour, in which latter case not to pay less than the hourly rate on July 15, 1929, and in no event less than 30 cents per hour. It is agreed that this paragraph establishes a guaranteed minimum rate of pay regardless of whether the employe is compensated on the basis of a time rate or on a piecework performance.

Wage Cuts Barred

7—Not to reduce the compensation for employment now in excess of the minimum wages hereby agreed to (notwithstanding that the hours worked in such employment may be hereby reduced) and to increase the pay for such employment by an equitable readjustment of all pay schedules.

8—Not to use any subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this agreement which is, among other things, to increase employment by a universal covenant, to remove obstructions to commerce, and to shorten hours and raise wages for the shorter week to a living basis.

9—Not to increase the price of any merchandise sold after the date hereof over the price of July 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary by actual increases in production, replacement of invoice costs of merchandise since July 1, 1933, or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the agricultural adjustment act and, in setting such price increases, to give full weight to probable increases in sales volume and to refrain from taking profiteering advantage of the consuming public.

10—To support and patronize establishments which also have signed this agreement and are listed as members of N. R. A. (National Recovery Administration).

11—To co-operate to the fullest extent in having a code of fair competition submitted by his industry at the earliest possible date and in any event before September 1, 1933.

Price Adjustments

12—Where, before June 16, 1933, the undersigned had contracted to purchase goods at a fixed price for delivery during the period of this agreement, the undersigned will make an appropriate adjustment of said fixed price to meet any increase in cost caused by the seller having signed this President's re-employment agreement or having become bound by any code of fair competition approved by the President.

13—This agreement shall cease upon approval by the President of a code to which the undersigned is subject; or, if the N. R. A. so elects, upon submission of a code to which the undersigned is subject and substitution of any of its provisions for any of the terms of this agreement.

14—It is agreed that any person who wishes to do his part in the President's re-employment drive by signing this agreement but who asserts that some particular provision hereof, because of peculiar circumstances, will create great and unavoidable hardship, may obtain the benefits hereof by signing this agreement and putting it into effect and then, in a petition approved by a representative trade association of his industry, or other representative organization designed by N. R. A., may apply for a stay of such provision pending a summary investigation by N. R. A. if he agrees in such application to abide by the decision of such investigation. This agreement is entered into pursuant to Section 4 (A) of the National Industrial Recovery Act and subject to all the terms and conditions required by section 7(A) and 10(B) of that act.

Old English Rum Bottles Dug Up In Maya Cave

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(Universal)—Seeking an extension of the ancient Mayan culture in Ceneral America, a Smithsonian expedition returned yesterday to report finding:

Scores of 300-year-old English rum bottles—empty.

The "dead soldiers" had no connection with Mayan civilization, but were relics of a pirates' cave.

The explorers also found sharks living in fresh water 200 miles up the Patuca River in Honduras—evidently sea sharks that had become adapted to river life.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

Critic

You're modest, demure and retiring,
Your life is a pattern, divine,
You're not very keen at acquiring
What's properly known as a line;
While other girls step out to dances,
You revel in Harold Bell Wright,
You frown at all casual romances,
And turn in at ten ev'ry night.

You never have fallen for smoking,
And cocktails are foreign to you,
The lads who wax rough with their joking
Are constantly labeled taboo;
A paragon, surely, of virtue,
A lady, I'll vow to the core,
And though my opinion may hurt you—

—Don Wahn.

Gag

Eddie Welch would have you believe it happened at one of the smarter gambling places. A bum, plenty drunk, managed to crash the place and after being fascinated by the players at the roulette wheel, found a dime in his jeans and placed it on number 25 just as the white pill rested in that groove.

"Pay off, pay off!" he cried as he pointed to his coin.

The croupier gave him an acid look, and then lifting the dime as though it were poison, threw it on the floor.

"We don't take dime bets," he sneered.

As If I Didn't Know

At the Colony the other night your New York correspondent was getting restless waiting for the week to end, which is when his two weeks' holiday begins.

"I'll be glad," he said, "not doing a column for two weeks."

"I know a lotta people," said Lee Tracy, "who'll be gladder!"

Scene

It happened in the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles where the cameramen from the papers ambush the celebrated. One of them arranged a picture of Lupe Velez, Johnny Weismuller and Abe Lyman. Instead of standing between the giants, Lupe stood alongside of them. Adolph Zukor, the president of Paramount Pictures, walked over. Lupe never had met him before.

"That's no way," he said affably, "you should stand between the boys."

"Don't tell me how to pose," Lupe snapped, "I've been making movies for six years!"

Merciless Truth

The feud between Eddie Cantor and George Jessel is still waging. Wherever they go they roast each other. Cantor says it's because Jessel thinks he was gyped on their personal appearances tour.

"I gave him $2,500 a week when we did two shows a day—and $3,500 a week when we did 3-a-day. On the air I always boosted him and even got him my job when I quit last year. I can't understand his ingratitude."

Then Cantor offered this story to exemplify Jessel's mad. When the late Senator Morrow was told that an old friend was panning him, Morrow thought for a moment and then instead of saying: "What did I ever do to him?" he inquired:

"What did I ever do FOR him?"

Imagine

Tommy Manahan found this in an evening newspaper of June 17th: Eleven Killed in Trolley Wreck . . . Four Die as Car Overturns . . . Love Suicide Takes Two! and other sports on page 27.

Drama

Roland Hayes, the colored operatic star, worked hard for money and not for renown or glory. He wanted that money to purchase all the territory on which his old mother was cruelly treated as a slave.

Not long ago he managed to save the amount necessary to buy up hundreds of acres of a southern locale where his mother slaved—and now he's happier.

For in the center of the location stands an edifice (also built with his coin) to serve as a monument for her. It is a modern school building for Negro children.

Rebuke

Irving Mills, all the way from London, claims he has found out the difference between a Broadway columnist and a Broadway columnist.

A Broadway columnist is a man who knows a great deal about very little, and keeps on knowing more and more about less and less until he knows practically everything about absolutely nothing.

While, on the other hand, a Broadway columnist is a man who knows very little about a whole lot, and keeps on learning less and less about more and more until he knows absolutely nothing about practically everything!

Miss Rogers Gets By

Stories to the effect that Will Rogers' daughter, Mary, was discovered on the Fox lot masquerading under the name of Mary Howard, have been printed, but the way in which she was discovered has been entirely neglected.

Buddy De Sylva and David Butler were casting "My Weakness," which is to star Lilian Harvey, and were looking over more than 100 girls for parts in the production. Under the name of Mary Howard she was selected in a group of eight, including Irene Ware, Barbara Weeks, Susan Fleming, Marcelle Edwards, Marjorie King, Jean Allen and Gladys Blake.

According to De Sylva, Miss Rogers told him she had just finished school in the East and was anxious to get started on a picture career in Hollywood. Her ash blonde beauty so impressed both De Sylva and Butler that they signed her.

Immediately following the test a school girl chum, visiting on the lot, ran into Will Rogers' only daughter and called her by name. De Sylva was standing nearby and heard Mary try to hush up her girl friend, but the cat was out of the bag.

Asked whether he would permit his daughter to continue her screen career Rogers scratched his head slowly and said:

"Certainly, and she'll be the first member of the Rogers family who won't have to chew gum and throw a rope to earn a living."

LAND O' FILMS -:- Hollywood Studios Combed for News -:- RAYS O' STARS

Pert Kelton Leaps Into Favor

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, July 27.—Just to show you how hungry they are for new personalities in the movies, look at Pert Kelton. A few months ago, this young comedienne couldn't get a decent job in a studio. Now Samuel Goldwyn and RKO are fighting to see who gets her first.

The reason for the argument is two-fold. Pert is a genuine find as a screen actress, and she is the news. Rightly or wrongly, Hollywood has dubbed her "the girl who stole a picture from Constance Bennett."

Miss Kelton

Both companies have contracts with the actress. Unfortunately, the pictures will begin about the same time. Priority may decide the issue.

When a footlight attraction has a premiere on the coast, you can usually figure that it wasn't strong enough to achieve production on Broadway. Such was the case with a comedy presented here not long ago. It was Leonard Spiegelgass who neatly called the turn when he said at intermission:

"Shall we go in before the play comes out and gets us?"

* * *

Although Max Baer's reconciliation with his wife put the quietus on rumors of a romance with June Knight, it looks as if the two may meet in Hollywood after all. "Take a Chance," the Universal-Schwab & Mandell musical for which June was due yesterday to leave for New York, has been called off, or at least postponed. The blonde actress is here waiting an assignment. Baer will arrive Monday to prepare for his picture at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Abe Lyman's new gag sends the dancers away hilarious. During the last tune of the evening, the members of the band get playful and tear each other's collars off. At 1 a. m. this rolls the customers in the aisles.

Even after Franchot Tone had had a room specially decorated in blue and white for his mother, she hesitated about coming out to Hollywood to live with him. Determined, Franchot had a set of photographs taken of the room—sent them on to his mother. Now she's weakening.

Liked Her Looks

Mary Howard applied for a film job, and, as they liked her appearance, she was engaged for "My Weakness," starring Lilian Harvey. Then it was discovered by chance that she is the daughter of Will Rogers.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Among the provisions of the code to govern the relations of the legitimate theater to actors, other employes and the public, under the industrial recovery movement, is one that the curtain shall arise at the advertised time, regardless of whether the audience is entirely seated or not. The code, like that of other business enterprises, goes into the matter of minimum pay, maximum hours, etc., but the matter that concerns the public most is that of prices charged in cities where agencies handle tickets as well as box-offices. Whereas brokers heretofore have been able to make "buys" in cases of hits, the code provides that a fair proportion of seats must be reserved for box-office sale, and that only a fair service charge may be made by agencies. Of course, that matter of prompt curtain also affects the public, too, and it will be up to patrons to be in their seats on time or miss some of the show. Which is Oak A with most of us. The only thing further we could ask would be the right to sue late-comers disturbing us after the curtain rises.

Earl Carroll is going to give the theatrical world something new, it seems, in his coming musical production, "Murder at the Vanities," styled a mystery review. Well, there are those who think that Earl has "got away with murder" often in his "Vanities." Rehearsals of the new piece are set for next week.

With two stories awaiting her return, "The Paradine Case" and "The Fountain," Diana Wynyard is expected back in Hollywood in September, after a picture-making jaunt to England . . . Lucille LaVerne, swell character actress of the stage, who has a part in the film, "Pilgrimage," also has been cast in "The Lost Trail," Zane Grey story for George O'Brien . . . "The House in Fifty-sixth Street," which will co-star Edward G. Robinson and Kay Francis, also will have Gene Raymond, the "Zoo-In-Buda-Pest" boy, in the cast . . . Minor Watson, prominent stage actor, will have the "heavy" role in "A Man's Castle," featuring Loretta Young and Spencer Tracy . . . "World's Fair," story about the World's Columbian Exposition of '93 in Chicago, will have some scenes in which the present fair will be the background, and a company, featuring Jack Holt, will go to Chicago to "shoot" them.

Lowe and McLaglen To Be Reunited

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen, starring partners of "What Price Glory," will be reunited for the only time this season by Charles R. Rogers, independent producer for Paramount in "No More Women."

Mae West Keeps Trim By Eating Plenty

Other screen stars can diet if they wish but Mae West will eat. The screen's new "sex-appeal" champion believes in plenty of food. Exercise will keep the figure curved and feminine, she says, but victuals are essential for vitality. Miss West keeps her figure by sleeping nine or 10 hours every night, exercising in moderation, getting fresh air and sunshine often, drinking a quart of milk a day, eating creamed foods, potatoes and plenty of butter.

The Escape

THE KID was talking to a group of convicts in the prison yard when Patchy motioned to him.

"Get away from that mob," he said. "I wanna talk to you."

Patchy strolled away in the direction of the gate. A few minutes later the Kid joined him.

"What's on your mind, feller?" he asked.

Patchy—at least 15 years older than the kid and in on a murder rap that had given him 20 years to life—gazed at his companion with narrowed eyes.

"Kid," he muttered, "I'm trustin' you as no other guy in the world. I'm not askin' you to keep your trap closed 'cause I figger you won't do no talkin' no matter what happens. Get me?"

The other man nodded.

"I get you," he returned. "What's on your mind?"

Patchy hesitated for a moment. Then he spoke rapidly.

"I'm gonna make a break," he stated, "and I'm gonna do it almost any day. I got two guns hid away—and when the right time comes, I'm gonna chance it. I'm doing 20 years to life—so if they do nail me on the way out, it ain't gonna make much difference.

"The reason I'm talkin' to you is this. You only got another two years to do, so I've been watchin' you for some time. You're just as anxious to get outa here as I am. Ain't you?"

The kid clenched his fists.

"Patchy," he breathed, "I'd sell my soul to be outa here right now. When I think how I gotta stick here another two years, I feel myself almost goin' goofy. Gee, how I hate it!"

The older man nodded with satisfaction.

"Just like I thought," he said. "That's why I come to you before I teamed up with any other mug in the joint. I think you got more nerve than all of 'em put together. And I think that, with a little luck, you and I can blow this joint without a hitch."

The Kid stepped back.

"You mean—you mean you want me to chance it with you in the next coupla days?"

"Sure," was Patchy's reply. "Why not? Like I told you, I got two guns hid away. We set all the plans, and I slip you yours about an hour or two before we take the leap.

"How we gonna miss? I know you're okay, and I'm as tough a guy as you'll ever meet, no matter where you travel. I gotta get outa here, and you're dyin' to do the same thing. Now we got the chance—so why shouldn't we take it?

"Just think, Kid. A coupla minutes of worry—and maybe shootin' a couple guys in the head what oughta been shot in the head long ago. And then—out in the world again. Gals, booze, fun, everything. Why don't you——"

The Kid stopped him swiftly.

"You said enough, Patchy. I'm with you. When do we go?"

The next afternoon, in the same spot, Patchy gave the Kid all the details.

"It's all set," he muttered, "for next Sunday morning. I'm havin' a visitor tomorrow, and there'll be a car waitin' for us in the woods just beyond the second gate. There'll be clothes, and everythin'. Once we beat the gate, the getaway will be a cinch.

"Now, get this straight. On Sunday morning, when we meet before we file into chapel service, I'll slip you your gun. We'll sit through the service and file out with the rest of the mob.

"We'll walk down the corridor in the east wing until we hit the little door in the center. You know, the one that leads right out to the first gate. I'll step out first and nail the guard there. You step out right behind me, and grab his gun and keys while I keep the rest covered. You unlock the door—and we'll be headin' right for the wall before anybody knows what happened.

"It's a cinch, Kid. Easiest get-away in the world if you don't slip. Understand?"

The Kid smiled harshly.

"I won't slip," he replied. . . .

On Sunday morning, just before they filed into chapel, Patchy slipped a gun to the other prisoner.

"Okay, Kid," he whispered, "remember all the dope—and don't lose your noodle. Remember, it's only nerve that's gonna get us outa this."

With a swift and furtive movement, the Kid hid his gun. Then he spoke through twisted lips.

"Say," he replied softly, "why don't you cut out all that stuff about me losin' my nerve? You know I got the stuff, or you wouldn't have asked me in the first place.

"What about you? How do I know that you ain't gonna be the one to blow me off?"

Patchy clinched his fists. His face grew white, and a pinpoint of red showed in both cheeks. His eyes blazed. He stepped forward. And then, suddenly, he got a grip on himself. His anger faded.

"Don't never say nothin' like that again, Kid," he murmured evenly. "It ain't healthy. But don't you worry about me. I told you I was the toughest guy you'll ever meet—and I am.

"There's plenty you don't know about me, youngster. Did you know that I was the third guy in the Martinville bank robbery? Did you know that I was the guy who knocked off 'St. Louis Red' when every mug in ten states was afraid of him? Did you know——"

"In line, men," cried a guard. Patchy gripped the Kid's shoulder. The Kid nodded. The line filed into the chapel. . . .

After the services, the men filed out again. Down the corridor in the east wing. They reached the little door in the center. Patchy leaped out. With a violent motion, he stuck his gun into the stomach of the startled guard.

"Up," he commanded. "'Way up—or you're dead."

The Kid was right behind him. But he didn't take the guard's keys and he didn't grab the man's gun. Instead, he fired three shots into Patchy's body—and then dropped his gun to the floor!

Patchy sank to the floor with a groan. Other guards came running with guns. The prisoners cowered back. In a few seconds, the warden was on the scene.

"I had to shoot him," lied the Kid dramatically. "It was his life or mine. When we was leavin' chapel, he stuck the gun in my hand and told me to follow him, or he'd kill me."

He sank to his knees beside the dying man.

"I'm sorry Patchy," he cried, "but you musta gone crazy. I hadda do it."

The other man could barely whisper now.

"Die, you mug," he said bitterly. "Die. I'm the brother of 'St. Louis Red' and, on his grave, I swore I'd get the guy that got him. And you killed him, did you? Die, then, die."

E. PITTSBURGH EX-CHIEF DIES

Frank Geis, 75, East Pittsburgh's first police and fire chief and the only surviving signer of the borough's charter, was dead today from a skull fracture suffered in a fall down the steps in the home of a neighbor.

Geis, who lived at 515 Center street, East Pittsburgh, died last night in Braddock General Hospital. The accident occurred Tuesday at 507 Linden avenue, according to a coroner's report.

Geis, a former borough councilman, was again a candidate for the office. He retired two years ago from the Edgar Thomson plant of the Carnegie Steel Company, after 45 years of service.

He leaves four daughters, Mrs. Katherine McCulley, of Forest Hills; Mrs. Margaret Pederson, of East Pittsburgh; Mrs. Alice Hartless, of Swissvale and Mrs. Ida Tatters, of Linhart, and nine grandchildren.

BODY OF BRIDGE JUMPER FOUND

The body of John Kastelic, 55, of Walters avenue, Millvale, reported to have leaped from the Thirty-first street bridge Tuesday night, was found in the Allegheny River near the bridge last night.

Kastelic was said to have been despondent because he worked only one day a week.

John Baysura, of 446 Wilson avenue, Ambridge, last night identified the body of a man recovered from the Ohio River at the foot of Ferry street, Leetsdale, early yesterday, as that of his brother, Steve Baysura, 36, of 412 Elm road Ambridge.

Baysura said he had not seen his brother since Sunday.

FINAL REPORTS IN JEWISH DRIVE

The final report meeting of workers in the relief campaign for Jews in Germany will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. and W. H. A., Bellefield avenue, with Leo Lehman, chairman, presiding.

The drive, which was to have ended Monday, was extended through today by unanimous vote of the workers.

Col. Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute, wrote with his contribution to headquarters in the Granite Building:

"It is my earnest hope that the organized public opinion of the world will so deeply stir the conscience of the German people that they will in a very short time repudiate the false leader who has wrought this woe upon the human family."

To date, the local campaign has reached $41,000 toward the national goal of $2,000,000.

WARD REUNION DRAWS 2,000

Present and former residents of the First Ward held their annual reunion yesterday at Olympia Park, Mt. Washington. Despite the threat of showers more than 2,000 attended. The reunion was under the auspices of the Point-First Ward Reunion Association.

Among the old-timers in attendance were Mrs. Bridget Carr, 89, of 5018 Broad street; Mrs. Margaret Welsh, "past 70," of 1602 Manhattan street, North Side, and Mrs. Margaret Bann, 63, of 1211 Reddour street, North Side. They have not missed a reunion since the organization of the association in 1925 by Robert A. Foley, now president.

FUR DEPARTMENT OPEN TONIGHT 7:30 TO 10 P. M.

A Fur Coat is as fine as its Skins

A fur coat is as fine as the skins which go into it. This is strikingly illustrated in the August Sale—the mecca for the pick of this season's trappings—the furs selected for richest depth—finest gloss—rarest colors. Each pelt in every coat is an exact match of its neighbor. Fashioned into the new, higher wide shoulders, peg-top sleeves, shoulder yokes, and back drapes of the 1934 silhouette, they show up—supple as the finest piece of velvet. Styled for greatest wearability, often in one-of-a-kind models, they reveal distinction at a glance.

Yet these furs are no higher priced than ordinary ones. In fact, they are less. Bought before the market rise, they offer all-time low prices. Some are worth 100% more on today's market. All will be higher priced after August. We urge you to shop and compare their remarkable value, at $45 or up to $1,000. Come if you can during

P. S. C. DEBATES COUNTY PARK BUS FIGHT

HARRISBURG, July 27.—The Public Service Commission today is considering the right of Allegheny County to operate its own buses to North and South Parks.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern, with Assistant County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher, appeared before the commission yesterday seeking permits to operate. The application by the commissioners followed arguments between the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company and McGovern over rates to the park. They had been 75 and 45 cents a round trip from downtown to North Park and South Park respectively.

Commissioner C. M. Barr had arranged an agreement with the coach company, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, by which the rates were reduced to 30 cents, but for a trial period.

M'GOVERN PROTEST

Several days ago McGovern declared the trial period of two weeks was being used by the company only to get evidence, and refused to accept any agreement that failed to provide a permanent low rate.

Counsel for three bus and trolley companies—Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Brentwood Motor Coach Company—argued the county has shown no necessity for what they termed competitive service. Both V. W. Thomas, for the trolley company, and Thomas D. Murray, for the Brentwood company, asserted the county had not followed prescribed procedure in applying for the rights.

They contended the county's testimony on alleged high rates and inadequate service properly was the basis of a complaint against present carriers and not for an application for "competitive" service. Thomas asserted the Allegheny park act of 1927, on which the county based its claim of authority to operate buses, listed numerous specific powers of the county commisioners but did not include that of furnishing transportation.

LESHER'S ARGUMENT

Lesher said county-operated bus service is necessary to permit "proper utilization" of the two parks, located about 10 miles from the courthouse, from which service would be furnished.

Lesher said the act of 1927, later incorporated in the 1929 county code, gives the Commissioners "implied power to do anything reasonable with a view of extending and operating these parks."

Lesher said he "seriously questioned" the jurisdiction of the commission in the case, maintaining the right of the county to perform the service should be tested by a taxpayer's bill in the Allegheny County courts.

PITTSBURGHERS HEAD POLICE

Under the leadership of two Pittsburghers, Pennsylvania chiefs of police were organized today for a concerted drive against crime.

The campaign was launched at the convention of the Police Chiefs' Association in Harrisburg yesterday. Private, municipal, state and federal officers will cooperate. The slogan will be:

The other officers are F. J. Eckhart, Wilkes-Barre, second vice president; Col. George J. Shoemaker, Harrisburg, third vice president; W. B. Titus, Lansdowne, secretary; M. H. Bernhard, Allentown, treasurer, and C. W. Rhodes, Northumberland, sergeant at arms.

Joseph Urban Wills $4,000 Trust for Dogs

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—Joseph Urban, the theatrical designer, who died July 10, thought so much of his half dozen sheep dogs he provided for them in his will, on file today.

The estate, the value of which was not estimated, was left entirely to his widow, Mrs. Mary Urban. The will provided, however, that if she should not survive him a $4,000 trust fund was to be created to care for the dogs.

Two Wills Leave Estates to Kin

Louisa Gripp Werner, Oakland, left her $6,500 estate to her daughter, Elizabeth Gripp, after payment of a $2,000 debt out of the proceeds of the estate. The daughter was named executrix.

Reduction of Asphyxial Death Rate Is Sought

Dr. Copeland

Recently an unusual conference was held at the New York Academy of Medicine. It gathered to form a society for the prevention of asphyxial deaths and to discuss problems relating to fatalities from this cause. The newly organized society plans to bring to the attention of all doctors and the public the urgency of these problems.

A preliminary report issued by the directors of this society, states that the question is one of national importance. More than 50,000 deaths from asphyxia occur in the United States every year. Of this number, almost twenty-eight hundred occur in New York City alone.

It is estimated that the death rate from asphyxia is twice as great as that from automobile accidents. It is 18 times that of diphtheria and 70 times that of typhoid fever.

This tragedy may result from submersion, gas inhalation—especially carbon monoxide from automobile exhausts; leaky stoves and gas pipes. Other causes are overdoses of the drug in anesthesia, electric shock, the asphyxia of stillborn children, infantile paralysis and early pneumonia.

In most instances these deaths could have been prevented. Unfortunately, the care of asphyxia patients is often entrusted to rescuers who, though anxious to help, have had inadequate training. Rarely are they familiar with modern methods of resuscitation.

It is the plan of the organization that the necessary equipment, so essential for the prevention of needless loss of life, will be distributed throughout the nation. Of greatest importance is the spreading of information, telling how to avoid the many pitfalls which may result in asphyxia. Many cases of asphyxia would never occur if the victims were only familiar with the dangers of illuminating gas, the exhausts of automobiles, high tension wires, loose electric sockets and poorly fitted gas fixtures.

The number of cases of drowning during the summer months is legion. This is all too common a cause of asphyxial death. The poor swimmer should keep out of deep waters and everyone should avoid rough and treacherous waters. Never go in swimming immediately after eating. Never overindulge in swimming and, if you are fatigued, remain close to shore.

I am confident that the campaign to check asphyxia deaths would help to prevent these sad accidents. We must applaud its efforts to familiarize physicians and nurses with the modern technique of life saving. Special instruction will be given at hospitals and municipal institutions. Every citizen should know what to do in an emergency.

HITLER WANTS PARIS REFUGEE

PARIS, July 27.—(AP.)—Chancellor Hitler's first attempt to extradite an important political refugee in France is being made, it was learned today, against Dr. Otto Klepper, Prussian minister of finance from December, 1931, until the Nazis came to power.

Dr. Klepper came to Paris from Helsingfors, where the Nazis allowed him to go on an economic mission.

It is known France will refuse a demand for extradition of a political refugee. It is understood the German demand charges financial irregularities.

Extradition charges usually entail immediate arrest, but it is said this is unlikely in the Klepper case. Political authorities expressed the opinion the former Prussian minister will not be returned to Germany on the ground that his case is really a political one.

Austrians Protest Nazi Air Flights

VIENNA, July 27.—(INS.)—Early application of the newly-signed, Mussolini-inspired Four-Power Peace Pact was a possibility today following an Austrian protest against alleged flights of German airplanes over the Austro-German border.

The government instructed its ambassadors to Great Britain, France and Italy to protest to those governments against the flights as a violation of the Four-Power Pact.

Deny 22 Nazis Died Of Food Poisoning

BERLIN, July 27.—(INS.)—The secret state police today denied a report appearing in the London Daily Herald that 22 Nazi storm troopers had died from poisoned food eaten in their barracks.

Nothing is known, the police said, about any storm troopers being made ill by bad food.

CHICAGO STANDS BY SCHOOL CUT

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP.)—The $5,000,000 economy program, entailing the dismissal of 1,523 public school teachers, as proposed by the Board of Education stood today over the objections of thousands of citizens.

At yesterday's meeting of the board in a downtown office building hundreds crowded into the room while thousands massed themselves outside, but the board remained firm in its decision and there was no second to the motion of one member that "we start all over again."

In the unwieldy crowd outside one youth was cut when he was pushed through a glass door panel.

The board's retrenchment program includes elimination of junior high schools, Crane junior college, schools for the mentally retarded, and numerous special courses such as band and orchestral instruction. Teachers have not been paid since last January 1.

Chicago Renews Plea For Cash From U. S.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(INS.)—A new appeal for $40,000,000 to pay Chicago school teachers was laid before the R. F. C. today by Representative Sabath (Dem.), of Chicago.

Informed by Chairman Jesse H. Jones, of the corporation, by telephone that a loan of $40,000,000 was "too much money," Sabath urged the Board to approve at least part of the proposed loan.

Rattlesnake Bite Fatal to Man, 81

REDDING, Cal., July 27.—(AP.)—William Henry, 81, died today of a rattlesnake strike he received Thursday when he attempted to pull the rattler from its hole by the tail.

Henry said the rattler had annoyed him for a long time, having built its home in Henry's back yard, near Whiskytown. Henry intended to grab the snake back of the head, but got hold of the wrong end.

Brazilian Revolt Rumors Continue

BUENOS AIRES, July 27.—(INS.)—Reports that the Brazilian government is striving to check a serious revolt in the state of Sao Paulo continued to seep into Buenos Aires today.

The messages indicated serious trouble. One said the Brazilian government was ready with heavy armed forces to cope with any situation. There were rumors that fighting had actually taken place at Sao Paulo City.

Quicker Vote Returns Will Clear Muddle

—By MARK SHIELDS—

It would be a daring soothsayer who today would stake his soothsaying reputation on picking the Republican or Democratic gentlemen who will on September 19 win the nomination of their respective parties for Mayor of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Shields

Uncertainties of the situation in both groups is responsible.

But when election day finally arrives there should be a much quicker revelation of what decision the voters have reached, for it seems certain that voting machines will at last be available, at least for all the voting precincts in the city of Pittsburgh. That must not be taken as a definite promise, in view of the past eleventh-hour disappointments extending over two years, but there is confidence now among county officials that the machines will be ready.

Tuesday night in the past has not always told the story of elections in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. Boards in some districts have taken their time counting, and in others the count itself as it might tally with the votes as cast meant little or nothing.

* * *

Downtown Delays Were Unnecessary

Returns were held back by some malleable boards until the leaders who controlled them could determine what result from the box was imperative—and more often than not the result came out that way. In other sections, information on results was positively refused, and inquirers with a legal right to know were referred to ward bosses.

Frequently it was Thursday before the returns were known from some districts well downtown, where there could be no excuse that delays in transportation or remoteness from ordinary means of communication interposed.

The vote machines will have the vote tabulated as soon as the polls close, and it should be in a printed form which will defy alteration. There will be no alibi whatever for withholding results, which should be known generally within an hour after the polls close, or as soon as it is physically possible for results to be transmitted to and tabulated in newspaper offices by a corps of agents employed for that purpose.

* * *

Paper Ballots Are Not Eliminated

There will not be machines for every district in the county. Furthermore, in every district, unless there occurs an avalanche of withdrawals, paper ballots will be necessary to supplement the machines. Those two situations arise in this way:

There are only 1,100 machines available for 972 districts in the county. The Commissioners have decided that in larger districts, of 500 or more registrants in the city, two machines shall be employed. There are 409 city districts, and Maj. William T. Rees, chief of the Bureau of Elections, estimated that they will require 750 machines.

That means that in the boroughs and townships farthest down the alphabet there will be no machines, for the supply will have been exhausted before they are reached in the distribution.

Paper ballots will be needed even where there are machines because of the number of candidates who have filed for the office of jury commissioner, a position which has become immensely popular, sought by some men now getting more than the $3,600 the post pays. As the schedule stands, there may be more than 50 patriots seeking this one place, and it would be impossible to handle all of them on the machines, according to officials of the Elections Bureau.

* * *

Trickery Detection Made Possible

This, however, will have no bearing upon the automatic tabulation by the machines for Mayor, City Council, the courts and other offices where the list of candidates is comparatively small.

The machines, repaired, improved, wearing bright new patents and safeguarding gadgets, are not foolproof. They can be broken, perhaps tricked, but the act can be detected in its commission, and alteration of the eventual tabulation will be well nigh impossible.

No machine yet has been invented, and no law passed, which will completely harness evil intent against the commission of its purpose.

But the machine does mean—or certainly should mean—a quick return, and an accurate one on the votes as they were cast.

The election should be over when the polls close, in bright contrast to the past in some districts, where it had just begun.

CANDIDATE RULE NARROWED

Exceptions were announced yesterday to the rule laid down by the County Commissioners Tuesday, that all county employes who are candidates for public office be furloughed from August 1 until their campaigns are over.

Present holders of elective offices were exempted from the ruling at the outset. Others not affected are the county-employed candidate for County Surveyor, and other persons seeking jobs in boroughs or townships which do not necessitate intensive campaigns, Commissioner William D. Mansfield announced.

Candidates mentioned for the County Surveyor job—estimated to pay about $8 a year—are J. C. Jordan, a county planning engineer, and Henry C. Lippincott, of the Fourteenth Ward, an outsider.

Petitions taken out by Lippincott are the first for the job in four or five decades. Since surveying by piece work was popular, in the 1850's, no one has wanted the post.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 27. To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Wiley Post said, "I have an offer on the stage, and I hope no one will criticize me if I take it."

Say, after what that little guy went through with, nobody would criticize him even if he turned banker or took a seat on the stock exchange.

Will Rogers

By the way, Mr. Roosevelt has cut the stock market down to three hours a day. They say they did it themselves. Yeah? He just told 'em, "Now you be good boys. I will give you three hours a day to work on these suckers, and the other 21 hours they are under the protection of the fish and game law."

Yours, WILL.

PITT CO-EDS GO TO SHANTYTOWN

Nine co-eds of the University of Pittsburgh summer school visited Shantytown yesterday as part of their social service activities.

The party was headed by Miss Isabell Anderson, social director.

They visited the town barber shop, carpenter shop, the oven which is used for cooking and other unusual sights. They also talked with the citizens, hearing of life in that community and of the misfortunes that befell them.

This was the sixth point of interest in Pittsburgh that the co-eds have visited.

FATHER JAILED UNTIL HE WEDS

Brought into court accused of abusing several of his seven children, Ralph Rocco La Morte, farmer of Beaver road, Glenfield, was jailed today until he marries their mother.

Welfare agency representatives charged that the older children among the seven, ranging in age from an infant to 11 years, were forced by the father to work on the farm from daylight until 10 p. m. Both the man and woman admitted the children was theirs.

Police Chief C. H. Schofield, of Glenfield, said he would ask that the younger children be made wards of Juvenile Court.

CROWLEY, STEEL VETERAN, DIES

Dennis Crowley, Jr., 56, sales manager for Carnegie Steel Company here, was found dead in bed in the Schenley Apartments today. Doctors attributed his death to heart failure.

Crowley, born in Cork, Ireland, in 1877, had been associated with the steel company and affiliated firms of the United States Steel Corporation since 1901, when he entered the traffic department of Carnegie Steel as a rate clerk.

He was transferred to the sales department and moved to New Orleans as district sales manager. Two years ago he returned to Pittsburgh as district manager of Pittsburgh sales for Carnegie, Illinois Steel and Tennessee Coal and Iron companies.

Educated in Pittsburgh parochial and publics chools, Crowley had started his business career in the commercial department of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

He was a member of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, New Orleans Country Club, Boston Club of New Orleans, Houston (Tex.) Club, Houston Country Club, Dallas Athletic Club, American Iron and Steel Institute, Army Ordnance Association and Southern Yacht Club.

HILLTOP DEATH UNSOLVED

A lead slug, fired by a person or persons unknown, killed Louis Impellicieri, 42, at the doorway of his beer garden, Southern avenue, Mt. Washington, early July 5, according to a Coroner's jury verdict returned today. Eleven witnesses were heard.

Testifying they had left the beer garden about midnight, 10 minutes before the killing, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Scarfo, of 22 Kuhn street, told of the presence of a silent American in the shop.

JOBLESS PLEAS STUDIED BY COUNCIL

City Officials Consider Demands for Food And Shoes

City Council is to study several demands placed before it yesterday afternoon by the Unemployed Council and the Unemployed Citizens' League.

Speakers for both organizations told Council that they demanded an immediate appropriation of $100,000 for the purchase of shoes for the unemployed. Council was also asked to appropriate additional money for the purchase of food and issue a statement warning merchants against rising prices and demanding the return of the 5-and-10-cent loaves of bread.

Representatives of the two groups asked Council to go on record in favor of a minimum wage of 60 cents per hour for unskilled labor on city projects.

DENIES 'PROSPERITY'

Robert Lieberman, representing the Unemployed Citizens' League, said the number of relief cases in the county was not decreasing to the extent indicated by reports of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, and demanded that the books of the association be opened to his organization and the Unemployed Council.

Many of the more than 200 unemployed crowded inside and out of Council doors during the hearing, and reconvened at thet Unemployed Citizens' League headquarters, 119 Water street, to hear leaders urge a united front and continuous pressure on Council.

It was voted that a letter censuring he attitude of President Harry Little in regard to the follow-up meeting be sent Council. Little, it was claimed, had broken an agreement in not permitting the meeting in the City-County Building, and had promised Director of Public Safety Harmar D. Denny, Jr., would arrange a meeting place when he was not in his office.

STATE CUTS COUNTY RELIEF

Allegheny County, with 69,000 families still destitute and facing a higher cost of living, will be forced to take a five per cent relief cut for August from the State Emergency Relief Board, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Harrisburg.

The August allotment, announced by Gov. Pinchot yesterday, amounts to $1,227,029.

All counties except Allegheny and Philadelphia took 15 per cent cuts, Philadelphia took a five per cent slash also.

Explaining the cuts, Gov. Pinchot pointed out that 56,000 persons are estimated to have been dropped from relief rolls—a decrease of about 12 per cent. He said careful management would eliminate the necessity of worthy families receiving reductions.

WOMAN'S TRUCK PLAN OPPOSED

Six railroads and transportation companies are fighting the application of Mrs. E. M. Stone, of Beaver Falls, for a Public Service certificate permitting her to transport freight and merchandise within a radius of 100 miles of her home town.

Mrs. Stone, who testified before Examiner W. E. Best, giving reasons why she should be granted the certificate, says she has been in the trucking business for a number of years. She owns eight, her husband, A. S. Stone, managing the business for her. Mrs. Stone says that only three trucks are now operating on account of business conditions. She has been doing work under contract for some large corporations.

The Pennsylvania, B. & O., Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads and Harmony Short Line Transporation Company, West Penn Railways Company, American Railways Express Company and H. S. Keis, an independent trucker, claim there is adequate service at the present time to take care of the districts Mrs. Stone has applied to serve.

Newly-Employed Workers to Get Pleasant Start

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

CHICAGO, July 27. — News that Gen. Johnson is putting 5,000,000 men to work by the first of September is great.

The first is a Friday. They'll have Saturday afternoon off, all of Sunday and Monday is Labor Day.

That's a nice rest. After that, everybody should be refreshed. Prosperity will be here and every man in America will have a fair chance of getting his whiskers caught in a revolving belt.

We understand it will result in a higher tariff. But that's only an amendment against the caviar habit.

We grow everything here that we use except coconuts, shark fins and spare tires. And the brains trust is working on those now.

America consumes 93 per cent of its own products. The other 7 per cent is the gravy. We will let the gravy go and use good old reliable Maryland apple butter.

That just about cleans up today's books except the deflated dollar. And we have yet to find a man who wouldn't take one.

GESTURE FAILS TO ENTHUSE RIVALS

Mackrell and McArdle, Also Citizens League Lack Interest

By MARK SHIELDS

James F. Malone's suggestion that he, with other anti-administration candidates for the Republican mayorality campaign, representatives of the Citizens' League, and leading independents, should in conference again seek harmony behind a single candidate, appeared today to have struck little response.

Councilman P. J. McArdle and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, other anti-administration candidates, had no comment to make on the proposal, made last night in a radio speech. Representatives of the Citizens' League appeared little interested in the suggestion, seemingly satisfied to stick to their indorsement of McArdle.

While no league official would speak for publication, it was intimated that previous conferences with Mr. Malone had given little ground for hope that new parleys would succeed. All of the factors invited by Malone have conferred before, and have gotten nowhere in their effort to center on one candidate against Mayor John S. Herron.

RIVALS NOT ENTHUSED

In some quarters Mr. Malone's speech was interpreted as a suggestion that he, McArdle and Mackrell should all retire and pick a man not heretofore mentioned. Neither Mackrell nor McArdle appeared enthused at this idea.

In baid language, Malone declared that efforts toward a harmony candidate so far had been fraught with selfishness and dickering of the old-time political stripe, and he intimated the Citizens League when William P. Witherow decided not to be a candidate, took little time to seek another non-political champion before it indorsed McArdle.

To further the harmony movement, Malone asked McArdle and Mackrell for the time being to abandon their own campaign efforts, pledging the same action, "until every possible move is made to fix on some man upon whom representatives of all independents can agree."

RAPS LEAGUE'S TACTICS

Referring to the Citizens' League and its desire for a non-political type candidate, he said:

"During all of the discussions I had with representatives of the Citizens' League the only man talked about who did not have previous political affiliations was Mr. Witherow, and when he decided not to be a candidate, apparently the representatives of the league did not seek any further for the non-political type of man they planned to have. Twelve days after Mr. Witherow had definitely told me he was going to be a candidate he then informed me he was not going to be a candidate and would support Mr. McArdle.

"I am fearful that the lack of continued effort to find the original type of non-political man has much to do with the fact that there are three candidates before the public at this time."

SEES COYNE DEFEAT

Continuing, Mr. Malone said:

"Four candidates have announced their intention of pre-

CARNEGIE OPTOMETRIST'S FATAL PLUNGE

THE PLUNGE IN WHICH DR. JOHN ZUG WAS FATALLY HURT

DR. JOHN ZUG

John Zug, Optometrist, Leaps to His Death

John Zug, 35, Carnegie optometrist and president of the Pittsburgh Optometrical Association, was fatally injured today when he jumped from the second story roof of the Zug building, at Main and Chartiers streets, Carnegie. The building is owned by his brother, Fred Zug.

A nervous condition and worry over financial conditions were responsible for the leap, according to his brother with whom he was associated in business. Dr. W. J. Connelly, who attended Zug before he was taken to St. John's Hospital said he suffered from serious internal injuries.

Zug jumped from the roof following a nervous flare-up at the breakfast table in his brother's apartment in the building earlier in the morning, according to Patrolman Charles J. Skirpan.

Fred said his brother paced the apartment al night and that efforts to quiet him were futile. While he was going for a doctor, he said, his brother, John, went to the edge of the roof at the rear of the building and jumped to his death. He died a short time later in the hospital.

Zug was a well known lecturer on optometry. He attended Bucknell and Columbia universities. He was a Mason

He leaves his wife, who is now living in Orange, N. J., and two daughters, Marjorie and Dorthy.

RESERVE BANKS NOT TO ACCEPT HOME BONDS

The Federal Reserve Banks cannot accept bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Association in rediscount from member banks, J. C. Nevin, manager of the Pittsburgh branch, Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland, said today.

Nevin's interpretation of the ineligibility for rediscount of the bonds came today as many appraising eyes were turned on the $50 4 per cent 18-year bonds of which the corporation can issue after opening of its branches Tuesday some $2,000,000,000.

Inability of the Federal Reserve Banks to accept the bonds was a discouraging factor that may tend to reduce their negotiability and may prevent member banks from accepting the bonds.

The Federal Reserve, Nevin pointed out, can accept only commercial paper based on current commercial or industrial or agricultural transactions, and government bonds.

While the Home Owners Loan bonds are guaranteed as to interest by the government, their principal is guaranteed only by mortgages on which they are based.

Nevin's conclusion was drawn from a letter on "Rediscounts and Advances" from Governor E. R. Fancher of the Fourth District Federal Reserve Bank, in Cleveland. The letter stated that banks can borrow on their notes secured by government bonds or can rediscount commercial paper based on transactions now taking place or in government bonds.

He pointed out, however, that under Section No. 10-B of the recently passed banking act, an emergency decree from Washington could make the Home Owners' Loan bonds or any other paper acceptable for rediscount or as basis for banks' borrowings. Said Nevin:

"After all, these bonds are only real estate bonds and if they're acceptable, why aren't all other real estate bonds and mortgages acceptable? The purpose of the law is to keep the Federal Reserve liquid."

Meanwhile, it became known that Pennsylvania building and loan associations cannot accept the bonds and that insurance companies probably won't in payment for mortgages.

State Manager Jacob H. Mays in Pittsburgh for an instruction meeting of Western Pennsylvania officials, who will be headed by L. G. Lichliter in the Pittsburgh office, expressed confidence yesterday that the bonds will be readily marketable.

He pointed to a large mortgage company which has offered to accept up to $45,000,000 of the possible $2,000,000,000 of 4 per cent 18-year $50 bonds as an example of their strength.

INSURANCE FIRMS DELAY

One life insurance mortgage representative here—representing one of the largest of such firms in existence—said today that he understood his company and others would refuse the bonds in payment for mortgages they are about to foreclose.

He declared the reason to be that the bonds were expected to be negotiable only at large discounts, possibly of more than 20 per cent.

Public opinion, he admitted, might force the firms to accept the bonds, however, and their acceptability at face in payment of installments and interest on mortgages held by the corporation might serve to "peg" the securities.

Officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington express divergent views on the subject, the Sun-Telegraph learned.

Action by the insurance firms and the R. F. C. will have a necessarily large bearing on the marketability of the bonds.

BEST STATES POSITON

Building and loan associations will not be able to take the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in exchange for loans which they have made on property, according to William E. Best.

Best is former director of the Pittsburgh branch of the Home Loan Bank and former president of the United States Building and Loan League.

He declared restrictions on securities which may be held by building and loan associations will prevent them from co-operating in the plan of the government to assist home owners.

North Side Teacher Found Dead in Bed

Miss Elvira Patterson was found dead in bed at her home, Patterson Heights, near Beaver Falls, yesterday. For many years she was a teacher in the Conroy School, North Side. She had recently returned from the World Fair and addressed the Patterson Heights Book Club last Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Patterson was the daughter of the late D. O. C. Patterson and a granddaughter of James Patterson, Beaver Falls pioneer settler. She had taught school in various districts for nearly a half century. She leaves a sister, Miss Grace Patterson, at home.

DENIES POLITICS IN MILK FEUD

Orders of state officials that all milk distributed in Tarentum, Brackenridge and Natrona be pasteurized were blamed today for the break-down of milk distribution in that district.

The Rev. Father C. F. Orlemanski today branded as "absolutely groundless and false" charges by Lewis Sarver, secretary of the Tarentum Raw Milk Dealers' Association, that politics caused the tie-up that stopped the supply of milk to the valley homes last Thursday.

Complaints that politics sent milk orders to a few dealers at the expense of many others were explained by Father Orlemanski on the ground that only a few local dealers could pasteurize milk. He has since, he said, proposed a plan which will use "every pint of milk" produced in the Tarentum-Brackenridge-Natrona section.

Father Orlemanski is directing the distribution of milk in Brackenridge at present, with the Salvation Army in charge of the Tarentum supply.

SLAYING HAILED AS GANG'S DEFI

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP.)—Aroused by what they consider a distinct challenge to their new drive on gunmen, police today began an intensive search for three who put "Angel Face" Willie Carr to death.

Disregarding the fact that children were at play on the sidewalks opposite 152 Elson avenue on Chicago's Northwest Side, one of the gunmen caught up with "Angel Face" as he ran along the street, pressed the muzzle of a shotgun against his head and fired.

The shooting of Carr yesterday came at a time when Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal Court was mobilizing additional jurists for a war on gunmen, occasioned by the recent slaying of three policemen, one of whom was shot to death in a courtroom.

Judge Prystalski's action took the form of an appeal for volunteer judges to serve during the summer vacation with a slogan:

Fight Coyne Bartender As Judge of Election

Independents Delay Appointment by Court Protest

An effort of the Coyne forces to have M. J. McDonald, a bartender, of 39 North Boquet street, appointed judge of election to fill a vacancy in the Sixth District, Fourth Ward, was opposed by Independents of the ward today.

Attorney J. Garfield Houston, representing J. D. White, Independent Republican ward chairman, told Judge W. H. McNaugher:

"I suggest that on account of the well known conditions in regards to dishonest elections in the Fourth Ward, that only men of undoubted character be placed on election boards so we can rely on them for an honest count."

Through questioning, Houston brought out that McDonald was arrested 10 years ago in a raid on a drinking place. Houston had no one to offer for the place and Judge McNaughter continued the hearing until Monday to give Houston time to suggest a candidate.

This district is in the home ward of State Senator James J. Coyne, indicted with many of his followers on election fraud charges by the federal grand jury recently.

McDonald was represented by Attorney Howard W. Neely, Republican chairman of the Fourth Ward, and Coyne lieutenant.

senting their names to the voters for the office of Mayor. The present Mayor is one of these candidates. He heads an organization controlled by Senator James J. Coyne that will do everything in their power to retain possession of the city government. I firmly believe that a majority of the voters of the City of Pittsburgh are in the frame of mind to defeat the Mayor and every candidate backed by the Mayor and Senator Coyne.

"The present and future welfare of the city is paramount to individual, fractional or party advancement.

SUBMERGED SELF

"During the past six or seven weeks I have submerged myself, even at the expense of having my campaign retarded and I am willing to continue to do so for the purpose of bringing about an harmonious situation which will assure the people success.

"If this contest for Mayor continues as it is tonight all the independent candidates and their friends will be criticizing each other. Statements will be made that will cause bitterness. Enmities will be created that will develop a condition that will prevent the independent people of Pittsburgh from ever getting together in the future.

"The people of Pittsburgh have fully determined they will go the limit to get a clean, decent, honest, efficient and economic government. They want a different brand of governent and politics. So long as they can get the right kind of man, they are not interested especially in what his name might be. They do not care whether he is a Republican or a Democrat. They do not care what church he goes to. What they want is a man who will give them a square deal.

"This is a drastic situation and drastic measures must be taken to clean it up and clean it up openly and aboveboard. Therefore, I am going to ask the independent candidates, representatives of the Citizens League and other influential independent political leaders and citizens, to attend a meeting to see if ways and means may be provided to make an honest effort to select a man of the right type and ability upon whom we all can agree, nominate him, elect him and put him into office without any tinge of factionalism surrounding his administration."

How would you like to lose 24 pounds of fat in a month and at the same time increase your energy and improve your health?

How would you like to lose a load of unhealthy fat that you don't need and don't want and at the same time feel better than you have for years?

How would you like to lose your double chin and your too prominent abdomen and at the same time make your skin so clean and clear that it will compel admiration?

Get on the scales to-day and see how much you weigh—measure yourself too—then get an 85 cent bottle of Kruschen Salts, which will last you for 4 weeks. Take one-half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning—to hasten results cut out pastry and fatty meats—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—and when you have finished the contents of this first bottle weigh and measure yourself again.

Now you can laugh at the people who pay hundreds of dollars to lose a few pounds of fat—now you will know the safe, swift and pleasant way to lose unsightly fat and you'll also know that the 6 salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

If one inexpensive jar (lasts 4 weeks) doesn't joyfully satisfy, money back from any drugstore. Make sure you get Kruschen—prescribed by many physicians and recognized the world over as the SAFE way to reduce and at the same time gain in health and physical charm.

Mrs. C. L. of Shepardsville, Kentucky, writes: "I have reduced 24 pounds in 31 days with Kruschen and I ate three meals a day."

A MOTOR FUEL SO GOOD

BY U. S. PATENT PENDING

Essolene contains a special solvent oil which cleans, keeps clean and in proper working condition valve stems, piston rings, piston ring grooves. It contains no ordinary lubricating oil.

Its anti-knock value is unsurpassed by any regular-priced gasoline, and it is non-gas-locking. These are the facts about Essolene. The guaranteed facts.

When you buy Essolene you buy a product backed by the name and responsibility of the world's greatest oil organization. This name will never be put behind any product that does not live up to everything said about it.

Just try Essolene in a tank cleared of other fuels. Then write your own advertisement. . . . Essolene is colored orange to prevent substitution.

WALKER STIRS IRE OF COSTS QUIZ LEADER

Representative Joseph A. Rectenwald, chairman of the Legislative Committee to Investigate Costs of Government in Allegheny County, today accepted the resignation of Representative William A. Walker as a member of the committee, but resented the assertions of Walker that the committee would be dominated by Senator James J. Coyne, also a member.

Walker, a resident of the Thirteenth district, has announced as a candidate for County Court. Commenting on this, Rectenwald said:

"If Mr. Walker believes the committee is dominated by Senator Coyne, and if he feels that this domination represents a different political school than his own, it is his duty as a representative of the Thirteenth district to remain on the committee and fight for what he thinks is right. It is my opinion that Mr. Walker in running away from a position where he must take a stand and make decisions reveals poor qualifications for a judgeship.

"Mr. Walker says that the people of his district asked him to resign. It seems significant that Mr. Walker made public his resignation and accompanying remarks at a time when he was starting his campaign for the bench."

Rectenwald said the investigation would be discontinued temporarily for lack of funds, but that already the committee had discovered methods of saving thousands of dollars in Allegheny County. He will ask an appropriation at the next session of the Legislature.

Walker in his resignation declared the committee would be dominated by Coyne, and intimated its lethargy was due to the fact that he had asked an investigation of the delinquent tax collector's office.

WALL ST. MUM ON RAIL MERGER

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—Reports that preliminary negotiations were in progress between the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio railroads for a merger of the two properties found informed Wall street quarters without information on the subject today.

Banking circles familiar with the problems of both carriers said they had no knowledge of the reported plans and had held no conversations on the matter.

In transportation quarters it was pointed out that representatives of the two roads might be exploring the possibilities of eliminating duplicating services, in accord with the provisions of the rail co-ordination bill.

Local representatives of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio declined to comment either on the merger rumor or the status of co-ordination problems.

'SLAIN' FATHER FOUND ALIVE

TOLEDO, O., July 27.—(AP.)—Listed as a Detroit murder victim four years ago, Harry Greer, 43, formerly of that city today had been located alive in Toledo at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Thaeter.

He was discovered by his daughter, Vera, 23, when she went to the Thaeter home yesterday to get the man's personal belongings. The daughter then summoned policemen.

Greer's wife told the police he left her six years ago after a family quarrel, and that on July 1, 1929, she identified the body of a murdered man found in the Detroit River as that of her husband and had it buried in Dearborn Cemetery.

Greer told the police he went to Denver after leaving Detroit, and had remained in the western city until a few days ago. Detroit police asked Toledo officers to hold him as a fugitive pending the arrival of authorities from Michigan.

Mayor Among 29 Freed in Rum Case

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 27.—(AP.)—Twenty-nine defendants in an alleged Casper, Wyo., liquor conspiracy case were acquitted last night by a Federal Court jury.

By the verdict the defendants, who included Mayor E. W. Howell, Chief of Police Michael Quealy, and Sheriff Gilbert O. Housley, of Natrona County, were cleared of a federal indictment charging a wholesale conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law in Casper.

Found on Tracks, Dies in Hospital

Found unconscious early today beside the tracks of the Pittsburgh Railways Company interurban trolley line at Linden Grove, John Walker, 31, of Mine No. 2, Castle Shannon, died several hours later in South Side Hospital.

He is believed to have been struck by a street car or automobile, the Coroner's office reported.

'Gold Coast' Yields Skeleton of Woman

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP.)—Six feet below ground at 113 East Pearson street, in Chicago's Gold Coast, a water department employe dug up a skeleton, apparently that of a woman.

Old-timers said there was once a cemetery on the spot, abandoned 68 years ago.

MILK STRIKERS PLAN BLOCKADE

HARRISBURG, July 17.—(AP.)—Tension was near the breaking point in Central Pennsylvania's milk "strike" today with pickets for the dairymen planning to stop all milk trucks approaching Harrisburg and dealers preparing to run the gauntlet.

Harrisburg milk dealers also have appealed to the national government. Asking a prompt agreement on the Philadelphia milk shed agreement, they say this would settle the producers' strike for $1.70 per hundred weight for 4 per cent butterfat milk.

The plan before the Department of Agriculture gives dairymen $2.09 and increases retail prices.

Twelve of 22 large dealers have agreed to the producers' demands, and Paul Sunday, Carlisle, president of their group, said 5,000 farmers are ready to prevent shipments from reaching the other concerns.

Woman Prisoner In Bath for Day

HILLSBORO, Ind., July 27.—(AP.)—After locking the bathroom door and getting in a tub, Mrs. Carrie Youngblood, was rescued by neighbors who used a ladder to reach her.

Unable to get out of the tub because of infirmities, she was a prisoner in the place almost 24 hours before help came.

REDS GET SPAIN RECOGNITION

MADRID, July 27.—(AP.)—The Spanish President and Cabinet decided today to extend recognition to Soviet Russia, and there were reports that Leon Trotzky, Communist leader now in exile, might make his peace with Moscow and become the Soviet ambassador here.

Newspapers published reports from France that Trotzky, in the event he becomes the Soviet envoy may later be named Ambassador to the United States if the Washington government extends recognition to Moscow.

The dispatches said that Trotzky already had conferred with foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff at Royat, France.

Wounded, Descends 3 Flights and Dies

Stabbed in the back with a butcher knife, Earl Smith, 33, Negro, of 5 Townsend street, early today walked down three flights of stairs to the street and collapsed a block from his home. He was pronounced dead at Passavant Hospital.

The stabbing followed an argument with Charles Norris, 28, Negro, of the same address, according to police. Norris, his wife and Ernest Smith, 22, Negro, were arrested, the latter two as material witnesses.

One of our most popular girls will be married late this summer right here at home—vivacious Lucretia Billings, daughter of Mrs. Frederic Tremaine Billings, and the late Dr. Billings.

Lucretia has named August 26 as the date for her marriage to Dr. A Murray Fisher, of Baltimore, son of the Jannon Fishers, of Eccleston, Md.

The ceremony will take place in Calvary Episcopal Church. Who her attendants will be I'll have to tell you later—Lucretia hasn't named them yet.

Lucretia made her debut several seasons ago and is a member of the Junior League. Her fiance is a graduate of Princeton, and of John Hopkins Medical School.

To Open Pool

At last that yearned-for day is near, the day of the opening of the Longue Vue swimming pool and wading pool, just being completed.

The grand opening will be Saturday, August 5, with swimming, of course, as the chief entertainment. And from 1 o'clock that afternoon until 8 o'clock there'll be music—string music, and out-of-doors. From 8 to 2 there'll be dance music and dinner and dancing.

* * *

Bud of Autumn

Another "add" for our debutante list of 1933—the W. Murray Carrs, of Gettysburg street, will present their daughter, Amy Carr, during the holidays.

She has just returned with the George C. Burgwins from Old Point Comfort, Va., where she was a guest of her aunt, Mrs. Marshall Booker.

Summer In Town

For a number of weeks we've been talking so much about those who are away for the summer, or who are planning to go away, that one might think none of Pittsburgh's "400" was at home.

But many a social registerite is, and what's more many expect to be here all summer. There are really more stay-at-homes than travelers this season.

Mrs. Mortimer C. Miller is one of the many who usually go away for the summer and who is living here this season. "I'm having a very nice summer at home," she told me. Her daughter, Mrs. Roy A. Hunt, is at home for the summer, too.

The McClintic family is among the stay-at-homes. Neither Mrs. H. H. McClintic nor her daughter, Mrs. George H. Love, is planning an out-of-town visit.

Staying At Home

Artist Louise Evans and her mother, Mrs. Henry Oliver Evans, have been in town all summer.

Mrs. Carroll Miller is away, but not very far off. She's at her summer home, Wolf Creek Farm, Slippery Rock, Pa., just now.

Hostess At Resort

News comes to us of a tea at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for members of the Old White Art colony, with Mrs. George W. Crawford, of Woodland road, and Casino Cottage, White Sulphur Springs, as hostess.

A gay 90's party is being arranged for August 29, with Mrs. Crawford as supervisor, at the Greenbrier there.

Added to the list of Pittsburghers visiting the Greenbrier are Mrs. H. L. Stone and Mrs. E. R. Weidlein.

* * *

Supper Hosts

The Simon T. Pattersons as a housewarming for their new summer home, Harkaway Farm, Deer Creek Church road, Allison Park, will entertain tomorrow night with a buffet supper under the trees.

The house is not finished yet, but the stables have been completed.

Today brings news of the betrothal of Alice Walker Scanlon, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Charles Scanlon, of Pittsburgh, and Edward Henry Wells, of Bloomfield, N. J. The wedding will take place here early next month. Mr. Wells and his fiancee are planning a trip to the West Indies and South America.

Mu Phi Epsilon Sponsor For 'Pop' Lawn Concert

Pittsburgh Chapter of Mu Phi Epsilon honorary national musical sorority will sponsor the "pop" concert on the lawn of the Hotel Schenley tomorrow night, to be played by Victor Saudek's Little Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Charles Yon, the president, will be in charge of the aides, to include Mrs. Elizabeth Storer Bothwell, Mrs. R. Q. Cleavenger, Miss Elizabeth Henderson, Miss Elizabeth Irwin, Miss Helen Machette, Miss Grace MacMillan and Miss Doris Peoples and Miss Janet Turner.

Central Branch W C A is sponsoring a moonlight excursion on the steamer Washington on Tuesday, August 8, to which friends as well as members are invited.

Thelma Buente Married to C. L. Jones

A well-known graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, Miss Thelma I. Buente, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Buente, of Edward avenue, Mt. Lebanon, became the bride of Charles L. Jones, of Thomas boulevard, son of Mrs. R. C. Jones, of Reidsville, N. C., last night at 8 o'clock at a pretty mid-summer wedding in the Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, Dormont, with the Rev. Frank J. Bryson, of the Second Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of ivory satin, having long sleeves and a train. Her veil of ivory tulle cascaded from a cap of lace, and lace edged her veil. She carried white roses and lilies of the valley.

Her matron of honor, Mrs. G. M. Schlegel, of Sewickley, wore a turquoise blue crepe gown having flowers to accent the decolletage, and carried cream roses and blue delphinium.

Gowns of pink crepe having net ruffles to give the wide-shoulder effect, were worn by the bridesmaids, Miss Virginia King, Miss Dolores Weslager, Mrs. G. R. Carl and Miss Marie Scherpf, of Ambridge. They carried cream roses and blue delphinium.

Paul E. Barton was best man, and C. M. Thomas, James H. Frakes, Edward Buente, brother of the bride; and J. S. Jamison, of New Kensington, were ushers.

Joseph Levine, Rabbi's Son, Weds in Jerusalem

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Betty Ruth Kaufman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kaufman, of North London, Eng., to Joseph Levine, son of Rabbi and Mrs. Wolf Levine, of Shaw avenue, McKeesport, which took place recently in Jerusalem.

Mr. Levine was graduated from the University of Pittsburgh, is now studying at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem. He expects to qualify as a rabbi within the year.

Mrs. Levine is a graduate of the John Howard School in England, and attended Oxford University.

Jane Anna Belle Bruff Married to Al Neish

Mr. and Mrs. James P. Bruff, of Sheraden, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jane Anna Belle Bruff, to Al Neish, of Canonsburg, Pa., which took place Saturday in Wellsburg, W. Va., with the Rev. E. Burt Evans, of the Wellsburg Methodist Episcopal Church, officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Neish will be at home in North Central avenue, Canonsburg, after August 1, following an Eastern motor trip.

Mrs. S. I. Lebeau Chairman For Jewish Home Picnic

Mrs. S. I. Lebeau is chairman for the picnic to be held Sunday at Eddie Ray's Farm, Cochran and Greentree roads, by the Jewish Home for Babies and Children. Mrs. Samuel Levitt and Mrs. Joseph Hamburg are co-chairmen with Mrs. Lebeau.

Book to Be Reviewed By College Club Group

When the new members of the College Club hold their weekly meeting on Tuesday they will begin the review of Mervey Allen's new book, "Anthony Adverse," which will be divided into three days' program. Miss Jane Cooper will review the first third of the book.

2 More Parties Given In Congress Series

Two links were forged yesterday in the chain of parties for the benefit of the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. William J. Lauer entertained in Congress House and Mrs. Sherman Massingham gave a dessert bridge in the Chartiers Heights Country Club.

Lorena Orr Chapter Giving Party Tonight

Lorena Orr Chapter No. 18, Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a card party at Boyd's Hall, Penn avenue, this evening at 8 o'clock. Euchre, "500," bridge and old maid will be played. Mrs. Cora Mauger is chairman and Mrs. Esther V. Brocker is worthy matron of the chapter.

80 Guests Dine, Dance And Play Bridge at College Club Party

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

A particularly charming and delightful affair was the dinner given last night at the College Club which was attended by 80 guests. Tables were arranged in the big clubroom under festoons of swinging, blinking Japanese lanterns. Upstairs in the lounge tables were placed for bridge and downstairs the dining room floor was cleared for dancing.

On the dais at the end of the clubroom Mrs. S. Brainard West, with Charlotte Enty Catlin at the piano, presented a program of four costume dances, an original dance of the roses concluding the performance and bringing enthusiastic applause.

Many club members entertained parties of four and six, among them the president, Mrs. George N. Swan, who had Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Campbell, Mrs. Martha Sands Kirtland, E. E. Slick and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Leavenworth at her table. Miss Louise Borland entertained a party of seven in honor of Mrs. Benjamin D. Dunham, who is leaving soon to make her home in New York.

Mrs. E. E. Lanpher, who, although she lives in Atlantic City, retains her membership in the club, was hostess at another table, Dr. Florence M. Teagarden entertained a party of six.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice D. Cooper were together, and Mrs. George Wilmer Martin had Mr. and Mrs. West among her guests. Mrs. Montfort Jones and Mrs. Wesley B. Holmes were among other hostesses.

Mrs. H. J. Shappacher heads the committee in charge of cards.

Alexander W. Dann is to speak tonight before the Dorian Club of Sewickley on "The Pittsburgh-Erie Canal." The regular Thursday night dinner will precede the talk.

Sponsors of Clinic Affair Urge Early Ticket Buying

Members of the 15 organizations which sponsor the Samuel P. Langley Eye Clinic are impressing on their friends that the tickets for the benefit boat ride on August 4, in order to be of actual benefit, must be purchased from the committees before August 3. Another fact that is being stressed is that children under 12 will be admitted to the boat without fee if they are with parents.

The proceeds, of course, are to carry on the splendid work of the clinic for another year. Since it was organized in January, 176 children have been given examinations and 165 of these have been fitted with glasses and two have been operated upon. These children were from both public and parochial schools.

Mrs. Eugene Morgret, president of the board of directors of the clinic, is chairman for the boat ride and on her committee is a representative from each of the 15 co-operating organizations.

SOAKED CLEAN in Chipso dozens and dozens of times, this last year's white linen suit hasn't a single threadbare spot nor any frayed edges.
WASHED in Chipso every other wearing all last summer. The white dress has not yellowed. The perky polka-dot tie and belt are their original clear, brilliant red.
EYELET EMBROIDERED yellow cotton dress held over from last summer for lots of good times this year because Chipso has kept its color still charmingly sunny.
STILL GOOD LOOKING after two years' wear, thanks to safe Chipso laundering. The silk has kept its rich quality. The gold-and-black embroidery has not faded nor run.
MARINE BLUE linen suit a year old. A good, bright, unstreaked blue it is, too! Dan's an expert mud-pie chef. You can imagine the job Chipso has to do on his clothes!

MARIE KELLY MRS. THOMAS P. KELLY DANIEL KELLY THOMAS KELLY, JR. WINIFRED KELLY

"Chipso put an end to faded clothes in our house" says busy mother of four

"Mother started me using Chipso two years ago," beamed Mrs. Thomas Kelly of Yonkers, N. Y. "She had been so annoyed with the way clothes faded that when she found that Chipso kept her dresses bright and new looking she couldn't wait to tell me.

"I had been disheartened, too, because my daughter's colorful rayon or silk sports dresses dulled so quickly. Chipso put an end to that worry!

"Chipso is just as wonderful for white clothes! My laundress, whom I've had thirteen years, was never able to get our clothes so white as they are now with Chipso.

"Chipso soaks them clean. They don't have to have their strength rubbed out of them. Besides that, Chipso isn't harsh. It is so safe that we put everything—even woolens and silk stockings—into Chipso suds without a fear of damage. Chipso saves me mending and keeps all our clothes looking their best."

We asked Mrs. Kelly what soap she uses for dishwashing and cleaning. "Chipso always," she said. "It is so sudsy it makes all that kind of work go faster and it saves my hands just the way it saves clothes."

Chipso is not adulterated with the harsh substances contained in inferior soaps which gradually weaken fabrics and dull their color. Chipso loosens dirt harmlessly by RICHER SUDS. That is why Chipso-washed clothes stay new-looking for years.

Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soaps and powders. Get Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, Chipso is the biggest value in rich, safe soap on the market today!

Feminine Reader Says Men Prefer 'Flashy' Girls

Aren't there any nice girls any more?

J. S. couldn't find them. According to him, they're all heartless gold-diggers, out to grab while the grabbing is good. And he pointed to his own sad experience as proof.

He was, he protested, an honest and earnest soul, but he just couldn't get a break. All Miss 1933 wanted was a Boy Friend with a big car and a flossy line—and she didn't care whether he got the car honestly or by sticking up a bank, just so he took her riding in it. So he was convinced that Girls Were a Bad Lot.

"And why does he think so?" snorts Lady-Bug, "I'll tell you why! It's because—"

Read on—for she's telling the Big Boy plenty!

Dear Elsie:

I've just read J. S.'s comment on girls. It was amusing, but it made me mad, too. How easy it is to blame other people for what happens to us, instead of facing our faults ourselves!

There are a lot of us—girls between 20 and 30—who know the real reason for J. S.'s troubles. Why does he have experiences like that? Probably for the reason you told him—because his money is his only attraction. But here's the big reason.

Men talk about the type of Sweet Little Home Girl they admire—but do you notice any of these same men going out of their way to date a girl because she is a simple, virtuous young lady, with an intelligent head on her shoulders and quiet tastes?

Huh! Don't you believe they do!

DO NOT RETURN

I have a number of friends who are stunning-looking, well-educated, lively, but who despise the usual cheap conduct—necking, false flattery, over-indulgence in drinking. Well, a fellow will take one of them out, try his "usual line of attack," find it fails, tell her he admires her, and that it is a pleasure to meet a nice girl like her, full of decent good humor and good sportsmanship—which all sounds fine.

But does he ever ask her out again? No indeedy! She isn't "hot" enough for him!

I've always heard that men were blind as bats when it came to women. That isn't true. They're not. The trouble with them is that, while they know it is the right thing to be interested in decent girls, they want to chase around with the other kind.

They look for flash—someone who'll whoop it up and act wild. They want what they call "fun"—and the kind who really would treat them fair are not out for that kind of "fun."

THEIR OWN FAULT

And so long as men devote their attention to "easy" women, just so long will they get stung.

Their bitter cynicism makes me laugh. It would be a good idea if they would stop and do a little thinking—and realize that they will never find an intelligent, generous, fair-minded, home-loving, clean-fun-loving girl in the places that they insist on visiting.

They deliberately steer for some girl on whom an intelligent blind man could see "Gold-Digger" written in scarlet letters a foot high; then they crab and make bitter remarks because they've got fleeced.

Well, so long as they go in for flash, they will get fleeced. Girls like that know the men who ask them out are on the make for all they can get—so they set out to "do" the man first. Who can blame them?

If you want a square deal, let them give one—and look for honest girls where they have some chance of finding them! I'm sick and tired of their bleats.

LADY-BUG.

All right, boys! That's telling you!

What have you to say for yourselves?

Wisdom of Youth Is Study and Development, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

The difference between success and failure in life often lies in the choice between a bright future and a foolish present.

Many young men with potential abilities to attain to the worthwhile things in life will not sacrifice present pastimes for future accomplishments.

The flimsy popularity of youth appeals to them too much. A car and spending money to attract shallow companions whom they would not notice a few years hence, seems to their immature judgments all that life will ever have to offer. Some have even committed crimes for these.

Youth is but the foundation of life, and the wisdom of youth is study and development. These bring advancement and success. Later in life come pleasures and luxuries better chosen with mature good judgment.

Madge Decides to Take Hand in "Comedy of Errors"

Noel Veritzen started, as might a roweled horse, when I asked him how he knew that Mary wanted to go to Paris for the year's study which the elder Veritzen had commanded.

"Why—why," he stammered, she said she was crazy to go; that it was the opportunity of a lifetime."

"I want you to go over that conversation very carefully, Noel," I said. "Did Mary express her delight in the plan at first, or was it only after you had warmly approved of her going?"

The color drained from his face and he looked as though I had dealt him an unexpected blow.

"You mean—" he faltered.

"I mean," I said slowly, deliberately, "that without meaning it, and in all innocence, you offered Mary a deadly insult when she told you of your father's plan for her."

"Insult," he babbled, "why—what did I say?"

"You told her it was a most wonderful opportunity, and that you were very glad for her, and you said it with convincing enthusiasm."

"But," stammered Noel, wide-eyed, "that's what I wanted to say. That's what I ought to have said, That's what anybody with any decent feeling or any generosity would have said."

FEMININE INSTINCT

"Granted, if you had only said something else first—expressed some dismay or regret at her going."

"Dismay! Regret!" Noel's eyes and voice distilled tragedy. "I feel as if it will kill me to have her go away, and she knows it—or ought to. I could stand it—would make myself stand it—if it were for her good and she wanted to go. But I didn't know then what I know now—about my father's scheme."

"I see everything you have said, Noel," I answered, "and it would have been wonderful for you to have said those things to her—even to have let her go, first of all, if, before anything else was said, you had let her see how desperately upset you were at the thought of her going away from you."

"But, don't you see," the boy persisted, "that would be selfish? Mary is so generous, so impulsive; and I knew that if she thought I was going to miss her so much, she would have given up the trip, and I saw in her face that she wanted to go."

"You said a little while ago," I began, "that Mary ought to know that you would miss her. Don't you realize that is the one thing a girl cannot know—cannot count on—unless you tell her so in actual words? It is silly, I grant you; but it comes from an age-old feminine instinct, which not even modern standards have been able to knock out of women.

ADVISES NOEL

"It is a regular comedy of errors, my dear lad, and I for one do not purpose that either of you shall be permitted to go on with it, even if I do run the risk of being considered a meddling interloper."

Noel seized my hand, raised it to his lips and kissed it with the deferential gesture which is so like his father's.

"Dear Mrs. Graham," he said fervently, "you know that you could never be that. You know, better than anyone in the world, what I feel about Mary. Tell me what to do, and I will do it."

"The one thing you must not do," I said earnestly, "is to refer in any manner whatsoever to this story about King Georges being in Paris. She may ask you if you have seen it. If she does, then it will be time enough to tell her 'yes,' and stage a bit of jealousy.

"But be sure that you make the issue personal jealousy of Georges. Do not hint that you have any fear of scandal, or anything like that. You know Mary's high spirits—her objection to anything like control.

"The first time you see her, don't wait for her to say anything. Sweep her off her feet. Tell her, as you have just told me, that you feel you cannot live if she goes away from you. Can you do that?"

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

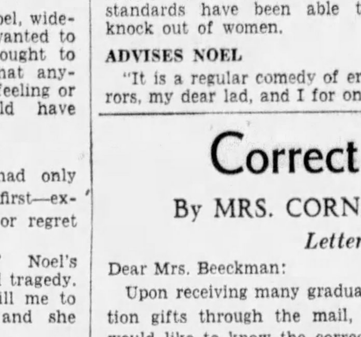
Bidding a Defensive Slam

It is rare, indeed, that a Slam contract should be undertaken as a defensive measure, when vulnerable, because the very fact that opponents are able to force you so high in the bidding carries with it the near certainty that the defeat of a Slam contract will be so severe that it would be better to permit the opponents to win the game. Occasionally, however, the quirks of distribution are such that a situation develops where a Slam undertaken purely for the purposes of defense results in the fulfillment of the contract, as much to the surprise of the players themselves as to that of their opponents.

A recent example of such a situation occurred at a club in New York City, with Mrs. T. Charles Farrelly in the role of making a daring Slam bid which, due to magnificent trump support and a void suit, her partner was able to make. The hand was:

West, Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠ (1)	2 ♡ (2)	2 ♠ (3)	3 ◇ (4)
4 ♠ (5)	5 ◇ (6)	Pass	Pass
5 ♠ (7)	6 ◇ (8)	Pass	Pass
Double (9)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—A very fine hand which seems to promise a sure game and has the possibilities of a Slam. Some players, in view of the distribution, would open with a Forcing bid of two.

2—A purely defensive Overcall.

3—Not a good free Raise, but it has little to do with the subsequent bidding.

5—West feels that he can see 10 tricks laid down in view of his partner's free Raise.

6—North continues to defend.

7—Again West feels that five spades can probably be made.

8—North also feels that five spades can be made. Hence the defensive Slam bid, which, it would appear, should not be defeated more than 2 tricks.

The Opening lead was the heart Ace, and South, instead of facing the probability of defeat by two or more tricks, saw there was much better than an even chance of making the contract. After winning the first trick, West shifted to the club Queen, which South won. South now returned a diamond to the Dummy, picking up both the adverse trumps. All that was necessary then to assure success was to drop the heart King. Much to the surprise of South, this card fell immediately, and a place to discard the losing club was found on the heart Queen in the Dummy.

The hand presents no particular lesson except, perhaps, that West, unless certain of defeating a Slam, would have been well advised to have dropped the bidding at five. However, it would require keen insight, indeed, into the many problems of distribution to be able to forecast the fact that South could make six diamonds against West's strong hand, even with partner holding an absolute bust as he did in this instance.

TODAY'S QUESTION

East-West vulnerable; North-South not vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♣
1 ♠	1 N T	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	3 N T	Pass	Pass Pass

You, North, hold:

♠ 10 5 2 ♡ K J 8 5 3 ◇ 6 3 2 ♣ Q 5

What do you lead?

Answer: Heart 5. In view of the strong club bidding by East (Dummy), as well as North's unfortunate holding of the Queen and one under the bidder, it seems probable that six solid clubs will easily be run by the adversaries. West, the Declarer, must have at least one, and probably two spade stops. Therefore, a spade Opening seems quite hopeless, as the opponents will be able to run 9 tricks almost immediately. The only hope of defeating the contract seems to be that partner holds the Heart Ace and Declarer the Queen, and that 5 tricks in that suit may be taken immediately. The lead may conceivably sacrifice a trick but, on the other hand, the chances of defeating the contract should be much greater than with the perfunctory spade Opening.

Household Hints

To remove white marks on dining table pour a little olive oil into a saucer, add a small quantity of fine table salt, and with the fingers rub the mixture well on to the marks. Then rub off with a cloth, and apply furniture cream.

Even with the tax and postage, it is usually wise for the woman of the house to pay bills for which she desires a receipt by check. Receipts seems to disappear so readily, while there is more respect paid to the check stub and canceled checks.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Pretty knees just aren't; not after the dimpled period of early childhood. Swimmers and beach posers had better take a kneeward look, get busy with the soapy scouring, anoint with coconut oil, give the knees a heavy drugging and massage.

The skin is coarse there, often inclined to be goose fleshy. Like the cutaneous covering of elbows, it should have more attention than it receives. Talcum can be applied atop the film of coconut oil; the pack will make flesh satiny smooth, considerably whiter.

Poor posture is often caused by weakened back muscles. And that statement can be turned face about since it is also true that weak muscles are responsible for poor posture. Swimming, horseback riding and tennis are what the doctor orders for this condition. Stretching is helpful. Lift up on the toes, extend the arms above the head, proceed to hoist the backbone to its utmost measurement. Keep in mind the need of retaining the soldier's position, hips back, chest high, head erect, shoulders and arms falling comfortably and naturally.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Letter of Thanks

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Upon receiving many graduation gifts through the mail, I would like to know the correct form of a thank-you note? K.

It's a helpful thing to keep in mind this general idea for writing such notes of thanks: first to thank for the thought itself, and then to thank for the present, chatting about it as if you were talking with the person. Something like this:

Dear Mary:

Weren't you the thoughtful and kind friend to think of making me so happy by your goodness to me on graduation day. I was so touched by your charming generosity, and I thank you with all my heart.

The evening bag is a beauty, quite the loveliest I've ever owned, or indeed ever dreamed would be mine. I shall be singing hymns of thanksgiving to you every time I carry it. Its white loveliness is appropriate with everything . . . you would choose such a perfect one.

Dearest love to you, and my deepest appreciation.

Lovingly,

LUNCHEON COSTUMES FORECAST CHANGING FALL MODES

A CLOSE-UP of well groomed women lunching in one of the favorite meeting places in New York discloses many things. The patrons here are a motley crowd, social, literary and artistic. But the women seem to have one thought in common, to dress in their coolest, since the day is so hot.

* * *

FOR THIS reason, the sheers are favorites—newest of all being the vaporous tailored chiffons. Dark cottons remain, particularly navy and black linens—which have absolueely been the "hit" of the season. With these are worn large capelines and cart wheel brimmed hats, and tiny little turned-downs of fabric and straw.

* * *

THERE ARE several women in prints, with black-on-white combinations predominant as usual. A handful of the younger ones wear ginghams and demure cotton prints. There are a few women in pastels—one always finds these on a hot sunny day. A glance at the accompanying picture will give one a general idea of our gleanings.

* * *

OCCASIONALLY WE saw a woman in the crowd whose costume had an advanced air about it. For instance, a very chic net chemisiere (shirtmaker type) dress in black. It combines two smart late summer fabrics, net and taffeta. The neckline is shirred and ties in a flat taffeta bow. With it are worn black taffeta gloves and hat. (Sketched to the right.)

* * *

ONE TAUPE-BROWN tailored chiffon suit was outstanding. You're going to see this color everywhere this fall, no matter where you go. At the theater, where it will appear in satin, taffeta and chiffon. On the street, in the new knubby woolens and printed velvets. At football games later on, in dyed furs and heavy tweed.

* * *

THIS PARTICULAR woman distinguished her taupe-brown chiffon suit by wearing a double strand of grey pearls! Watch for signs of pearl jewelry right now, for it is going to be worn by all smart women for daytime and evening.

* * *

TO GENERALIZE about the accompanying sketch: One young girl in navy dotted swiss suit (you cannot see her jacket thrown over the back of her chair), faces a cooly dressed friend in child-like garden print. Very, very midvictorian, with gigot sleeves, bustle-like pleatings in back, and a square neckline. A white Gibson sailor tops this costume, and a pastel blue panama hat, the other. Both are excellent examples of later summer hot weather costumes.

* * *

* * *

THIS LUNCHEON was a pleasant hour and a half, well spent. It had the remunerative value of giving a slight insight into the fall fashion story that follows this one. Most important of all, remember the costume of black net, with taffeta touches.

CARD OWNERS WRECKED CLUB WITH 'BONER' DEALS

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Hornsby Does It Again.
Always Lands on Feet.
Yanks in New Hundred.
Unblanked in 303 Games.
Boom in Motorcycling.
French Edge in Cochet.

STRANGE CAREER OF MAN OF MYSTERY

IN THE SIGNING of Rogers Hornsby to manage the St. Louis Browns, baseball's man of mystery has passed out of the National League. Nobody ever could understand how Hornsby was doing it. Four different clubs dismissed him. Tales of undermining followed in his wake. The Cardinals let him go after he had won a pennant and the world championship. John McGraw eased him out after a single season with the Giants. The Rajah went to Boston and supplanted Jack Slattery as manager before the season was six weeks old. One year settled him there and he was shifted to Chicago, eventually getting Joe McCarthys' job as manager. Last year the Cubs dropped him in midseason.

Rogers Hornsby

It was thought that that would mean his finish, but the Cards took him on again as a player and the early passing of Gabby Street was generally prophesied. True enough, Hornsby hadn't been back with the Cards long before Street lost his job, and though Rogers didn't get that appointment, here he is a manager again elsewhere, and given a long contract by the owner of the Browns in defiance of a public statement by the president of the American League that the Rajah was not desired in that circuit.

THAT HAS BEEN the case always. To judge by the whispers, nobody ever wanted Hornsby. He was branded an undesirable. Every time he was loose there was a hurried closing of doors. But always he landed on his feet. Sooner or later he became a manager again. Whatever the strange influence may be, it never has failed the former batting king.

At least one National League club is reported to be planning a change in management for next year, but none hesitated to waive on Hornsby. The senior loop people are wishing him luck on his new job, and all that, but in general they appear to be quite well satisfied that said job is in the other league.

THE YANKEES HAVE reeled off another hundred games and have reached and passed one more century post in their world record string of non-shutout contests. Barring the blank that Al Mamaux dealt to them in an exhibition game at Newark, N. J., this season, Joe McCarthy's ballers have not been whitewashed in almost two years, or since August 2, 1931, when Wilcy Moore, then with the Red Sox, beat them 1 to 0 in the second half of a doubleheader in Boston. In the meantime they have played 303 consecutive championship games without being shut out, 56 during the latter part of the 1931 season, 155 in 1932 and 92 so far this year. The best previous string in the majors was only 132. The Yanks' closest call came in a game against Washington in which both clubs were held scoreless for nine innings, Pitcher Charley Ruffing winning his own game in the tenth with a home run.

Wilcy Moore

PITCHER WILCY MOORE, the last major league hurler to shut out the Yanks, says he recollects the details so clearly that he can tell you how he pitched every ball. The Yankees had shipped him to St. Paul, he had put over a comeback and he wanted to show his old club that he still was a major leaguer. The Yanks later bought him back.

"Babe Ruth almost ruined me in the ninth inning after Joe Sewell had singled with two out," Moore relates. "The Babe got hold of a fast ball and drove it to right center. I turned my head and looked the opposite way as Tom Oliver ran for the ball, as I figured it was going into the bleachers. But somehow Oliver caught up with the leather and grabbed it as he backed up against the barrier."

THE LATEST PROPOSAL for a change in the baseball scoring system comes from one of Stony McLinn's correspondents in Philadelphia, who suggests that there be established in the pitching records a column showing "games saved."

It is argued that such pitchers as Grove, Wilcy Moore, Hoyt, Harris, Liska, Collins, Luque, Connally and others frequently save games by strong relief work in the late innings, but earlier flingers get credit for the victories. The contention is that the relief men are entitled to something more than a slight drop in their earned runs averages, and a column showing the number of games saved by each pitcher is suggested.

TALK ABOUT EVEN competition in golf! From Detroit, John Walter reports the case of two golfers who are all square after playing 2,772 holes. They are Art Lund and Norbert Jacques, two of Detroit's better public links players. When they were members of Detroit's team in the national public links championship in 1923, a friendly rivalry started that led to a match of 15 games of 18 holes each that year, in which they finished all even. Four more years of 15-game matches ended in an 11-hole margin in Lund's favor. They made another five-year agreement, and this time Jacques came out by the same margin. This year they're even again after four matches. Of the 154 games played in 10 years and part of another, 46 ended in ties, the winner had a margin of only one up in 69 games, of two up in 21, of three up in nine, of four up in six, of five up in two, and of six up in one.

MOTORCYCLE RACING IS having an unprecedented boom throught the country. So far in 1933, the American Motorcycle Association has issued more sanctions for hill climbing, racing, endurance runs, night speedway racing and motorcycle polo than during a similar period of any previous year. Registrations have increased rapidly in many sections.

Among the many new tracks constructed is a fast cinder course opening tomorrow night at the $250,000 municipal stadium in Freeport, L. I. The national championship endurance run will be held at Lansing Mich., September 3 and 4, over a course of 515 miles and with the riders on a schedule of 24 miles per hour. The national championship hill-climbing contest is scheduled for September 17 at Bethlehem, Pa.

JUST BECAUSE ENGLAND'S tennis stars swamped the United States team last week, it doesn't necessarily follow that they will continue their march right through the challenge round against France, starting tomorrow, and lift the Davis Cup.

Henri Cochet

Beating the French may prove a different kind of job. The Americans were off their game, but the cup defenders probably will be on. As usual, France's chances will hinge on the form of Henri Cochet, and if that ace is right the trophy may stay right where it has been since 1927.

THE DEFEATS HE suffered this season at the hands of Jack Crawford and Ellsworth Vines led many of the tennis critics to pronounce Cochet on the downgrade, but the average fan won't be convinced until Henri has been beaten in the cup matches. The French star appeared to be slipping in other years, too, but when the time came for the big stuff he usually managed to rise again to his old heights. He is the "money player" of tennis, always there with something extra when there is an important prize at stake. When he lost to Vines in the challenge round last year France already had clinched the cup. In 1931, Cochet defeated both of the English players he will meet in this year's cup singles, toppling Fred Perry and Bunny Austin each in three out of four sets. In defense of the Cup in 1928, Henri beat John Hennessy and Bill Tilden, the latter in straight sets; in 1929 he again beat Tilden in straight sets and defeated George Lott in three out of four; in 1930 he beat Lott in straight sets and Tilden in three out of four. In all of those years he also played in the doubles, losing only in 1929. Last year he downed Allison and then lost to Vines, his only singles defeat while France has held the Cup, but there was nothing at stake when Vines took a decision over him. Overthrowing a team that has a player of that caliber, if he still is anywhere near his old form, is a contract.

BABE HERMAN EARL GRACE BILL SWIFT LLOYD WANER

When yesterday's Pirates-Cubs game was postponed, several of the athletes rushed to the North Park course for a round of golf. This Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture shows Babe Herman, Chicago's slugging outfielder, playing out of a trap guarding the sixth green, into which Catcher Grace, Pitcher Swift and Outfielder Waner, of the Bucs, have moved to add to the difficulties of the shot. Babe, accustomed to the "old razz" and just about as lusty a hitter with a southpaw golf club as he is with his big baseball bludgeon, laid it dead to the pin and deftly hold out for a par.

JACK KING SET FOR GO WITH SLAUGHTER

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Amateur boxing show, Twenty-seventh Ward A. C., North Side.

By JAMES MILLER

Jack King, a fighter of distinction, who has moved here from Little Rock, Ark., will be out tonight to prove to his newly adopted home fans that he is the sage of the dressing in the middleweight class when he clashes with Sammy Slaughter, the knock-'em-dead Negro puncher, of Terre Haute, Ind., in the main bout of 10 rounds at the North Braddock Bowl.

King arrived in town on Tuesday with his manager, Red Mason, all set for a long sojourn in the city, and stated that with the extra pounds he put on in the last few months it's going to be just too bad for the best of the 160-pounders.

HAS GOOD RECORD

This readily can be accepted as a fact when one thinks of the trouble he gave Teddy Yarosz, who is one of the best as a welterweight. In their first meeting, many of the fans thought that King defeated Teddy, although the latter received the decision. The second battle between the two also was very close.

In taking on Slaughter, King will have to go at top speed in order to pull down a victory. Sammy, in his last fight, won over Georgie Nichols, the former N. B. A., light-heavyweight champion, and has a knockout victory to his credit over Paul Pirrone, the Cleveland belter.

The Alabama Kid, Negro, of Dover, O., who at times is a good showman and then again very bad, meets Bruno Sala, of Donora, in the six-round semi-final.

Al Becker, of Sheradan, in his second appearance in the ring after a long layoff, takes a long shot against Harry Jacoby, a stablemate of Teddy Yarosz, in the second six-round number. Jacoby is a finished boxer and also has a good punch.

DI PIERO MEETS PERR

Tony Di Piero, formerly a member of the Duquesne University boxing squad, encounters Lee Perr, of Turtle Creek, in the opening setto. The show gets under way at 8:45, daylight saving time.

Seven corking amateur boxing bouts are scheduled at the Twenty-seventh Ward A. C. tonight. In the feature go, Al Quaill boxes Vince Browning. Other bouts on the card are:

135-pound class—Joe Brody, Linwood A. C., vs. Herman Burger, McKeesport A. C.

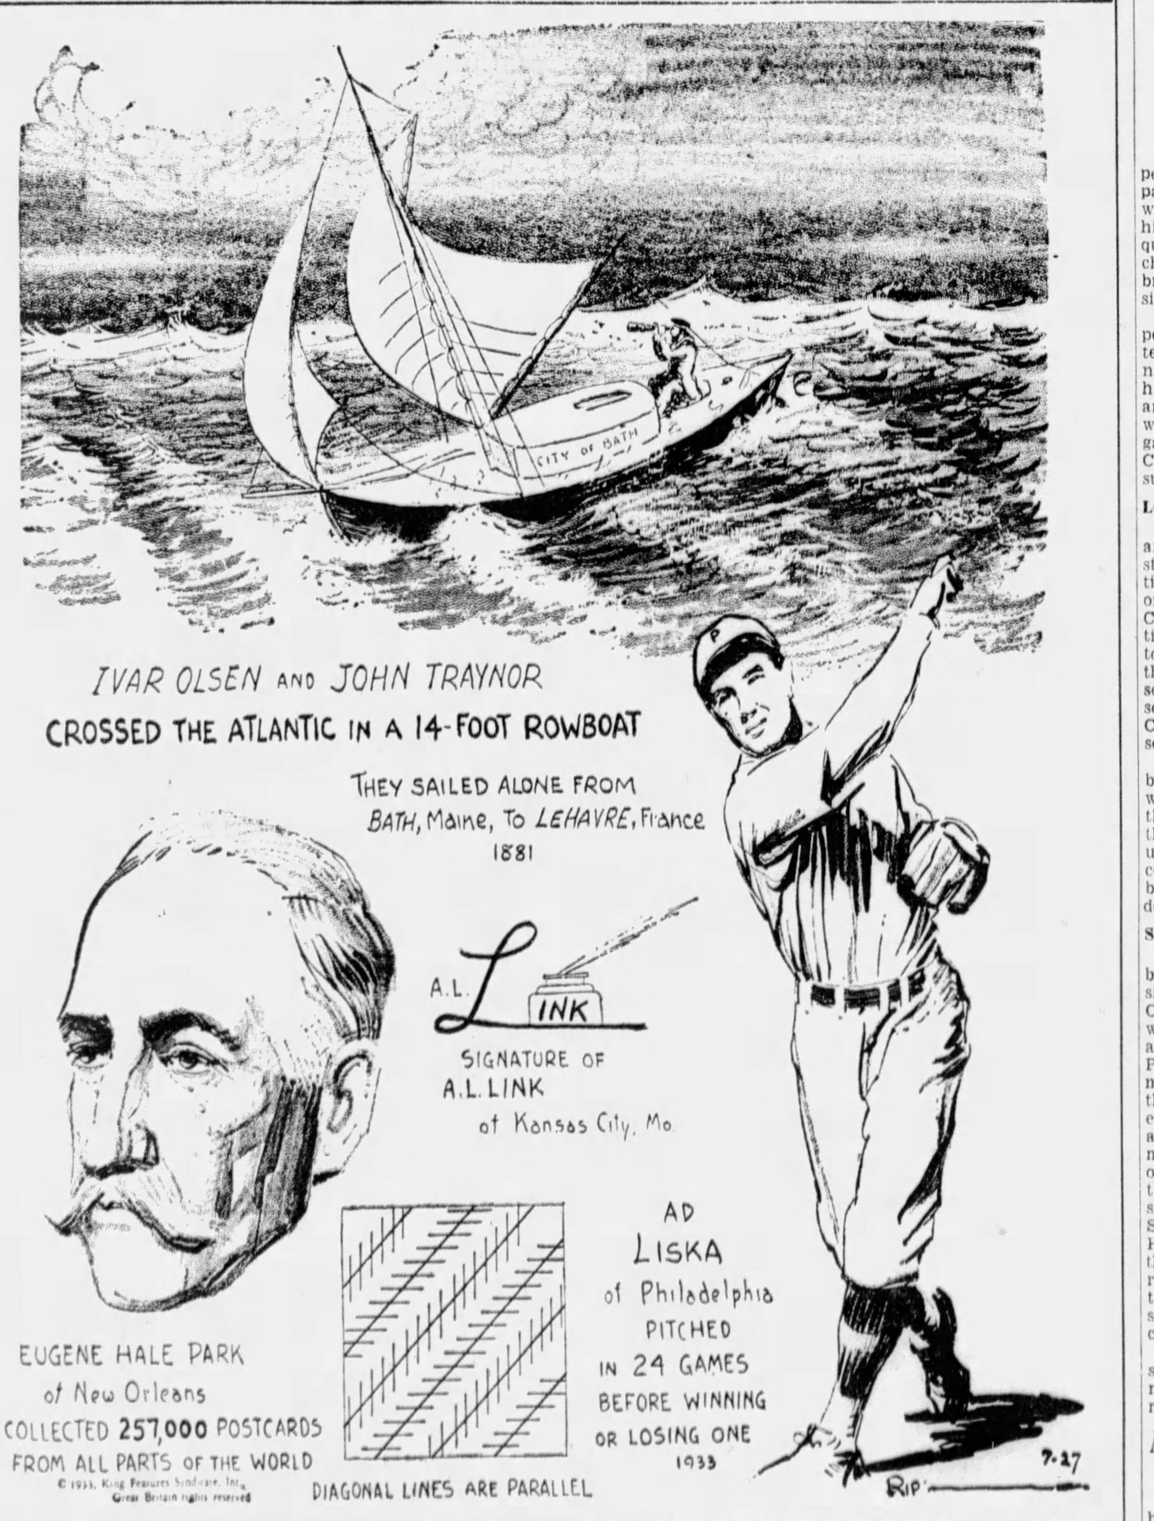
(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)



EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: STRANGE BROTHERHOOD—This strange disparity of brothers was revealed in a court action during which a 96-year-old witness was questioned as to whether he had any brothers or sisters. The witness replied that his only brother died 150 years before. The witness' father had first married at the age of 19, and his first child had died in infancy. He married again at the age of 75, begetting the witness, who lived to testify at the age of 96.

LOSS OF HAFEY STILL FELT BY REDBIRDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Gabby Street, winner of two pennants and a world series in the past three years, was sunk almost without warning the other day, his St. Louis employers being quoted to the effect that the change in the management was brought about because they desired to win the flag.

If you ask Bill Terry about the pennant situation today he might tell you that the St. Louis magnates are talking through their hats, if they have any left. Terry and his Giants are running high, wide and handsome with a four-game lead over the second-place Cubs on top of a double New York success of yesterday.

LOSE BATTING STAR

To get back to Messrs. Breadon and Rickey, you didn't see any statement from these owners relative to a terrible boner they pulled one year ago when they tossed Chick Hafey off the club just at a time when the Redbirds seemed to be in a position to monopolize the field. Chick, it seems, wanted some fancy money for his services, so he was shipped up the river to Cincinnati for punishment or something.

You don't suppose that a smart baseball man like Street would wish to get rid of a slugger of the Hafey stripe, do you? But the National League is cluttered up with moguls who have small conception of the technique of baseball, but who step in with deals where wise men fear to tread.

SINGING THE BLUES

When the Cards were in Pittsburgh early last season they were singing the blues because Slugger Chick had been shanghaied, or whatever it is called when you are sentenced to Cincinnati. The Pirates started them to their ultimate second-division berth by throwing their attack at the weakened leftfield berth, unintentionally or otherwise. Anyhow, the morale of the Redbirds was low on account of Chick's passing and the Cards haven't been the same since. At that time one of Street's biggest stars stated that Hafey was the best outfielder in the National League. Had he been retained at St. Louis there is no telling how many flags in succession the Cards would have copped.

The Pirates, who wound up their series with the Cubs this afternoon, will meet the Reds here tomorrow.

Night Mushball Tilt at Homestead

The West Homestead Millers have made arrangements to accommodate a crowd of several thousand fans at 9:15 tomorrow night when they inaugurate night mushball under the floodlights at the Homestead athletic field.

The Baker Hill mushers are to provide the opposition.

HORNSBY PLANS TO BE 'TACTFUL' LEADER

RAJAH TO TAKE OVER BROWNS TOMORROW

ST. LOUIS, July 27.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby far more mature and tactful than the impulsive 1926 manager of the St. Louis Cardinals today considered plans for another St. Louis major league ball club, the Browns

Signed yesterday by owner Phil Ball, of the Browns, to pilot the club through the remainder of the season and 1934 and 1935, Hornsby will leave St. Louis today and meet his new charges in Chicago tomorrow.

Admitting that he has certain theories about running a ball club, the new manager explained, however, that he would not try to regulate the personal habits of his players. He said:

"I didn't do it with the Cardinals, and don't intend to with the Browns. But, whoever plays for me must deliver, and no one who doesn't take care of himself can deliver, so that sort of works it out automatically, doesn't it?"

TO STUDY PLAYERS

The Rajah explained that he had made no plans for a campaign for his American League tail-enders. He continued:

"I've got to know my men first; I've got to observe their style of play. I've got to observe American League players in action."

Hornsby signed a Brown contract after the St. Louis Cardinals, who had him under contract as a player, went through the formality of asking waivers.

He returned to the Cardinals this year after playing with or managing New York, Boston and Chicago National League clubs since leaving St. Louis in 1927.

At Bowl

JACK KING

For the first time King will be announced as "Pittsburgh middleweight" when he meets Sammy Slaughter in the main bout at the North Braddock Bowl tonight. He came here this week to make this city his home, after doing a good job of fighting out of Little Rock, Ark., for the last several years.

LOUGHRAN BOWS TO RISKO

CHICAGO, July 27.—(INS.)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, defeated Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, last night in a 10-round bout at Mills Stadium, interrupting Loughran's heavyweight championship hopes.

Risko was able to get around the Philadelphian's famous left to give Loughran a thumping that won the referee's decision. Johnny opened in the first round with a rush that brought Loughran to the floor with a left hook to the jaw.

Risko apparently held the upper hand in all but the second and third rounds. Loughran weighed in at 185½ and Risko at 193½.

YANKEE STARS SWEEP MEET

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 27.—(AP.)—Facing light competition from a group of Swedish athletes, the touring track and field stars from the United States made a clean sweep of six events in a meet at Surahammar last night. Only Eric Ny, Swedish middle-distance ace who competed in the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles, was able to give the Americans a run for their money, finishing second in both the 400 and 200-meter events. There were no outstanding performances in the meet.

Ralph Metcale, the Marquette University sprinter, took the 100-meter dash in the slow time of 11 seconds flat. Ivan Fuqua, Indiana quarter-miler, took the other sprint, covering the 200 meters in 23.4 to beat Ny by a full second. Johnny Morriss, of Louisiana, whose specialty is hurdling, was third in 24.5.

SWIM CHAMPS IN SMASHUP

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., July 27.—(AP.)—Four members of the Los Angeles Athletic Club's national championship swimming team, returning by motor car from Chicago, were injured yesterday near Willard, N. M., when their machine overturned.

Herbert Barthels was brought to a hospital here in a serious condition, suffering from a fractured vertebra.

BROIDA LOSES TO BOWMAN

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 27.—(AP.)—Doc Barr, of Dallas, Tex., filled the semi-finals bracket opposite Eddie Jacobs, of Baltimore, by defeating Clarence Charest, of Washington, national singles veterans champion, in yesterday's play in the Virginia state tennis championship. The score was 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Jacobs showed all of his tricks to his younger brother in defeating William, 6-4, 7-5.

Other semi-finalists are Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, who defeated Frank Broida, of Pittsburgh, former Harvard star, 6-3, 6-4, and Wilbur Hess, of Houston, Texas state champion.

Fight Bowl Builder Killed in Accident

NEW YORK, July 27.—(INS.)—John C. Baxter, the contractor who built the great Madison Square Garden Bowl, the prize fight arena in Long Island, died early today from injuries suffered when a truck struck him as he was crossing the street.

LETO, RAMEY DRAW

HARTFORD, Conn., July 27.—(AP.)—Jimmy Leto, 133, of Hartford and Tampa, Fla., and Wesley Ramey, 134½, of Grand Rapids, Mich., fought 10 rounds to a draw last night in the feature bout at the South Park Arena.

ROONEY SIGNS TWO CENTERS

The local entry in the National Professional Football League has signed two giant centers — Bob Erickson, who starred at Northwestern and last year played with the Boston Braves, and Herb Eschback, former Penn State luminary.

The local pros will go into training at a camp near Greensburg early in September.

CADDIES ON STRIKE

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., July 27.—Caddies at the local country club, refused an increase of from 25 cents to 35 cents for a nine-hole round, yesterday, went on strike. State police quelled a disturbance when other bag-toters were brought in. No agreement had been reached today.

They might both look alike in a window

THESE are days you want your full money's worth . . . whether you buy a suit of clothes or a tankful of gasoline.

You somehow expect "shoddy" products from companies which constantly shout extravagant claims which your own intelligence tells you are unwarranted. And you likewise expect honest products from companies which the years have proved to be reliable.

KAUFFMANN LEADS IN SOUTH PARK FINAL

BRENKUS TRAILS STAR; BIG FIELD AT OAKMONT

By TOM BIRKS

Carl F. Kauffmann, three times winner of the national public links championship, had to battle to the limit to obtain a 1-up advantage over Charley Brenkus at the end of the first 18 holes of the 36-hole final for the South County Park golf championship being played today. The second 18 holes were scheduled for later this afternoon.

Trailing 1 down almost from the outset, Kauffmann came through with birdies on the seventeenth and eighteenth to take a 1-up lead at the end of the first round.

HAS MEDAL OF 77

Kauffmann finished the first 18 holes with a medal score of 77, going out in 42 and touring the inward nine in 35. Brenkus was only one stroke above this figure with a 41 for his outward nine and a 37 for the homecoming trip.

Kauffmann squared the match on the seventeenth with a brilliant 2, while Brenkus required a 3. On the next hole, Carl bagged a 3 and Brenkus a 4. The cards for 18 holes:

Out	655	454	544—42
In	385	633	523—35—77

Brenkus' card:

Out	644	554	454—41
In	385	843	534—37—78

The largest field of the season is playing over the links of the Oakmont Country Club today in another of those popular one-day Pennsylvania State handicap tournaments.

James A. Pownes, assisted by George Underwood, has been sending foursomes from the initial tee ever since early morn, and it will be nightfall before the final competitor holes out on the eighteenth green.

Mixed foursomes will be in order at the Pittsburgh Field Club tomorrow. It is expected that nearly 200 will play.

WOMEN SHARE

Mrs. L. B. Smith and Mrs. C. J. Allen, both of Greensburg, tied for the lead in the one-day women's tournament staged by the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association at Greensburg yesterday. Each scored a net 75. Low gross was won by Mrs. Smith with a 90.

F. E. Gould, Jr., captured the medal in the qualifying round of the annual Washington-Greene County championship at the Monongahela Country Club yesterday when he scored 36-34—72. A field of 50 competed. Ed McLeod and George Gordon scored 76s to tie for the runnerup position.

Sport Shorts

CHICAGO—(AP.)—A record field, including five former titleholders, came to Soldier Field today to settle the world horseshoe pitching championship of 1933. Blair Nunamaker, of Cleveland, world champion for the last four years, was a big favorite to repeat.

WESTBURY, N. Y.—The Aknusti polo team yesterday gained the final round of the national junior polo championship for 20-goal teams by defeating the United States Army riders, 11-5.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP.)—The outright release of Clarence Pickrel, rookie right-hand pitcher, and Fred Hunter, coach, has been announced by the Phils.

LONG BEACH, N. Y.—(AP.)—Facing the final 36 holes today, Walter Kozak, the defending champion from the Pomonok Club at Flushing, carried a four-stroke lead in the Long Island open golf championship at the Lido Country Club. Despite a weak start, Kozak piled a 75 yesterday on top of his par-breaking 71 Tuesday for a 36-hole total of 146.

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS.) — After hitting safely in 61 consecutive games to establish a new record in the Pacific Coast League, Joe Demaggio, 18, San Francisco outfielder, was halted by Ed Walsh, Jr., Oakland pitcher, who held Demaggio hitless in five times at bat yesterday.

TOPEKA, Kan. — (AP.) — The Kansas Athletic Commission has indefinitely suspended Max and Babe Hunt, heavyweight fighters, and four fight managers on a charge of failure to fulfill an exhibition agreement in Wichita, Kan., recently.

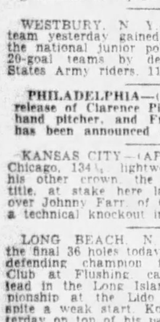
GOODWOOD, England—(AP.)—Edward Esmond's 3-year-old bay colt Sans Peine today raced to a four-length victory in the Goodwood Cup at 2 miles and 5 furlongs, a stake event for 3-year-olds and up, weight for age. Sir Harold Wernher's Brown Jack was second and Sir Frederick Ely's Elmenes third.

CHICAGO—(AP.)—The date for the $25,000 added Hawthorne Gold Cup at a mile and a quarter has been set for August 24 at the Hawthorne race track.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

WASHINGTON, July 27—Today's riddle is what's the difference between a big league manager and a well-known cigaret? And the answer is they all don't satisfy.



Nick Altrock

The Cleveland owners figured their ball club didn't match their handsome new park, so Peckinpaugh got the guillotine. And now the Browns have let out Bill Killefer and the Cardinals have dismissed Gabby Street. And before the season is over, we'll be having more rumors than Mrs. Clancy's lodging house about this or that manager being displaced.

The magnates would like to have each league constructed so there were eight good ball towns in it, but nothing lower than third place. And until that problem in mathematics is worked out, there always will be managers fired now and then. In fact, over in the National loop they will even fire you for winning a pennant, as Joe McCarthy can tell you. So I guess the ideal situation is to have 16 world championship teams at the end of each season. Einstein's working at this now.

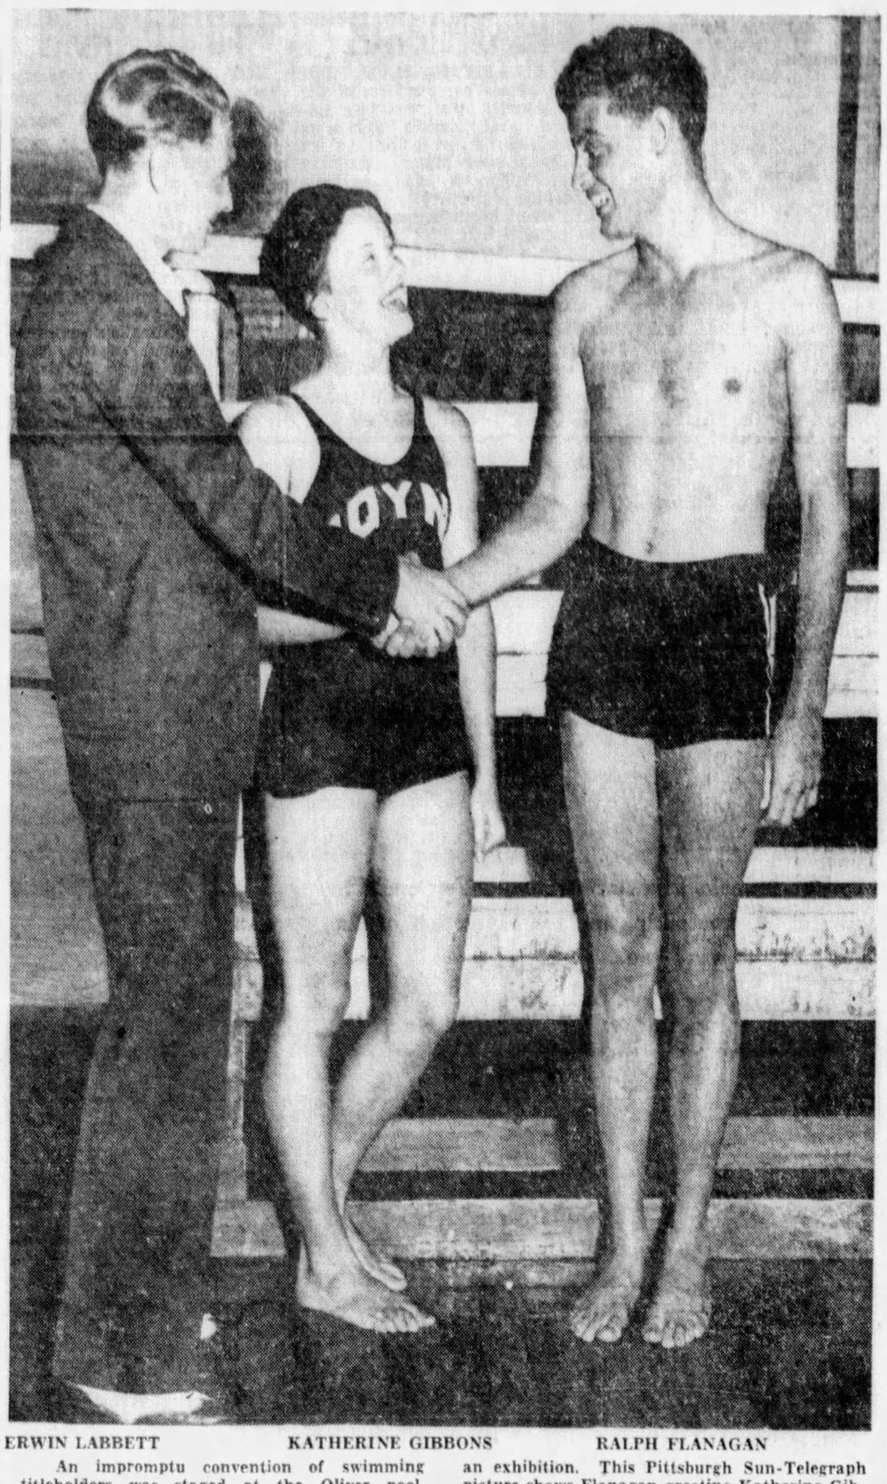
Swimming Champions Meet Here



ERWIN LABBETT KATHERINE GIBBONS RALPH FLANAGAN

CENTER TENNIS FAVORITES WIN

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Competition in the annual Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' tennis championships continues unabated today on the clay courts of the P. A. A. Completion of 20 tussles in the bi-divisional milling yesterday in spite of threat of rain, which ultimately materialized to conclude hostilities about 5 o'clock, advanced the 15-year group well into the semi-final bracket and reduced the field to reasonably comfortable proportions.

Wind-up frays to determine which youngsters shall be sent as Steel City representatives to the national junior and boys' tournament at Culver Military Academy, the week of August 7, will perforce be delayed till the morrow.

Inaugural debates in the local milling followed the dope pretty uniformly. Nearest approach to an upset occurred in the boys' event when Irvin Sobel, Parks performer, pushed Jerry Goodman, Taylor Allderdice High luminary and second seeded entrant, to 4-6, 6-3, 6-4 are succumbing before the favorite's cautious consistency.

BALD VICTOR

Ralph Bald, defender of the Center junior title, paced the older contingent into round three by blanking Jim McMorris in love sets. Jim Magaw, runner-up to Bald for West Penn honors, was pushed aplenty by Paul Lackner, but prevailed at 7-5, 6-3.

New entries for laurels of the fourth renewal of the Pittsburgh Parks championships increased the length of Chairman Andy Smeaton's list considerably yesterday.

Chairman Smeaton will receive masculine entries until tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock. Women have till Monday at the same hour to proclaim intention to do battle. The chairman may be reached by mail at 7536 Kensington street, Pittsburgh, or by telephone at Churchill 3834.

MATCHES POSTPONED

Yesterday's center tourney summary:

FLORIDA SWIM CHAMP HERE

Flanagan, who arrived here yesterday to visit friends, established a new American record of 21:12 1-5 for the one-mile free style in the recent A. A. U. championship meet in Chicago. Lone-handed, he garnered 16 points to give the Greater Miami A. A., which he represents, second honors in the national meet.

SHARON LEGION NINE BATTLES SOUTH HILLS

South Hills, winner of the Allegheny County and Southwestern Pennsylvania championship in the American Legion Junior baseball tournament, will meet Sharon, winner of the Northwestern Pennsylvania, for the Western Regional title at Forbes Field this evening.

Sharon this week won over Erie and Butler, and South Hills eliminated Uniontown in adding to the districts over which they rule. Their records, about equally impressive, indicate that a close battle may be expected.

Players who have participated in the Legion tourney will be guests of the Pirate management at the Bucs-Cubs game this afternoon.

SANSTOL VICTOR

MONTREAL, July 27.—(AP.)—Pete Sanstol, Norwegian bantamweight who makes his home in Montreal, came back after nearly a year's absence and outpointed Pete DeGrasse, of Cornwall, Ontario, and New York, in the 10-round main bout of a fight card witnessed by a crowd of more than 6,000 here last night.

GREATER PITTSBURGH LEAGUE

INDEPENDENT

Homestead Grays at Altoona.

The Springdale club is booked to meet Parmelee in the feature game of the Greater Pittsburgh League this evening, with Dean Field, Bloomfield, as the scene of action.

Gigilotti, the Herron Hill boy, will be on the mound for Parmelee, and Jack Cummings will be behind the bat. This is an important game and the Cabbies must win if they are to stay in the race. Manager Dinny Moore is keeping Regis Leheny as a reserve hurler.

The Book nine, of the City League, has a tough assignment this evening when Squire Ackermon's Whitaker team is met on the Whitaker grounds. Whitaker has been hitting a steady pace to stay in second place and a victory over the Olympic Park aggregation will help their pennant chances no little.

Fight Results

At Montreal—Pete Sanstol defeated Peter DeGrasse, 10 rounds; Freddie Bernard defeated Ronnie Headley, 8 rounds; Roger Bernard defeated Albert Ladou, 10 rounds.

At Kansas City—Barney Ross won by a technical knockout over Johnny Farr, 6 rounds; Joe Banovic defeated Jackie Chavez, 8 rounds; Tommy Corbett defeated Chief Paris, 6 rounds; Pat Kissinger defeated Steve Ketchel, 6 rounds.

At St. Louis—Davy Abad defeated Allen Whitlow, 10 rounds; Joe Huff and Clem Reed drew, 8 rounds; Elmer Savage defeated Carl Schafer, 8 rounds; Joe Parks knocked out Barney Ross, 2 rounds.

KLEY CAPTURES TWO RACES

Ollie Kley, of Trafford City, carried off the major share of honors as night automobile racing was introduced in Pittsburgh last night. The races were held under the lights of Greenlee Field.

Kley won the 15-mile race and also took the 10-mile opening sprint. The 12-mile event was won by Billy Schemp. The time for the first race was 12:02 and for the second, 11:04. Harry Under was second to Schemp and Earl Johnson third.

The wet and unseasoned track interfered with the speed.

HELEN MOODY TO CAPTAIN CUP TEAM

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP.)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, Wimbledon tennis champion, was named today to captain the United States team in the Wightman Cup matches with England at Forest Hills, Friday and Saturday of next week. This is the second straight year Mrs. Moody has been honored with the captaincy. She led the team which defeated the British at Wimbledon, 4 to 3, a year ago.

Although the American lineup will not be determined until next week, when the draw is made, it is considered certain Mrs. Moody again will be No. 1 in the singles, with Helen Jacobs as No. 2. This leaves a third singles entry and two doubles teams to be selected.

CUP DRAW MADE

PARIS, July 27.—(INS.)—Andre Merlin, France's fourth-ranking tennis player, will face H. W. (Bunny) Austin, ace of the English team, in the first singles match of the Davis Cup challenge round tomorrow. The draw was made today. In the second match of the day, Henri Cochet will meet Fred Perry.

On Sunday the singles pairings will be reversed. The doubles will be played Saturday.

HOW TO AVOID SHAVING IRRITATION REVEALED BY SKIN CLINIC

SHAVE with a sharp blade if you would avoid serious skin trouble. This is the authoritative statement of the Gillette Skin Clinic, headed by an eminent dermatologist. "Based upon a recent widespread survey among physicians and dermatologists, and our own research, we know beyond doubt that many disorders of the skin definitely can be traced to faulty shaving," states the Clinic.

To meet the demands of our Skin Clinic and to satisfy the requirements of other physicians and dermatologists, the "BLUE BLADE" is as sharp as modern engineering skill can make it. In a recent competitive test with other "makes" of blades, the "BLUE BLADE" proved far sharper.

Equally important is the uniformity of the "BLUE BLADE"—made so by automatic method. Even the steel-treating process is self-controlled, assuring uniformity of temper never before achieved.

You need and want the shaving comfort provided by the "BLUE BLADE". Learn how it protects tender skin. Buy a package of "BLUE BLADES" and see for yourself. Gillette Safety Razor Company, Boston, Mass.

MARKET LOSES EARLY GAINS AT CLOSE

NEW YORK, July 27.—Stocks took a reactionary twist in the late dealings today after early bullish incentives had carried quotations fractions to more than 2 points higher. Gains in rails, "repeal" shares, steels and others were largely cancelled, while a number of volatile issues registered net losses. Case erased a 4 point gain while United States Smelting dropped 6 points after having risen 2. Advances of a point or more were lost in United States Steel, New York Central, American Can and Allied Chemical. Transfers approximated 2,700,000 shares.

Stocks, headed by the steels, rails, "repeal" issues and various specialties moved up fractionally to more than 3 points in the early proceedings. There was considerable backing and filling. The ticker tape came almost to a standstill on moderate profit taking recessions. Renewed strength of grains on the restricted Chicago market, together with a further advance at Winnipeg, was a cheerful influence. Cotton was up around $1 a bale and carrier loans spurted in the bond market. The dollar soared in foreign exchange transactions, gaining 7 cents against the pound sterling at one time. Dollar gyrations, however, seemingly were ignored as a market influence.

Prospects of ship-building contracts gave Bethlehem Steel shares a whirl for gains of around 3½ points, while U. S. Steel, National and Republic Steels advanced 1 to more than 2. Rail issues up 1 to 3 included Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, N. Y. Central, Lackawanna, Santa Fe, Erie, Pennsylvania and Baltimore and Ohio. Gains of 1 to around 3 were recorded by Case, Deere and International Harvester and advances of 1 to 2 were shown by American Telephone, U. S. Smelting, Western Union, Cerro De Pasco, National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Crown Cork and Owens-Illinois. The gold stocks were quiet after their flurry of yesterday.

There were some reports that Europe had again stepped in as a buyer of stocks in this market after having unloaded large quantities of securities last week. The rallying dollar, it was deduced by various observers, may have influenced traders abroad to reinstate their commitments on the theory that the longer they delayed the more it would cost them in exchange depreciation.

Bearish operations for the continuation of the secondary reaction, which were quite voluminous at the beginning of this week, were said to have dwindled considerably with many "short" traders apparently disposed to adopt a neutral attitude for the moment in order to guage the character of renewed public participation. While margin requirements are still relatively stiff, a number of brokers, during the past day or so, are reported to have shaded their requirements in view of the calming down of the recent speculative hysteria.

DOLLAR STAGES SHARP RISE

NEW YORK, July 27.—(INS.)—Continuing its sensational rise over European currencies, the dollar today snapped back to 72.82 cents in terms of gold parity as compared with an all-time low of 68.1 cents just before the stock market crash.

The extension of the dollar's parity was attributed to dollar operations by the British government for conversion. The British pound tumbled 6¾ cents to $4.56¼ while the French franc dropped 6 points to 5.57 cents.

Today's drop in sterling follows a decline of 3¼ cents yesterday, making the loss in two days 10 cents.

The dollar also gained substantially over the gold currencies, the Dutch guilder breaking 58 points to 55.37 cents, the Swiss franc dipping 22 points to 26.63 cents, and the Belga dropping 18 points to 19.17 cents. The lira was off 7 points at 7.24 cents.

The German mark weakened 38 points to 32.68 cents while the Canadian dollar dropped to a 7 per cent discount in terms of the American dollar, selling at 93 cents, a drop of ⅜ of a cent.

INCOME SHEETS, BALANCES STIR DIFFERENCES

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Until federal incorporation of companies has become accomplished, the New York Stock Exchange has undertaken to step into the breach to place some limit on the freedom of executives in regard to accounting practices.

Mr. Rukeyser

Reformers, such as William Z. Ripley, of Harvard, would like the legal setup changed to such an extent that industrial and miscellaneous companies, like railways and public utilities, would be required to pursue uniform accounting methods. Possibly, the Industrial Recovery Act would give authority to include in codes insistence on uniform accounting practices.

At present, we are facing a perfect babel of accounting differences. In industrial companies, each chief executive wants to be a law unto himself.

OPINIONS DIFFER

As a biproduct of recent negotiations on the part of the Stock Exchange with listed companies concerning accounting practices, there has come to the surface a sharp divergence of opinion on the relative importance of the income account and the balance sheet.

In the recent new era there grew up a tendency on the part of the public to stake almost everything on per-share earnings reported by corporations in income accounts. No one discounts the importance of earnings, but genuine students of accounting point out that average earnings over a period of years, particularly through all phases of a business cycle, are more significant than those of the last quarter.

Likewise, the inclusion of nonrecurring items and failure to make adequate charge-offs for reserves against depreciation and obsolescence frequently upset the value of income accounts.

BALANCE SHEET

Those who think that the balance sheet is more important, especially from a prophetic viewpoint, argue that the profits of the last period can be offset overnight by a decline in selling prices, which are usually outside the control of management. Unless the investor is currently informed concerning selling prices of products made by a corporation, tonnage booked, and costs, he is in the dark as to prospective earnings.

Yet when the balance sheet reveals a strong financial condition, with ample liquid funds to pay dividends for a period years even if not currently earned, then the investor at least is assured that his company is in position to weather the storm, the duration of which may be unpredictable.

IMPORTANCE REDUCED

In alluding to the popular interest in the income account, J. M. B. Hoxsey, executive assistant, committee on stock list, of the stock exchange, said:

"The importance of the balance sheet has been reduced almost to the point where its major useful function may be in the provision of machinery by which the clerical accuracy of the income account may be, in part, tested. It is quite possible that a future movement might reduce the balance sheet to a half dozen lines on each side, as a mere proof that the accuracy of the income account had thus been tested, with accompanying statements emphasizing and explaining the true status of the company in respect of its assets, liabilities and the various subdivisions of its net worth."

Incidentally, in the recent conflict of opinion between the Stock Exchange and Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, which has been adjusted, the management of the latter disagreed that the income account overshadows the balance sheet in importance. Of course, the balance sheet takes on added significance when compared with previous reports compiled in precisely the same manner over a substantial period of years.

Oil Trade Deadlocked On Terms of Code

WASHINGTON, July 27.—(INS.)—Deadlocked at several points, representatives of independent oil producers and of the American Petroleum Institute gathered on one committee today were endeavoring to reach a solution which can be reported to the general hearing when it resumes Monday.

C. L. Suhr, Oil City, Pa., was a member of the committee, which included C. E. Arnott, New York, A. P. I.; F. C. Hart, Quincy, Mass., Independent Oil Marketers' Association; Russell Williams, Indiana Oil Association; S. Messer, Oil City, National Petroleum Association; Tom Glasgow, Charlotte, N. C., Virginia-Carolinas Association; R. B. Jones, Wichita Falls, Texas, Texas Petroleum Marketers' Association; Ray Starnes and Frank Baneman, with Philip Kemp, appointed by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national administrator, as impartial chairman.

"You took one great segment of this thing out of here and worked it out in the last two or three days on the question of labor. I cannot see any reason why we are going to have any insuperable difficulty in working out the question of marketing, because we are doing that every day, so far as it involves merchandising."

He said he was not willing to admit that there was not sufficient self-government in the oil industry to work out regulations also on refining and withdrawals from storage. He admitted that the question involved "is something we have not been up against."

On the problem of marketing, Johnson said he believed "we can work out something." He said by Monday night when he asked the committee to report, he hoped the committee would have the solution.

OBITUARY

Kirkpatrick Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Jane Kirkpatrick, who died at her home in New Bedford, near New Castle, yesterday, will be held there at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Interment will be in Uniondale Cemetery, North Side.

She was a member of the Sixth United Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, and the United Presbyterian Women's Association, and was a director of Columbia Hospital.

She leaves two sisters, Miss Frances and Miss Clara Calderwood, of New Castle, and a brother, A. J. Calderwood, of Grove City College.

Koch Funeral.

Funeral services for Charles Frederick Koch, 66, who died Tuesday at his home, 124 Margaret street, Mt. Oliver, will be held from there tomorrow afternoon.

Mr. Koch was for many years a physical education teacher in Pittsburgh schools. He was a member of Milnor Lodge No. 287, F. & A. M.; St. Clair Royal Arch, Chapter No. 305; Pittsburgh Commandery No. 1; the Pennsylvania Consistory; Syria Shrine; the Almas Club, of Dormont, and the Birmingham Turners.

He leaves a widow.

Mrs. Hattie Koehler.

Mrs. Hattie Koehler, 83, died yesterday in her home, 5156 Dearborn street. She was the widow of John Koehler. Mrs. Koehler was born in Saxonburg, Butler County, and came to Pittsburgh in 1873.

She was a member of the East End Christian Church. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Clara Gish, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Alice Cote, of Akron, O. Funeral services will be held in her home Saturday at 3 p. m.

John E. O'Hare.

John E. O'Hare, 40, of 1818 Chateau street, a World War veteran, died yesterday in St. John's Hospital. He was a lifelong resident of Pittsburgh.

He was a member of Company F, Fifth Engineers' Training Regiment and served overseas.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Frances T. O'Hare; two brothers and a sister. Funeral services will be held Saturday in St. Andrew's Catholic Church, Beaver avenue.

Floyd C. Lyon.

He was treasurer of the Standard Office Supply Company.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon in the Lyon home.

He leaves his wife, two daughters, Miss Rhoda and Miss Mary Kathryn, and two sons, Alexander and George.

St. Paul Withdraws Request for Loan

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad has withdrawn from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation its application for a $9,000,000 loan to help in meeting its financial requirements for the balance of 1933.

REMEMBER WHEN This was the Sharpsburg-Aspinwall Road?

MRS. CHARLES H. BEUCHLER AND HER SON, JOSEPH ON THE SHARPSBURG-TO-ASPINWALL ROAD BACK IN 1903

The narrow, unpaved road that connected the boroughs of Sharpsburg and Aspinwall 30 years ago. Master Joseph is now Dr. Joseph Beuchler. This picture, one of a series in the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph, was lent by Charles H. Beuchler.

Have You Any 'Remember When' Pictures?

"Remember When" pictures—the older the better—may be submitted by mail to the REMEMBER WHEN EDITOR, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., with full explanations for consideration as suitable for publication on this page. Pictures of groups of more than six people are unacceptable. WARNING: Write name and complete address on the back of each picture to assure safe return.

CHAPTER XIII.

A patient hand was raised in the air by Mulrooney as though he were a crossing policeman halting traffic. It was a square-palmed hand with stubby fingers and fine reddish hairs on the back.

"Now folks—you're just wasting time for everybody," he said almost pleadingly. "This stalling ain't getting you nowhere at all. Myself, I'd like to finish up and get home. If you think it's any fun for me to stay up all night arguing, you're crazy. I'm a family man. Got a wife and four kids. The missus was complaining the other day that I'm practically a stranger in my own home. Of course, I can sit up all night questioning you if you insist, but I don't mind telling you it cuts into my rest something fierce. I gotta be on duty at 8 o'clock in the morning while people like you two sleep till noon if you like."

Cavanaugh had always prided himself as a judge of character, but he was unable to tell whether Mulrooney was kidding him or not. The professional manner of a detective had faded from the man entirely and left him as human and ordinary as a corner groceryman.

"I am tired—I would like to go home," said Leni from her tightly-strung throat. "Can't we talk this over tomorrow?"

"No, you'd both get together and hatch out some new story for me to start untangling again," the other said wearily. "I'd rather wind everything up right now—that's the sensible way."

The eyes of the detective behind their blandness were pools of lurking shrewdness.

"I'll ask you plain questions, Cavanaugh, and I want plain answers. Did you kill that man?"

"No!"

"But you talked to him this evening, didn't you?"

"You knew he meant harm to Miss Luneska — blackmail or something?"

"Nothing was said about blackmail."

Mulrooney sighed. "All right—we'll drop that for a minute. Now about the safe robbery. What do you know about that?"

"Not a thing in the world."

"I've been in this detective business so long that it becomes natural for me to know when a man is lying," Mulrooney stated in a relaxed voice. "You don't fool me, Cavanaugh. You're a gambler and you've been a pretty close friend of a lot of the boys on the wrong side of the law. Probably you've been mixed up in a few deals yourself. But you've never been in a serious spot like this before with murder and burglary hangover your head. In a way you're sort of an amateur—no offense intended—and you're mixed up with a very beautiful woman, but you're not fooling me. You wouldn't fool the District Attorney and you wouldn't fool a jury."

There was no quick and easy answer to the detective's homely wisdom. A new thought flashed upon Cavanaugh.

"I don't think I'll say anything further until I talk to my lawyer," he announced.

LENI INTERRUPTED

Again Mulrooney shook his head disapprovingly. "That's doing it the hard way," he put forth. "You take the attitude that I'm your enemy. I'm not. I can throw you in jail and pour it on you tough—but I don't see how that would help you any, if you're innocent. I'm not trying to get you in trouble—I'm trying to get you out of trouble."

Something of Cavanaugh's old aplomb came back at this and he smiled. "Starting a revolution in the police department?" he inquired.

"No, just trying to save trouble all around," Mulrooney explained. "You think I'm sap enough to try to hang this job on innocent people. Not on your life. We got trouble enough trying to convict crooks without trying to send honest people to prison."

Leni began to talk and Cavanaugh sprang to his feet like a shot. "Wait a minute! This man's a detective. He's not your friend—he's not anybody's friend. He's in a different kind of business. He'll take what you tell him and twist it around—"

"Wait a minute — please!"

Again Mulrooney made the traffic officer's signal with his hand. "You oughtn't say harsh things like that about me. I'm trying to be nice to you folks but you're making it awfully tough for me, Cavanaugh. Just settle down in your chair and act like home folks. Keep right on talking, Miss Luneska."

REPEATS HER STORY

"Please sit down, dear," she said quickly. "Our fate has passed out of our own hands. I'm too tired to keep up pretenses any longer. It's not worth the struggle. Listen, Mr. Mulrooney——"

In a low voice that throbbed now and again with violin tones Leni Luneska for the second time that night began the dreary rehearsal of her life with Karl Kruger. She had told everything to Lucky Cavanaugh and now she was repeating it all to Mulrooney.

Her life stood open like the pages of a tragic book. Cavanaugh, listening, lost all trace of apprehension on his own account. The beating of his heart was simply from pity. More than anything else he wanted to take her into his arms—to shield her as he would a child. A hot resentment burned in his breast against life itself. Life was a rotten business to hurt a woman like Leni Luneska. Even a dog deserved better treatment!

Mulrooney listened with a vague expression on his face that might have meant sympathy—or satisfaction. When she had finished he turned his unclouded eyes upon Cavanaugh.

"I wonder," he said thoughtfully, "if you're as game as this little woman has been? It takes a lot of nerve to lay all the cards on the table."

Leni was back in her chair, the opera cloak once more enfolded around her shoulders. At last she was really still. The vibrations were stopped. The violin was silent.

There was no point now, Cavanaugh realized, in concealing anything farther from Mulrooney. What he had to tell was a mere formality. The real struggle would come later.

CONCEALS IDENTITY

Yet in one detail he found it impossible to tell the whole truth. He did not betray Slug—the man who had given him the jimmy and directed him to the penthouse upon the roof. Only in the matter of identification, however, did he hold anything back.

"What was the name of the fellow that gave you the jimmy?" Mulrooney pressed him.

"Could you identify him?"

Mulrooney waived the point.

"Whether you've told me the truth or not, Cavanaugh, you're in a tough spot," he said seriously. "We could come pretty close to sending you to prison for a long stretch. We probably couldn't convict Miss Luneska as an accessory, but if this ever came out in the newspapers she'd be dead as a mackrel in the pictures. I don't like the responsibility."

"The responsibility of ruining a woman's life and sending you to jail," replied Mulrooney sternly. "I'm sorry for both of you, but sympathy is not in my department. With me it's a matter of routine duty. My job calls for taking you both down to headquarters and booking you on felony charges."

Cavanaugh could not tear his eyes away from the man's face. It was an actual fact that he was not thinking about himself—but about Leni Luneska. As nearly as possible for a human being he had put self-interest out of his mind.

"You've been talking a lot about your wife and your family, and honesty—I can't believe you'd be skunk enough to do a thing like that to a decent woman," he said in a measured voice.

"I'd hate it like hell," admitted Mulrooney. "Sometimes I get awful sick of this business I'm in—but we've got to have policemen. Don't think I get any pleasure out of this job."

He got to his feet heavily and made a futile effort to shake the wrinkles out of his gray worsted suit. Crossing the room he reached a window and tossed his cigar stub down to the street. The eyes of Cavanaugh and Leni Luneska were on his broad back—the slightly stooped shoulders of an ordinary man with four children and a wife who complained he was a stranger in the home. For a while Mulrooney did not turn, but stood silently looking out into the Hollywood night.

"If there is any way we can settle this thing quietly—" Cavanaugh began in a subtly hopeful voice, but Mulrooney turned and silenced him.

"I know what you're thinking before you say it," he said calmly. "You're wondering if you can put the fix on me. I'm the only one you would have to square. Me, I stand between you both and safety. You both probably got plenty of money and it would be awfully simple if I'd listen to reason. I'm sorry, but that kind of business ain't in my department either."

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her jailbird husband. He insists upon recognition as her husband. Lucky Cavanaugh, handsome gambler, tries to make Kruger leave. Kruger empties his gun at Cavanaugh without effect, then rushes into the next office in a rage. He surprises burglars looting a safe and is shot dead. Later as Leni and Cavanaugh are about to leave the theater to avoid questioning, Detective Mulrooney stops them. They deny knowing Kruger, Cavanaugh telling a plausible story of how he and Leni met, fell in love, and were running away from Leni's elderly escort. Lucky cautions Leni against talking.

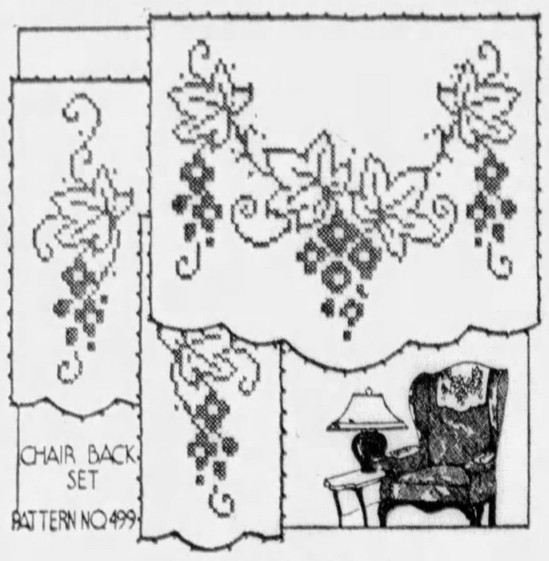
CHAIR SETS ARE THE VOGUE



By LAURA WHEELER

In the good old Victorian days, chairs were fitted not only for comfort, but for durability as well. The back and the arms, where the wear was greatest, were covered with doilies of some sort. Though we may think that much of the Victorian taste was stodgy, we have found that many of their ideas were not only practical but ornamental. So today we revive the style of covering our chairs with decorative cross-stitch chair-back and arm rests. These simple cross-stitch designs can be done on white, natural or ecru linen, in a color to match the chair or in black or brown, and finished with a picot crochet or buttonhole edge in the same color. Pattern No. 499 consists of a chair-back design 12½x15 inches and two arm rests 5½x12 inches. The pattern comes to you with detailed directions for making the set and necessary yardage.

Send 15c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

BRIEF ITEMS

Capt. Mary Elizabeth Hayes, of 409 Seventh avenue, Carnegie, who reads the Mail Box every day, and who has sent in 16 pledges, says:

"We have some very good times. We have had four parties. Each member has a turn and then we start over. I am planning a weiner roast. We will have races and prizes and roast weiners and have a lot of fun."

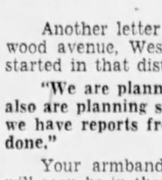
There's a letter today from Capt. Ed Cottage, of 1645 Merchant street, Ambridge. He is captain of "The Boys of the Junior Patrol" and gets an armband too. He enclosed the pledge slips he forgot in his first letter.



We have mailed lots of armbands this week. After he is elected, every Captain should send the complete roll of the members in his Patrol, and the name of his Patrol, into headquarters.

Inquiry from Lieut. Betty Dickey, of 1714 Cecil alley, Sharpsburg, No, Betty, we do not have armbands for Lieutenants. Maybe later on, but not now. But there isn't any reason why each Patrol can't make its own badges. The Captain's armbands are special, and we are giving them only to Captains.

IMPORTANT NOTICE!!!

Fellows, whether you belong to the Junior Patrol yet or not, you can exchange COUPONS for a STRIP OF EIGHT TICKETS good for the amusements at WEST VIEW PARK, National Kiddies' Day, TUESDAY, AUGUST 1.

Today Junior and his pals decided to let all kids come to the Junior Patrol Picnic. Now any fellow can get them by mailing in three coupons for every eight tickets, OR HE CAN TAKE HIS COUPON SETS TO THE EXCHANGE STATION IN HIS NEIGHBORHOOD.

Read the big ad about the picnic in another part of the paper today. The Sun-Telegraph will announce where to take coupons to exchange them for tickets tomorrow. THE COUPON TODAY IS IN THE BIG AD. But remember, in exchange for every strip of tickets, you must have three coupons each with a different number.

Now let's go, fellows. Show this Mail Box to your mother and dad—get them to take you to the picnic! This is a fine chance for every Captain to add new members to his Patrol. He can tell his friends about the FREE COUPONS and they can join his Patrol going to the picnic! IT'S GOING TO BE GRAND FUN FOR EVERYBODY.

Fellows, if you turn in 999 coupons, you will get 333 strips of tickets. There is no limit on the number which you can turn in, or mail in to the Sun-Telegraph. Coupon Number Six is printed today. Save them, get your neighbors to save them for you, and for every set of three with different numbers you bring in, you'll get the tickets.

Another letter today, from Capt. Myrtle Blakley, of 233 Lakewood avenue, West View, tells us all that we have a fine Patrol started in that district. Myrtle says:

"We are planning to have many good parties and outings. We also are planning some hikes and beneficial meetings. Every month we have reports from the girls telling of the good deeds they have done."

Your armband, and the pledges and pins for your members, will soon be in the mail, Myrtle.

There are a bunch of fine letters which we haven't had room to print. Give us time—we'll get around to more of them soon!

Rox Reynolds, recuperating in Anaconda, Mont., sends us this clipping from the Anaconda Standard—

Alderman O'Brien asked permission of the council to take steps to have a pair of handcuffs returned which were purchased by the city some months ago and which he said former Policeman Christ Hansen has. He said these cost the city $8.50 or $9 a pair. The motion to have the police committee get the handcuffs was passed on motion of Alderman Riley.

He adds that Montana is a place where you can see further and see less than in any state in the Union.

Q. & A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Madam Bella—

Ans.—Let's eat.

Aunt ("Swiss-on-Rye") Bella.

How to Use a Bicycle As Defense Weapon.

Many parents ask us: "Is it safe for my boy or my daughter to ride a bicycle on the highways?"

It is a question we cannot, will not dodge. We would like to answer the question by asking another question. Does your boy or daughter know how to employ the bicycle as a weapon of defense. This, it seems to us, is the nub, or essence, of the problem.

All the cyclist has to remember is: Trust nobody. When confronted by a ruffian follow the course illustrated above. Bring the cycle to an upright position, balancing on the rear wheel. Take care that the bicycle is between you and the ruffian, serving as a shield. Then nimbly alight and take the aggressive. Push the bicycle at the assailant, striking him full in the face, and, if possible, employ the revolving front tire to catch the fellow under the nose. The rapid motion of the tire tread, revolving rapidly, will act as a grindstone. And when the cyclist has the assailant's nose to the grindstone, let the cyclist, without pause, deliver a heavy blow with fist at the assailant's abdomen. By this time the encounter is practically over and it is time for all concerned to "shake" and call it "quits."

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

The Symbol

You are the symbol, nothing more
Of something not on sea or shore.
Some fairer thing than man has gained.
The dream forever unattained.
You are the symbol, and through you
The beauty not of earth we woo;
Not that of self, but selfless grace
Is written on your form and face.

As haunting melodies suggest
A far and half-remembered quest
Across strange seas and lands unknown
Where once the seeking soul has flown.
So you call forth dim memories
Of loveliness none can express

It's Flood Tide Right Now

Looking over the tolerance displayed by the repealed states we find there has been no compulsory drinking.

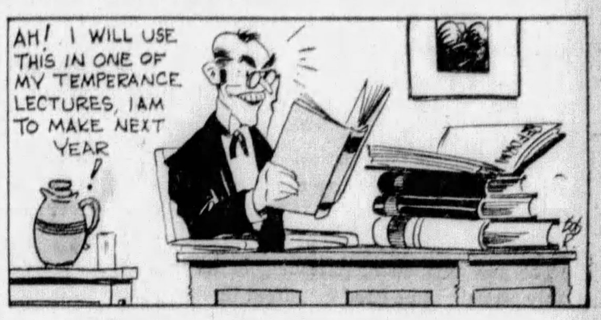
There has been a trifle of retaliatory treating. We haven't got the exact figures right on hand.

But, taking it all at once, or little by little, we would say the community spirit has been fair, impartial and thirsty. Increased taxes show the boys are busy blowing the foam off the budget.

The stein clinker has arrived at his ultimate consumer's destination. He is giving vent to no gloating over the crumpled reformer. He figures all is well, and, like the stuff Singin' Sam sings about, you don't have to rub it in.

We figure that this state of truce will not last long. The reformer is brushing up on his topics. About next year, this time, we hope to hear our first temperance lecture of the new era.

We hope to see our first horrible example. And to weep better than 3.2 tears as he tells the story of warped youth, blighted manhood and frustrated ambition.



All this will come to pass, unless, like the stage, the horrible example will discover that he cannot compete with the moving pictures.

But, the lecturers are certain to arrive. They haven't been doing much since they talked themselves loose from their jobs in 1920.

After that long lay-off they should be in better voice than ever. The time is not yet ripe for the deluge of arid oratory as the nation still retains its beer complex. We have been astonished and statistically jumbled by the states which have suffraged for repeal.

Some of these commonwealths were drier than salt on a cracker. Even the most cheerful wets never thought Iowa would legalize the effervescent keg. And, just to slap a bonnet on the climax, New Hampshire also added hoss racing.

Which proves that the erratic old pendulum of public whims has swung in the other direction. The wise reformer who earns his cakes on the platform will throttle his talk until it swings back. Do nothing until you hear from us.

Not at Public Expense

Running for office in Allegheny County is no part-time occupation. If the candidate throws himself into the fight heart and soul, 24 hours a day are hardly sufficient for all the various forms of electioneering in which he will feel it desirable to engage.

The County Commissioners, on motion of Chairman Charles C. McGovern, have wisely decided to require county employes who are candidates for offices to be filled in the approaching election, to take leaves of absence without pay while they are campaigning.

This is no more than justice—justice to the taxpayers, who should not be expected to pay the salaries of public employes when they are not working directly for the public, at least not at the jobs for which they are paid, but for themselves.

The new regulation, refreshing in its novelty, may conceivably restrain some good men from throwing their hats into the ring, but we do not believe any considerable number of the citizens will lie awake nights worrying about that.

On the contrary, we believe that the people would welcome the announcement that the new rule was to apply to city as well as county employes.

A Cog in a System

Col. Succop Is Not Believed to Have Profited Personally By His Irregularities.

The State Board of Pardons is deliberating the case of Col. Bertram L. Succop, former director of the city department of supplies, whose plea for parole from a year's sentence was argued last week. Col. Succop already has served nearly half the sentence imposed after his conviction at Butler on indictments growing out of the improper award of contracts for city purchases.

Col. Succop was a cog in a political system, and it was not alleged during the trial, nor even in gossip, that he personally profited from any of the transactions involved in the indictments. He violated the law, but, consistent with his commendable war record, he took his punishment without whimpering.

The Sun-Telegraph would not think of advising the Pardon Board. But if the board should parole Col. Succop the Sun-Telegraph believes that action would be favorably received by the public generally, which was not so much concerned with sending anyone to jail as with seeing a loose and dangerous system of awarding city contracts ended.

Approaching the Goal

Extension of the Allegheny National Forest Will Be Accelerated by Executive Order.

By executive order of President Roosevelt, $20,000,000 of National Industrial Recovery funds has been allocated for the purchase of additional lands for incorporation in the national forests in the eastern states.

That is of direct interest to Pittsburgh, because it will make possible the extension of the Allegheny National Forest, which is one of the supplementary instrumentalities with which the Flood Commission of Pittsburgh plans to protect the city from high water. (Chief reliance is to be placed on storage reservoirs, which the commission also expects to get through the National Industrial Recovery program.)

The Weeks Act, authorizing the federal government to establish forests at the headwaters of the rivers in the Appalachian Mountains to regulate the stream flow, was passed in 1911. The Forest Service authorities at Washington were eager to establish a forest in the upper Allegheny Valley, but we suffered a delay of many years through the unwillingness of the commonwealth to let the national government buy large tracts of land in Pennsylvania unless the commonwealth should have the right, if it desired, to buy the land back.

Happily the enabling act which the Forest Service insisted upon was finally passed, and the long delay is being compensated for by the rapidity with which the forest land is being acquired.

In its last annual report the National Forest Reservation Commission gave the area of the Allegheny National Forest as 369,276 acres, and last month the purchase of 4,815 additional acres was approved.

The gross area marked out for the forest is 740,000 acres, but this includes more than 100,000 acres of town sites, farm land, state game preserves, the Bradford city watershed, and other tracts devoted to special uses—lands which the government does not desire.

At the present rate of purchase the goal of about 600,000 acres will be attained in a few years. This will give Pittsburgh not only assistance in the prevention of floods, but a splendid playground for those who enjoy camping, hunting, fishing and similar outdoor recreations.

Food Law Arrests

The Large Number of Prosecutions Is a Testimonial to the Alertness of the State Agents.

The State Bureau of Foods and Chemistry reports that 152 arrests were made last month for violation of Pennsylvania's pure food laws—a record number.

Prosecutions were initiated for selling stale eggs as fresh, for using preservatives in fresh meat, for artificially coloring cherries, crackers, doughnuts and beverages, for selling milk, butter and ice cream that fell below the required standards, and for various other offenses.

It is lamentable that so many food dealers should have tried to cheat the people. But it is reassuring to know that the state's pure food agents are on the alert.

SUN-TELEGRAPH'S PLATFORM

For Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania

A better, cleaner, more beautiful city.
Improved transit facilities.
Establishment of Pittsburgh metropolitan district.
Voting machines to insure honest elections.
Complete utilization of water resources
Electrification of railroads.

Ol' Man River

By Nelson Harding

The Dry Fanatics
Dislike acquatics,
But the freshet gets 'em
As Ol' Man River,
Just keeps rollin',
Just keeps rollin' along.

Their best dykes crumble
And strongholds tumble,
While the flood gets wetter
As Ol' Man River
Just keeps rollin',

The Human Side of the News

Somerset Maugham's New Play—A True Man of the World—Edwin Markham's Famous Poem—His New Offering

By EDWIN C. HILL

THERE are few more interesting people on the good, green earth than William Somerset Maugham. He sings his swan song as a dramatist in a play which London acclaims as a supreme piece of craftsmanship. "For Services Rendered," it is called, a bitter and depressing drama of the effects of the great war. Undoubtedly we shall see it over here before long.

Maugham is of the breed who are lifelong slaves of the red gods—the breed of Conrad and Stevenson. A man of the world in a literal sense—a cosmopolite through and through. Linguist, traveler, word painter. A mild, unassuming and tolerant Englishman of 58, he has gone up and down the globe, notebook in hand, like a visitor from Mars; amused, observant, detached. He has jotted down his impressions of Mayfair drawing rooms, of the islands of the South Seas, of the jungles of Borneo and of the various humans who live therein.

A Physician In London Slums

BORN in Paris, educated in Canterbury and Heidelberg, he started life by practicing medicine in the slums of London. It was there he acquired the gentle cynicism which marks his work. Not so much cynicism, perhaps, as a protective veneer against the injustices and brutalities of life. He doesn't think of himself as a cynic. On a recent visit he told me: "I have always thought myself truthful and written only as I have seen."

Almost the leading playwright of the day, who has had four successful plays running in London at one time, he keeps in the background of publicity and has a way of turning up in most unexpected corners of the earth.

He wrote a story called "Miss Thompson." He didn't think so much of it. He didn't see how it could be dramatized—skilled playwright as he was. But John Colton thought differently. Colton took the story, "Miss Thompson," and made a play of it. You have heard of that play. It was "Rain" on the stage and "Sadie Thompson" in the pictures. On Broadway, when the late Jeanne Eagles flamed in the cast, it ran for 648 performances.

A man of medium height, with graying hair brushed back and a close-trimmed mustache, Somerset Maugham now presents his final play—not to amuse but to shock with the bitter truth.

Edwin Markham's Famous Poem

THE operations of sheer chance—the thing we call luck—incessantly fascinates me. The careers that are born, the fortunes that are made, the great reputations that spring from happy accident, prove every day in the year what part luck plays in the affairs of men.

One day away back in 1899 a tall, bearded school teacher in Oakland, California, was invited to a party. He was the headmaster of a private school, dabbling in poetry after teaching hours—verses that nobody wanted, that no editor would buy. He took to the party a new set of verses he had moulded under the lamplight, and when his chance came he stood up, this gaunt, bearded schoolmaster, and read his poem with fire and fervor.

It just happened that a reporter for the San Francisco Examiner was in the party and heard the teacher recite his striking lines with all the power of his soul. The reporter liked the poem so much that he told the author he would do his best to get it printed in the Examiner. So Edwin Markham, needing money pretty badly, gave the verses to the Examiner man, who took them to his editor.

* * *

How It Came To Be Printed

THE verses were set up in type, and there they lay for weeks, ignored and forgotten. But one night the makeup editor of the Examiner had a hole to fill in his home gardening page. He had to fill it in a hurry because edition time was minutes away, crowding him hard. He pawed over the galley proofs until he came to a proof upon which this had been penciled: "Dump this junk into some bulldog edition when you get a chance. The author is a friend of P. B."

So the make-up editor found the type from which the proof had been struck and dumped it into the hole in his garden page and the next day half San Francisco was telephoning to the Examiner office to praise "The Man with the Hoe," and its author, Edwin Markham.

The fame of the poem and of Markham swept the country. Probably half a million copies were sold. The hardup schoolteacher was suddenly elevated to fortune and celebrity. And now he offers a new poem. "The Forgotten Man," which he dedicates to the Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Deferred Honeymoons

* * *

But, by the time the bride has rushed around to shops and fittings, and been "showered" and lunched and tea-ed for weeks and weeks, and the bridegroom has been through the whoopee of the bachelor supper and the torments and wrack of the show wedding, and the big reception and the headaches are over, the two young poor things are so frazzled out that they practically hate the whole world and act like a couple of files on each other's nerves.

Of course, if a girl and a man are getting married for convenience or for experiment or for money or a title and don't particularly CARE about each other, a big wedding and a smart honeymoon trip are just part of the stage effects. But if they love each other, they are eager to settle down and begin living the life they have PLANNED together, as soon as possible.

* * *

But, there's the honeymoon trip! Two (or three or four) long weeks of each other's undiluted society, in a stuffy hotel or on an ocean liner or somewhere out in the wilds are enough to make even a pair of archangels glower and snap at each other over their morning coffee.

Two long weeks of nothing to do but ga-ga at each other and use up all the HONEY and kisses that, if spread out judiciously, might have sweetened a whole year.

* * *

Two long weeks in which to turn the microscope of proximity on each other and discover all the little flaws and failings, which they might never have noticed.

* * *

Honeymoon trips are the bunk! If anything could stifle love, they would. And many a wife shudders and sighs all her life at the sight of a postcard from Niagara Falls or the Grand Canyon.

* * *

The time for a honeymoon trip is a year, or so after the wedding, when two people know and understand each other and have adjusted their temperaments and learned to enjoy things together. And, by that time, they'd really be able to SEE the scenery when they looked at it!

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 27.—No one writing fiction successfully today salvages so much fun out of the business of living as Arthur Somers Roche. He more than any writer rides life at full tide. From Palm Beach to Newport to the Riviera, he dances with elfin gaiety. This season he has one of the finest estates at Sand's Point.

Lean, bitter years when editorial indifference and Park Row's most enormous thirst nearly untrussed him would have soured many. But not Roche. He went off into the Maine woods and in the agony of frustration turned out his mystery thriller, "Loot." From then on he made existence a picnic.

With his success came a sobriety that even rebels at wine sauce on a pudding. Yet he's always the life of the party. Once a shy fellow of neurotic remoteness, he now plunges into every sport from ping-pong to polo. And wherever he is, his home is filled with brilliant week-end guests.

The day after he receives a publisher's check it is gone. He may rent a Brittany chateau for a season, arrive with his entourage and three days later be sailing back to America. His father before him, James Jeffery Roche, distinguished poet and traveler, was the same sort of nomad.

* * *

I lived in the same hotel with Arthur Somers Roche shortly after he emerged from his chrysalis of despair. He was blinking at a suddenly friendly world wherein magazines were clamoring for his stuff. With a smile the frangibility of coral, he fled from a stranger and would not ride in elevators or go higher than the first floor of a building. It's difficult to contrast this lassitude with his energy today.

* * *

Valentine Williams, the novelist, has a grewsome but nevertheless sincere way of showing friendship. Of those he is fond he puts into his books and has them murdered. He discovered nothing thrills them so much. Wilkie Collins had a close friend whose name he used as a blundering detective. The gentleman was a distinguished barrister, but thrilled to the travesty.

* * *

Every writer has an Old Reliable he can use in emergencies. Mine is generally Verne Porter. Although he frequently appears in the column as a loutish dolt, he is a brilliant magazine editor with a John Barrymore profile and a wardrobe that would give Jimmy Walker a twitch.

* * *

Thingumabobs: Henry L. Doherty, in deep meditation, runs his fingers through his hair and hisses through his teeth . . . The late Addison Mizner raised the finest Chow dogs in America . . . Corey Ford's summer home at Freedom, N. H., is called "Stony Broke" . . . Charlie Chaplin's first stage appearance was as "Willie, the Office Boy" in "Sherlock Holmes" . . . A careless printer in her first program made Mary Robinson, her real name, May Robson . . . Miss Robson, incidentally, collects fountain pens as a hobby . . . Jack Dempsey's closest friend is Abe Lyman, the orchestra leader . . . It costs $25,000 to make a Mickey Mouse.

* * *

On stage or screen this would be hooted. Yet I know it to be true and also one of the principals. They met after theater at a penthouse party for the first time. Neither was enjoying the affair so he suggested a walk on the terrace. A brilliant moon. "I wonder if meeting only an hour ago we could be happy together," he wondered. "I wonder," she wondered. "Let's try," he said. Three days later they married and this was seven weeks ago.

* * *

Westbrook Pegler, who juggles politics and sports with a journalistic brilliancy, has a home on the Connecticut countryside fashioned entirely of rock and an open hearth that suggests poetry, pewter tankards and a night of yearning. Around it week-ends gather perhaps the most representative gathering of litterateurs along the Atlantic seaboard. Here literature is held in the proportionate veneration the theater was at Charles and Mary Lamb's.

* * *

In Manhattan the most earnest practitioners of belles-lettres lunch at the Coffee House Club. As a reporter I met Arnold Bennett there. His stammering at first was pathetic, but as he expanded it was not noticed. A brilliant mind overshadows any affliction.

* * *

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

A trickle of water seeps from the south spring, loiters along the edge of the pine woods, then breaks—tinkling, murmuring—into the open field.

It is only a tiny stream, no wider than my hand; a thin glint of light, nearly hidden in the tangled grass. But if you will lie beside it for a quiet hour, you will discover many things.

With the years, the thread of water has cut a narrow bed for itself. In some places, it runs through the red loam. There the water is a ruddy gold, dappled with sunny flecks, that flow and part and flow again, like drops of mercury. In other places, the bed is cut through quartz and granite sand, and the water is a shining gray, shot with gleams of mica.

Many things root in the tangle that borders the streams. Damp mosses, with their pads of emerald plush. Delicate grasses, with stems fragile as spun glass, and quivering seed pods like small, crystal beads. And other grasses, of a harsher green, with lusty, thrusting stems jointed like bamboo. And weeds with red, gnarled roots. And frail ferns, with hair-thin stems as black as ebony.

Yet, lying close, with your face at their level, you see that nothing is just green, or red, or black. Everything is shot with light, drenched with color. Along green grass blades, there run veins of turquoise blue. The crystal seeds are garnet in the sun. The gnarled, red roots are splashed with violet, and each black stem is spattered with pale gold.

And here, too, is a wilderness of flowers. Scarlet "snapdragons," spurting tongues of flame. Blue "star flowers," smallest of the iris clan. A tiny, nameless thing, inch high, with seed-pearl bells. A swaying bloom of rosy lavender, with silky petals, so transparent that the light streams through them.

Above the tangled web of grass and flowers there hangs a twinkling mist of small, blue butterflies. And, with them, rises golden pollen powder—and swirls of bubbles from the fluttering wings.

Unseen, but sharply urgent, comes the smell of mountain earth—that soil which is the dust of blossoms, fragrant gums and aromatic leaves, crumbled to ash beneath long, summer fire.

Light, fragrance, color, and sweet tinkling sound. All these one finds, framing an urgent life—a tiny, gay, fierce world, as real as that which men inhabit. Love, hunger, hate; soft dreams and sudden forays; birth, death, and resurrection, maybe. But always, Growth. All these are here, strung on that sparkling thread.

A tiny stream, no wider than my hand—but if you'll lie beside it for a quiet hour you will discover many things.

Some lives are like that stream—obscure; half lost beneath the larger plans; lacking, it seems, in beauty or significance. Yet, if you'll live beside them for a quiet space, you may discover secret loveliness—and strange campaigns.

Text for Today Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.—Psalms, xlii:11.

ENVIOUS OF MOTHER?

By Winifred Black

What on earth is the matter with Isabell?

She used to be a nice little thing, warm hearted, impulsive and rather unusually intelligent.

She's the only daughter of her mother, and her mother is not what you might call well. In fact, Isabell's mother is losing her sight, and she doesn't seem to be very happy about it.

Isabell doesn't live at home with her mother. She doesn't even live in the same city with her. Isabell saw to that the minute she got out of the expensive school to which her mother had sent her.

Isabell's mother is very fond of Isabell. But somehow Isabell does not seem to be at all fond of her mother.

She acts sometimes, almost as if she tried very hard to see what she could do to make her mother unhappy.

Isabell's mother met an old friend the other day at a friend's house, and the friend's friend said:

"I met Isabell the other day, and had a lovely talk with her. What interesting work she's doing, aren't you thrilled about it?"

"Yes, I am," said Isabell's mother, very quickly.

But she was not thrilled about it at all, for the simple reason that she didn't know a thing of it. She hadn't the faintest idea what the work was, for Isabell had never written her a word of it.

"Yet, as it turned out, it was exactly the kind of thing that would have warmed the heart of Isabell's mother, if the girl had written home and told her something about it.

And this is something else, too, that's queer about Isabell and her mother. Isabell's mother took a long time to find out about it, but now she knows.

She must never tell Isabell of anything nice that has happened to her, she must not say anything about a pleasant day with an old friend, or an affectionate letter from someone she has known for years, or a word of praise for some little kindly thing she has tried to do.

Isabell does not like to hear that her mother is happy and prosperous, and that she has good friends.

They tell me there are a good many Isabell's in this strange world of ours today—girls who seem to hate to think that their mothers are happy, or that anyone else appreciates and loves them.

Do you know any such girls as this, and if you do how in the name of common sense do you explain them?
